Last cabinet meeting

GENTLEMEN,

AT THE OUTSET I WOULD LIKE TO MAKE SEVERAL POINTS.

FIRST, EVERYONE HERE RECOGNIZES THE DIFFICULT POSITION
I AM IN, I AM A PARTY IN INTEREST.

SECOND, NO ONE REGRETS MORE THAN I DO THIS WHOLE
TRAGIC EPISODE. I HAVE DEEP PERSONAL SYMPATHY FOR YOU
MR. PRESIDENT, AND YOUR FINE FAMILY.

THIRD, I WISH TO EMPHASIZE THAT HAD I KNOWN AND HAD
IT BEEN DISCLOSED TO ME WHAT HAS BEEN DISCLOSED IN REFERENCE TO THE WATERGATE AFFAIR IN THE LAST TWENTY-FOUR HOURS, I WOULD NOT HAVE MADE A NUMBER OF THE STATEMENTS THAT I HAVE MADE, EITHER AS MINORITY LEADER OR AS VICE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

FOURTH, I DO NOT EXPECT TO MAKE ANY RECOMMENDATION
TODAY TO THE PRESIDENT AS TO WHAT HE SHOULD DO AND NEITHER DO I EXPECT TO MAKE ANY SUCH RECOMMENDATION TO ANY OF THE OTHERS AT THIS MEETING.

(MORE)

FIFTH, WHETHER THE FULL DISCLOSURES WILL MEET THE CONSTITUTIONAL DEFINITION OF AN IMPEACHABLE OFFENSE IS A MATTER THAT CAN ONLY BE FINALLY RESOLVED BY THE UNITED STATES
SENATE IN A PROCEEDING AS PROVIDED FOR IN THE CONSTITUTION.

FINALLY, LET ME ASSURE YOU THAT I EXPECT TO CONTINUE TO SUPPORT FULLY THE ADMINISTRATION'S FOREIGN POLICY AND FIGHT AGAINST INFLATION.

STATEMENT BY VICE PRESIDENT GERALD R. FORD

OFFICE OF THE VICE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, D.C.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
Monday, August 5, 1974

CONTACT:
Paul Miltich 456-2364

I have not listened to the tapes nor have I read the transcripts of the President's conversations with Mr. Haldeman. Without knowing what was said and the context of it my comment would serve no useful purpose and I shall have none.

Indeed, I have come to the conclusion that the public interest is no longer served by repetition of my previously expressed belief that on the basis of all the evidence known to me and to the American people the President is not guilty of an impeachable offense under the Constitutional definition of "treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors." Inasmuch as additional evidence is about to be forthcoming from the President, which he says may be damaging, I intend to respectfully decline to discuss impeachment matters in public or in response to questions until the facts are more fully available.

The whole truth should be the objective of the trial before the Senate. Under the Constitution the Vice President is relieved of his role as Presiding Officer of the Senate when it sits to try a President on impeachment charges. The wisdom of this provision is obvious, for the Vice President regardless of his personal feelings is a party of interest as the Constitutional successor if a President is removed from office. Since President Andrew Johnson was himself a Vice President who succeeded to the Presidency upon the death of Abraham Lincoln, and no provision then existed for filling a vacancy in the Vice Presidency, there are no precedents to guide me except my own common sense and my conscience. Both tell me to let my widely known views on the impeachment issue stand until I have reason to change them and to refuse further comment at this time.

There is another compelling reason for my decision. When I was nominated by the President to be Vice President ten months ago, I promised the Congress that confirmed me that I would do my very best to be a calm communicator and ready conciliator between the Executive and Legislative branches of our Federal government. I have done so. But in the impeachment process the President and the Congress are now in an adversary relationship which as deeply divides the legislators as it does the people they represent.

There are many urgent matters on America's agenda in which I hope to continue to serve this great country as a communicator and conciliator. The business of government must go on and the genuine needs of the people must be served. I believe I can make a better contribution to this end by not involving myself daily in the impeachment debate, in which I have no Constitutional role.

