MINORITY

Sen. Dewey Bartlett
(Okla.)

Feels Ford's program to have a "disastrous negative impact" upon the "goal of increasing the supply of domestic energy. The program means higher costs to consumers and effectively lower prices to producers. It guarantees consumers less energy supplies instead of more energy supplies at a time of a severe energy shortage when imports of high cost foreign crude oil, because of the unfavorable balance of trade, and for other reasons must be reduced sharply. The administration's program aggravates our energy shortages."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen
(Tex.)

Comments on his bill, S. 312, "Americans in the last 12 months --because inflation has placed them in higher tax brackets-- have had their taxes increased by over $10 billion. A tax reduction will effectively repeal the tax increase resulting from inflation and restore this purchasing power to those who have suffered most from inflation. This is the only recession in our history during which the tax burden was actually increasing and this increased burden has contributed to the largest 1-year decline in purchasing power since 1945." "In addition to reducing taxes for average Americans by $13 billion, my bill would collect an additional $3 billion in taxes from corporations and high income individuals through tax reform." His tax reform proposals include replacing the "minimum tax" with an alternative tax"; limitation of the percentage oil depletion allowance; reform of overseas oil and gas income, including the foreign tax credit; and overhaul of the Domestic International Sales Corporation.

Upon introducing S. 349 he states, "This legislation could save the Americans millions of barrels of oil that otherwise would be wasted. At a time when energy costs are skyrocketing, and we face an ever-deepening dependence on foreign sources of fuel, it is essential that we provide the American public sufficient information so that they can avoid energy-inefficient products. I held last year amply demonstrated, the average consumer still does.

"Under present economic conditions coastal States will have to scarp hard to finance present levels of governmental services. The failure of the Federal Government to provide these States with a fair share of revenues received from OCS activities will cause serious fiscal cries in many areas. Because of this, I am today introducing amendments to the Coastal Zone Management Act which I believe will insure the orderly expansion of needed energy resources, protect our coastal zones, and financially assist the coastal States which bear the direct impact of OCS a activities." "I have three reservations with the administration's development of the OCS leasing program: First. They have failed to coordinate leasing plans with the States which will be most seriously affected. Second. They have ignored the congressional intent expressed in the Coastal Zone Management Act which calls for coordination of Federal and State Government policies involving the coastal zone. and Third. They have not taken into account the future costs to States and local government which will result from onshore development."

Rep. Dominick Daniels
(N.J.)

Urges Ford to delay the implementation of his plan to raise the fee on all imported crude oil and petroleum products. He says the Ford measure will exacerbate the current inflation problems and while "the President has maintained that his proposals will cost the average consumer approximately $250 a year, ...the President has not considered the impact of dramatically increased energy prices in the industrial and food production sectors. It is apparent to me that these increased fuel costs will soon be reflected in higher costs for food, textiles, manufactured produces...and a wide range of consumer goods. ...These higher prices will adversely affect lower income Americans. The poor and the elderly are already bearing an intolerable economic burden resulting from the cruel combination of inflation, recession, and rising unemployment." The DANIELS resolution would ask the President to delay imposition of the tariff until after April 1, 1975.

"On his own, the President can decontrol domestic oil prices and can increase by $3 the fee on each barrel of oil imported from abroad. These two energy programs will cost American consumers billions of dollar. Gasoline prices must inevitably rise--by an expected 10 cents per gallon and maybe even more. The President has also proposed that the Congress agree to decontrol natural gas prices and enact a $2 per barrel tax on domestic oil." "In my judgment, the fundamental key to our energy problems is 6,000 miles away in the Middle East. Peace in that region constitutes our only real hope for a reliable, uninterrupted oil supply at affordable prices. Yet the President failed to offer any initiatives which might lead to peace in this region

