(QUEEN KEEPS FORDS WAITING AT THE STEPS

(BY RICHARD H. GROWALD)

WASHINGTON (UPD) -- QUEEN MARGRETHE II OF DENMARK KEPT PRESIDENT AND MRS. FORD WAITING 16 MINUTES AT THE WHITE HOUSE STEPS TUESDAY.

THE PRESIDENT'S MEN AND THE QUEEN'S GENTLEMEN-IN-WAITING DIPLOMATICALLY INSISTED NOTHING WENT AWRY, BUT THE SCENE ON THE WHITE HOUSE STEPS TOLD A DIFFERENT STORY WHEN THE VISITING MONARCH AND HER HUSBAND, PRINCE HENRIK, CAME TARDILY TO LUNCH.

THE MARINE BAND, THE HONOR GUARDSMEN AND THE SECRET SERVICE AGENTS HAD TAKEN UP THEIR FRONT PORCH POSTS WELL BEFORE THE SCHEDULED 12:30 P.M. ARRIVAL TIME, NO ONE BUT SECRETARY OF STATE HENRY KISSINGER, HABITUALLY TARDY, EVER KEPT THIS PRESIDENT WAITING.

ARRIVAL TIME CAME, NO QUEEN. THE FORDS STOOD WAITING IN THE LOBBY. PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS SECRETARY TERRY O'DONNELL, FORD'S HUMAN WRIST WATCH, POKED HIS HEAD THROUGH THE FRONT DOOR.

THE MARINE BANDMASTER CLUTCHED HIS WHITE BATON AND LOOKED TO THE GRAY SKY. THE WIND WAS BLOWING. HIS BAND MEMBERS HAD NOT BROUGHT THEIR RAINCOATS AND THEIR RED COATS WERE BARE TO THE ELEMENTS.

AT 12:35 P.M., AN USHER UNROLLED THE LAST FEW FEET OF RED CARPET, WHICH IS NORMALLY KEPT ROLLED UNTIL THE LAST MOMENT. THE FORDS EMERGED -- AND LOOKED AT AN EMPTY DRIVEWAY.

O'DONNELL CAME BACK AND TOLD FORDS: "IN A FEW SECONDS."

REPORTERS SPOTTED THE DANISH FOREIGN MINISTRY SPOKESMAN. "THERE IS NO REASON FOR THE DELAY," HE SAID. "THERE IS NO DELAY." HE WALKED AWAY.

AT 12:51 P.M., THE FANFARE SOUNDED. THE QUEEN'S LIMOUSINE NOSED INTO THE DRIVEWAY.

IT WAS ALL SMILES WHEN THE FORDS MET THE ROYAL COUPLE AT LIMOUSINE SIDE, AND DURING THEIR EXCHANGE OF LUNCHEON TOASTS.

"THE UNITED STATES ATTACHES A VERY GREAT IMPORTANCE TO OUR RELATIONS WITH DENMARK," FORD SAID, NOTING THAT THE TWO NATIONS BEGAN DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS IN 1801 AND THAT 22 AMERICAN TOWNS ARE NAMED DENMARK.

THE QUEEN, IN HER TOAST, SAID, "I BELIEVE THAT WE ARE JUSTIFIED IN BOASTING A LONGER RELATIONSHIP WITH THE UNITED STATES THAN ANY OTHER COUNTRY."

LATER, SPOKESMEN FOR BOTH SIDES EXPLAINED THE QUEEN HAD BEEN TOLD FORD WAS TIED UP GREETING THE MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS MOTHER AND FATHER OF THE YEAR AND DID NOT LEARN HE HAD FINISHED THAT AND WOULD BE ON TIME.

"NOTHING IS ROTTEN IN THE STATE OF DENMARK'S MANNERS," SAID A WHITE HOUSE AIDE.

WASHINGTON (UPD) -- FIRST LADY BETTY FORD AND SECRETARY OF STATE AND MRS. HENRY KISSINGER JOINED QUEEN MARGRETHE OF DENMARK LAST NIGHT FOR THE OPENING OF THE ROYAL DANISH BALLET AT THE KENNEDY CENTER OPERA HOUSE.