Vice President:people here and I welcome the old folks back again. Thank you; it's an opportunity that I look forward to to answer any questions. Yes.

Ques: Mr. Vice President. This morning in the local news here, there was a comment about the resolution introduced by Republican Paul Finley calling for a censure measure rather than impeachment. Have you ever seen anything like this happen than go through the long ordeal of the impeachment process for the nation?

Vice President: If I had my druthers, I would rather have the House of Representatives vote as I think the facts justify which is acquittal. But if you have no alternative, except a vote for impeachment or censure, certainly I would prefer the censure.

Ques: Mr. Vice President. In the past weeks there have been numerous editorials and news stories suggesting very politely that it's time for you to shut up. You have now been to three cities here in Mississippi today. On all of the occasions you did not talk about the President's impeachment problems. Have you decided to heed this advice and retire to the sidelines?

Vice President: Well, as you have noticed, I'm sure, on each of the three places I spoke in Mississippi: Golden Triangle, Jackson and here in Hattiesburg and Laurel I have spoken out very strongly on behalf of the President as the architect of peace and that he has achieved something that no other President has accomplished. In the limited time that I have in these engagements, I think that it is vitally important to speak about the affirmative things which I have done. I don't want anybody to get the wrong impression. My views are just as strong today as they were two days ago. I believe the President is innocent of any impeachable offense and I haven't changed my mind.

Ques: Are you going to continue saying this or are you going to retire to the sidelines at their suggestion?

Vice President: Well, I am going to do as I have done here in Mississippi - to come and talk with people or listen to people. If I'm asked as you have asked me, I will answer the questions on this occasion as I have in the past that I think the President is innocent but in the limited time (and I think they gave me five minutes or maybe six minutes) I had to decide what was the more important thing to say. But, I don't want any impression created that I have changed my mind about the President's innocence.

Ques: Mr. Vice President. In May of this year you stated that you thought the vote of the House would be about fifty-fifty for or against impeachment. How do you feel about it today?

Vice President: I think the situation in the House has eroded considerably. The odds are significantly changed.

Ques: Mr. Vice President. In spite of the strategy of our own Congressmen, the Southern strategy has definitely been drastically damaged by Watergate. A good example is the pro-impeachment vote of Representative Walter Flowers of Alabama. If the President is convicted in the Senate, do you feel that you can regain this loss to Southern support and if so, how will you do it?

Vice President: I've always had a great many friends in the south and the House, both democratic as well as republican. During the period that I served in the House, we went from no republicans in the ten or eleven states to, I think, 33 or 34 at the present time. I like to believe that maybe I helped in this process. I can assure you that I'm going to maximize my efforts as I think I've done today to work to elect and reelect republican members of the House. I think it's important, I think it's vital, that we have some balance in every state between democrats and republicans. in the Congress. I think it's good; I think it's healthy for America.

Ques: You stated that you think the President had eroded, had lost his strength, as I understood it, in the House.

Vice President: That's right.

Ques: Do you now think he will be impeached?

Vice President: I suspect that the odds are such, unless there's some change, then he may be.

Ques: You had a meeting the other day with General Haig. Afterwards your Press Secretary, Mr. Miltich said that you had discussed impeachment and so forth and he also said that you had been doing a lot of thinking with regard to your position on impeachment and when the proper time comes you're going to make your views known. Has the proper time come?

Vice President: I have met with Al Haig. I don't think this is unusual because I meet with him, I would say, at least twice a week every week. We did on this occasion, as we have in the past, met to discuss our impressions on what the situation was in the House, what could be done if anything to convince the members of the House that the President was innocent as both of us feel. Now, I don't think that what you reported one of my staff members said was accurate as to my feelings. I never told a staff member on my part that I was changing my position as to the innocence or guilt of the President. I still believe the President is innocent of any impeachable offense and anybody on my staff who thinks I've changed is wrong. Now, perhaps there comes a time when it is advisable under the circumstances for me to say I have this viewpoint; I'm not going to say any more but don't come to the conclusion, by my lack of speaking, that I have backed off. I have not.