GOVERNORS

- Gov. Hugh Carey
(N.Y.)
Said Mr. Ford "was acting outside the powers granted him by the Trade Expansion Act." Congress never intended the Act to be used for "unilateral actions of this kind."
Wall Street Journal - Jan 24
- Gov. Carey
(N.Y.)
Said the President had taken a "unilateral action" by proclaiming the $1-a-barrel fee on imported oil.
New York Times - Jan 24
- Gov. Michael S. Dukakis
(Mass.)
Felt the President was holding the Northeast hostage for this program.
Washington Post - Jan 24
- Gov. Philip W. Noel
(Rhode Island)
It was the oil companies and the oil import quota system which killed refineries in the Northeast, not the residents of the states.
Washington Post - Jan 24
- Gov. Thomas P. Salmon
(Vt.)
Branded the tariff as inflationary and recessionary. Said the Presidential action was by "administrative fiat."
Wall Street Journal - Jan 24
- Gov. Milton J. Shapp
(Pennsylvania)
"I told the President I thought his program represented a blueprint for economic disaster, that there would be a shock wave of inflation through the country greater than the one we had when the Arabs lifted their embargo."
Washington Post - Jan 24
- Gov. Sherman W. Tribbit
(Delaware)
Higher oil prices would cost his state $75 million a year, which works out to $512 per household of four.
Washington Post - Jan 24
- Northern Governors
Listing
Present at conference were Byrne of N.J.; Grasso of Conn.; Dukakis of Mass.; Longley of Maine; Noel of R.I.; Salmon of Vt.; Shapp of Penna.; Thompson, Jr. of N.H.; and Tribbitt of Del.
New York Times - Jan 24

PEOPLE OF INTEREST

Clarence Adamy
Pres. of National
Asso. of Food Chains

If President Ford's proposed energy program is implemented, it would have an immediate inflationary impact of about 2% on overall food production costs and interrupt a predicted price turnaround in mid 1975.

"We are looking forward to a break in food prices the second half of the year if there are no interruptions."
NY Times - Jan. 24.

I. W. Abel
Pres. of United Steelworkers

Tax import plan "discriminatory."
Journal of Commerce - Jan 24

Gardner Ackley
Johnson's Chairman Council of
Economic Advisors

Disagreed with timing and size of proposed rebate.
Journal of Commerce - Jan. 24.

Reginald Jones
Chairman of G.E.

Pres. Ford's proposed tax on oil imports could work hardship on business, since there is no assurance that Congress will approve an offsetting tax reduction for corporations.
Journal of Commerce - Jan 24

Paul W. McCracken
Nixon's Chairman Council of
Economic Advisors

Generally supportive of President's proposals.
Journal of Commerce - Jan. 24.

Norman Miller
Bureau Chief
WS Journal

The President has overcome the earlier indecisiveness for which he was rightly criticized. Now, win or lose on the issues he has pushed to the forefront, there is another word to characterize Mr. Ford's performance. The word is leadership.
Jan. 24

Vice President Rockefeller

Called on Congress to enact President Ford's economic and energy programs swiftly--or come up with an "equally bold program" of its own.
Washington Post - Jan 24

Charles Schultze
Budget Director
Johnson Administration

President's tax-induced increases in energy prices are a case of misplaced emphasis.
Journal of Commerce - Jan 24

Frank G. Zarb
Administrator, FEA

"The more the program and its alternatives are exposed to public debate, the more we will get agreement that this program will work best."
New York Times - Jan 24

Eric Zausner
FEA

Virtually certain that a major allocation program will require some form of rationing. Did not know what trigger point would be, but speculated that if shortage less than 500,000 barrels a day, rationing would not be needed.
Star - Jan. 24.

GENERAL TRENDS

FEA

Released a study which estimated that the President's energy program would cost the average household between $275 and $345 a year. Region by region, the Middle Atlantic States, which include the Washington area, would be second only to New England in terms of energy cost rise. Washington Post - Jan 24

Labor Leaders

Called for a $20 billion tax cut and no imports of Arab oil. Asked for oil-import quotas and an allocation and rationing program, benefits for unemployed, and public works programs. Wall Street Journal - Jan 24