THE DANCERS, ADMITTEDLY NERVOUS AND PLAGUED BY MECHANICAL MISHAPS, SCORED A HIT BEFORE THE CAPACITY AUDIENCE WITH ROLAND PETIT'S 1960 OPERATIC PARODY OF BIZET'S "CARMEN".

THE QUEEN WAS ACCOMPANIED BY PRINCE HENRIK AND KENNEDY CENTER CHAIRMAN ROGER STEVENS. SHE APPEARED BRIEFLY AFTER THE BALLET AT A BUFFET RECEPTION GIVEN BY DANISH AMBASSADOR OTTO BORCH IN THE CENTER'S ATRIUM.

DURING THE RECEPTION, VICTOR BORGE, AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR DANISH IMPORT, HAD KISSINGER GUFFAWING WITH HIS JOKES. HE CRACKED UP KISSINGER AGAIN WHEN HE SAID THE NEW VOLKSWAGEN RABBIT IN GERMANY IS CALLED "MEIN HERR."

WASHINGTON (AP) -- PRESIDENT AND MRS. FORD WELCOMED QUEEN MARGRETHE OF DENMARK TO THE WHITE HOUSE FOR A FORMAL LUNCH TODAY -- AND HAD TO WAIT 10 MINUTES ON THE NORTH PORTICO FOR HER TO ARRIVE.

MORE THAN 100 GUESTS WERE INVITED, INCLUDING DANISH-AMERICAN PIANIST VICTOR BORGE, ACTRESS ROSALIND RUSSELL AND ANTHROPOLOGIST MARGARET MEAD.

THE WHITE HOUSE TOOK THE BLAME FOR THE DELAY. MRS. FORD'S PRESS SECRETARY, SHEILA RABB WEIDENFELD, SAID THERE WAS "A COMMUNICATIONS PROBLEM" AND THE QUEEN WAS NOT INFORMED IMMEDIATELY THAT THE FORDS WERE READY TO RECEIVE HER.

WHILE THEY WAITED, THE FORDS CHATTED WITH REPORTERS AND CAMERAMEN AND WAVED TO TOURISTS GATHERED AT THE WHITE HOUSE GATES ON PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE.

THE 36-YEAR-OLD QUEEN WORE HIGH HEELS AND APPEARED TO BE TALLER THAN THE PRESIDENT, WHO IS 6-FEET-1. THE QUEEN IS 6 FEET TALL. HER ARRIVAL WAS GREETED WITH TRUMPETS AND A MILITARY HONOR GUARD.

BEFORE GOING TO THE WHITE HOUSE, QUEEN MARGRETHE ATTENDED THE PRESENTATION AT THE KENNEDY CENTER OF A BICENTENNIAL GIFT TO THE UNITED STATES: A WHITE UNGLAZED PORCELAIN RELIEF IN FIVE SECTIONS, 79 INCHES HIGH, 158 INCHES WIDE AND MOUNTED IN A STAINLESS STEEL FRAME.

ENTITLED "VIBRATIONS," IT WAS CREATED BY DANISH ARTIST INGE-LISE KEFOED AND PRODUCED AT THE ROYAL PORCELAIN FACTORY. IT WAS FINANCED BY GIFTS FROM INDIVIDUAL DANES MATCHED BY A GRANT FROM THE DANISH GOVERNMENT.

DURING THE MORNING, THE QUEEN HONORED AMERICA'S WAR DEAD WITH A VISIT TO THE TOMB OF THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER AT ARLINGTON NATIONAL CEMETERY AND TOURED NEARBY MT. VERNON.

Danish Royal Couple Sail Into Washington

Sailing into the Washington Navy Yard aboard the royal yacht, Queen Margrethe II of Denmark and her husband, Prince Henrik, were welcomed yesterday by a 21-gun salute and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. With him was the Danish Minister of Foreign Affairs, K. B. Andersen. The visitors had traveled overnight from Norfolk, Va., and went directly to Blair House.

Today the Queen and Prince will be President Ford's guest at a White House luncheon for 113 guests, including Victor Borge, the cial-policy issues.

Miss Rockefeller, a cello graduate of Boston's New England Conservatory of Music, teaches in its humanities department. She is well known among devotees of the organic living movement. Dr. Galston was the first American scientist to visit postwar Vietnam, where he studied the effects of defoliation and bombing on the ecology there.