Ques: You have come to that time where

Vice President: No, I don't think I've come to that time.

Ques: When was the last time you saw the President?

Vice President: About ten days ago.

Ques: In San Clemente?

Vice President: Yes.

Ques: Governor Wallace said he couldn't be here because he had a prior engagement that could have been broken if this had been an official visit rather than a political visit. What do you feel about this?

Vice President: I would never under any circumstances criticize any local public official or state public official. I understand very well the problem of commitments, speaking commitments, or other commitments that somebody in public life has and let me assure you and the Governor that I would be delighted to see him either in Washington or when I come back. I just understand the practical problems that he has.

Ques: In the event that you are elevated to the Presidency through impeachment processes, what are your plans for the Cabinet?

Ans: Well, I think it's inappropriate for me to talk about those specifics.

Ques: Now that your political struggle was recently used to describe the impeachment proceedings against President Nixon, with the President being the underdog, do you believe that this is adequate description of what is happening in Washington at the present.

Vice President: I think the President is being attacked in a partisan way by a segment of the members of the Congress. I've said it before and I reiterate it here. The eight members on the committee on judiciary that voted against me had no moral or ethical or other reasons for voting against me except that they didn't agree with my political philosophy. The thirty-five in the House who voted against me had the same reasons. They had no other reason. They're sort of the hard core of this element, and I think it's partisan.

Ques: You stated that this trip would be both a political visit to Mississippi and recreational. Do you plan to take off some time after your visit to our State?

Vice President: Well, I'm going on from here to New Orleans. I'm going to make a speech there this evening and I hope to play, maybe, some golf tomorrow.

Ques: Monday, House Minority Leader John Rhodes.....
.....he was going to hold a press conference presumably to offer his thoughts on the impeachment question. Do you view this, if he does go for impeachment, as a serious setback to the White House strategy?

Vice President: Since I don't know what John Rhodes is going to say, I don't think I should speculate. What he says are his words and I don't think I should forecast or speculate as to the impact of them so with that observation, I think I'll wait to hear what John says.

Ques: Today in your address you noted the efforts of the President in Foreign relations. Do you feel that the impeachment proceedings have somewhat affected our foreign relations?

Vice President: I don't think the impeachment proceedings thus far have had an adverse impact on the conduct of our foreign affairs. After all we have been extremely successful. The President ended a war, brought back our POWs got involved in and successfully ended the war in the Middle East. I can't see any evidence of any adverse impact so far. But, it is conceivable and it is possible that the prolongation of this process could have an adverse impact on our problems both overseas as well as at home. I hope not but it is conceivable.

Ques: Why is it that when supporters of the President go around talking, are seen on television,.....they always totally skirt the domestic side. We know the President's forte is foreign policy, what is going on here? The President came to Jackson tomeasure upeconomy in the secondand everybody who

Vice President: Let me ask this question. I understand that unemployment in the state of Mississippi is the lowest of almost any state and that you're very proud of it. I understand that you're moving into an industrial development here in Mississippi; that you're very proud of it. Are you saying that Mississippi is unhappy?

Answer: No, I'm not saying that Mississippi is unhappy. I'm not saying that the Federal Government deserves credit for that either.

Vice President: Well, I happen to believe from what I hear that Mississippi is just going like mad and I'm proud of them.

Answer: Inaudible.

Vice President: I would rather have, and I think the country would rather have, jobs rather than a Federal program. I think it's far better for a person to work for either the local Government or private enterprise than for some program. There's nothing sacrosanct about a Federal program. The quicker we get rid of them all the better off we'll be. And, the point I try to make is I want people who used to work for Federal programs to have a job in private enterprise and that's what we need and that's what I understand you're doing in Mississippi.

