Dear Steve:

I have reviewed your suggestion for designating the Chamberlain Basin as a wilderness.

I am fully aware of the importance of the Chamberlain Basin as the heart of one of Idaho's finest primitive areas. The Basin is recognized as a major spawning area for salmon, steelheads and other fish, as well as a grazing area for several major elk herds.

Given the importance of the Chamberlain Basin to the overall integrity of the area in question, I have decided that it should be designated as a wilderness area.

Upon the return of the Congress, I will recommend that my original proposal be amended to reflect this decision.

I appreciate your bringing this matter to our attention, and I believe that the inclusion of the Chamberlain Basin will result in a more certain preservation of the natural treasures of this area.

Sincerely,

The Honorable Steven D. Symms