Ques: Inaudible.

Answer: Well, my words today are the same as they were from October 12th. I have no intention of being a candidate for any political office in 1976 and I can't look down the road that far. I'll just repeat what I've said in the past.

Ques: Thank you Mr. Vice President.

Vice President: Thank you very much. See you all later.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: I'll simply repeat what I've said. I think the situation has eroded and the possibility is that the vote will be unfavorable to the President.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: In none of the meetings was there any discussion of the resignation of the President. I did meet with Mr. Simons, Secretary of the Treasury, because the day after he got back from his trip to the Middle East he called and wanted to fully brief me on what he observed and what his views were on the oil problem and related matters. Because of the jammed up schedule I didn't have a chance to see Mr. Ash. We scheduled him, I think, either Monday or Tuesday. I met with Bill Timmons and the others on the legislative programs. Unfortunately, Bill could not be there but the other were so the meetings other than the one with Al Haig were the routine meetings that I have with the President's legislative representatives, cabinet officers, who whenever they think they have a message to give me, they call and we get together. Yes.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: I think the strategy is what it has always been; that the facts should get out, be debated and on the basis of the facts the President and his advisors feel that he is not guilty of an impeachable offense. I think it's a straightforward strategy now as it has been in the past.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: My trips out were planned some months ago and just happened to coincide with the President's situation in the House of Representatives. There was no coordination between this trip and the current situation in the House of Representatives.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Well, the full discussion of the evidence before the committee, the full discussion of any and all evidence that's available and to get through Chuck Wiggins, Dave Dennis, Charlie Sandman (sp) and others of the debate on the President's point of view.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: No, there was no discussion of my travels. The White House gets a copy of my travel schedule. They know where I'm going and there was no discussion of any change in that regard. There was no discussion of any change in my role in the program to try and get the best foot forward as far as the President's concerned.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Well, we're a long way from any final action in the Congress on matters now or to be presently before the House. I can only repeat under these circumstances my oft-said statement that I have no intention of running for any political office in 1976. Yes.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Number 1, Mr. Treen had nothing to do whatsoever with Watergate. So, what's happened as far as individuals are concerned, Mr. Treen has no connection whatsoever with Watergate. Mr. Treen can run on his fine service to his constituents. He can be a candidate in support of what I think are the sound policies of the Nixon Administration in achieving peace, maintaining it and building for peace in the future and

Mr. Treen stands for the policies which I think are sound for peace and a solid economy and if he continues the fine service to his constituents personal interest in their problems, I think Mr. Treen has a good record

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: I don't understand.

Ques: (Inaudible)

Vice President: Well, I think that Mr. Treen running^{on} his own of a record of fine service with no connection whatsoever with people involved in Watergate, I'm delighted to be here to speak up on his behalf. Well, I don't think the American people are going to blame every republican just because of the misdeeds of a few. Just for example, there are some members of Congress on the democratic side who in one way or another, appear to be involved in some illegal, unethical (whichever you want to call it) campaign funding. I don't blame every democrat just because some seem to have made a mistake. I don't think the American people will either. Yes.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Well, I meet rather frequently with General Haig. We have a number of matters, a number of things, that we frequently discuss: legislation, the situation as far as Watergate is concerned. It was not an extraordinary meeting, if that's what you want me to say. It was an ordinary meeting of the kind that we frequently have and has no extra-ordinary implications.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: I'm not going to speculate on that. That's too far down the road.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Well, I got a telephone call from Senator Bob Griffin concerning a local Michigan matter. Yes.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Well, I think it would be a tragedy because of the fine job that Dave Treen's done. Mr. Treen ran in a district that has been held by a democrat for almost a century or more. He won by, as I recall, 54- or 55 per cent. That's not what you would call a big margin, but having won and having done a good job, I'm not going to speculate on whether it's backlash. I just think it would be a tragedy because he's been on one of the most important committees, the Committee on Armed Services, that has a great connection with this area and having done a good job I just think it would be most unfortunate.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: It is because of the fine quality of Dave Treen and the fact that he was elected in 1972 as the only republican in this area. I think Dave Treen is an extraordinarily able member of the Congress and I'm delighted to come down here to participate in any way I can to be helpful.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: I can't say for sure on that because the circumstances may vary but today, because of the limited time in the three areas where I spoke there were other things that I thought were more important. I haven't made a decision on the particular question that you asked.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: I have read most if not all of it and on the basis of what I have read and what I have heard, I've come to the conclusion as I've said many times that I think the President is innocent of an impeachable offense.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Let me say those transcripts don't confer sainthood on anybody and I don't like some of the things that were done and some of the things that happened but that's quite different from an impeachable offense. I don't like some of the things that were done under previous democratic as well as republican presidential administrations, but despite my disapproval of those things, that doesn't mean that that president should have been impeached. There's a very severe and serious difference between what I don't like as to an administration whether it's Johnson or Truman or Eisenhower or Kennedy. There's some things I didn't like. And I don't like some things that happened as reflected in the tapes, but that's quite different. Seriously different from an impeachable offense.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: My view is that censure is less serious. Therefore, if the alternative was presented and if I were in the House I would favor it, but I can't tell you how it's going to turn out because it's something that I have no part of not being in the House.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Well, I think some of the comments that have been made in the committees, some of the news media observations, some of the public expression. I think that the President has been well informed that some of the things that took place, some of the comments in the transcripts, were not to the public's liking I think the message has.....(could be "has gotten there").

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: You mean the 64 that are being.....Well, I have read or heard or heard about all the evidence that went to the committee. I have not heard of the 64 that are in the process of being delivered to Judge Sirica.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: If that was the alternative to impeachment, yes. But I (unfinished)

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: No, I would prefer that over the other because I think that does reflect some of the things that the public don't approve of the way the office was run.

Ques: Inaudible.

Vice President: Well, you so surprised me by the fact that we are getting off a one-track mind here that I'm hardly prepared.....thank you. very much.....

THE VICE PRESIDENT'S BRIEFING PAPER

Tuesday, August 6, 1974

- 8:00 AM This breakfast has been arranged per your agreement with Cong. Brown. The attendees are listed:
Cong. Bill Armstrong (Colo.)
Cong. Clair Burgener (Calif.)
Cong. Bill Frenzel (Minn.)
Cong. Pete du Pont (Del.)
Cong. Alan Steelman (Tx.)
Cong. Jim Martin (N. C.)
- 11:00 AM Pursuant to a written request from Secy. Butz, you have agreed to address the conference of state committeemen and executive directors for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.
- Approximately 250 people will be in attendance.
- Advance Schedule attached.
- 1:45 PM The officers from the Nat'l Assoc. of Homebuilders would like to discuss policy recommendations from their organization and problems which its members are encountering in the housing field.
- Cong. Sikes has endorsed a meeting between you and the President, Mr. Louis Cenko.
- Mr. Ernie Becker, Nevada, also discussed this with you during your recent trip to Nevada.
- 2:00 PM Mr. Becker & Mr. Buchen requested this appointment.
- 3:00 PM This will be a brief courtesy call. This group consists of 20 young promising Japanese political leaders, mostly from the Japanese Diet but also including several local politicians. Part of an on-going exchange of visits between U. S. and Japanese legislators, this Japanese group is the first to include members not only from the ruling Liberal Democratic Party but also from two opposition parties-- the Japanese Socialist Party and the Buddhist-affiliated Komeito Party.
- 3:30 PM Mr. Miltich and Mr. Hartmann recommend this interview.
- 4:00 PM Miss Leonard arranged this appointment.