Reporters covering the annual shareholders' meeting of W. R. Grace & Co., in Boston yesterday noticed a bulge and delivered it to the Dale Miller home.

Signature Scarves

Something new in Bicentennial scarves was given to wives of foreign diplomats from the United Nations at the luncheon arranged for them in the Rayburn Building by THIS (The Hospitality and Information Service).

They were scarves, bearing the signatures of every President between 1776 and 1976. But the 23 women guests and their hostess had a laugh when some of the scarves bore a small label which said: "Made in Italy." On some scarves, this label of origin had obviously been snipped off.

Returns

The audience at the Kennedy Center performance of the Royal Danish Ballet had a bit of off-stage fun when U.S. Chief of Protocol Henry Catto leaned over the edge of his box, and called down election returns to the people below him;

"Ford is losing in Nebraska," came the sotto voce announcement from the Catto box which was next to the Presidential Box.

People below wondered where Catto was getting his information and specifically to whom he was beaming it. As to the latter, observers differed. Some reported that he was calling the news to that senior Democratic statesman, W. Averell Harriman. And others reported that Catto was calling down to the British Ambassador, Sir Peter Ramsbotham.

At any rate, the election report was made during intermission when First Lady Betty Ford and her guest, Denmark's Queen Margrethe, were out of their box—and out of earshot.

Carter Watching

Reactions to Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential candidate and former governor of Georgia, differ.

After meeting him at the Democratic fund-raising dinner some found Carter "so calm." And others found him "so youthful—much like Jack Kennedy."

At 51, his once sandy hair is turning gray. And he was shorter than anyone had expected.

All agreed on his energy. The day of the dinner, Carter had already intermet with 30 members of Congress.

During the dinner, he table-hopped—and scarcely touched his food, shaking hands with members of Congress and kissing their wives. After dinner, he held an 11 p.m. press conference. But by that time he looked weary and his trademark smile was gone. He answered all reporters' questions carefully and in good humor. And when it was all over, he avoided the steps down from the podium and jumped down with school boy energy. Presumably, he went off to bed to rest up for another strenuous day.

Personalities

Sales of Earl Wilson's book, "Sinatra: An Unauthorized Biography," have increased, Wilson's publisher says, since Frank Sinatra announced he was suing the columnist for $3 million.

Meanwhile, Sinatra continues his feud with Chicago Daily News columnist Mike Royko. Sinatra claims he's being deluged with mail in support of him at his Chicago hotel. Not to be outdone, Royko's office claims his mail is running heavily in his favor, too.

Nancy Hanks, who heads the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Council on the Arts, received the Smithsonian Institution's highest award last night.

Hanks was presented the gold Smithsonian Medal at a dinner meeting of the Smithsonian board of regents.

The citation complimented Hanks' fund-raising abilities, and added, "Your greatest accomplishment may be that you have demonstrated that patronage of the arts is a legitimate, necessary and continuing function of the federal establishment." Prior to her Endowment appointment in 1969, Hanks served for 13 years as a Rockefeller Brothers Fund project coordinator.

Denmark's Queen Margrethe, the chain-smoking, self-mocking, six-foot-tall monarch of the world's oldest kingdom, arrived in Washington yesterday on the first leg of a 15-day Bicentennial tour of the U.S.

The 36-year-old Queen and her consort, the French-born Prince Henrik, were greeted by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger at the Washington Navy Yard, where they arrived aboard the royal yacht.

They are to be entertained at lunch at the White House today and plan to attend the opening here of the Royal Danish Ballet tonight. Margrethe is scheduled to speak Wednesday at the National Press Club.

Before she left Denmark, she told reporters that "Women's lib is a subject I avoid. But on the personal level, I really can't complain."

The elegant Fred Astaire celebrated his 77th birthday yesterday in New York City. He started the day with an interview by "Today's" Barbara Walters.

Astaire, along with Cary Grant, Johnny Weissmuller, Kathryn Grayson, Donald O'Connor, Gene Kelly, Bobby Van and Marge Champion, converged later in the day for the world premiere of "That's Entertainment, Part 2."

Presidential candidate Jerry Brown, governor of California, tripped over his candor Saturday night at the dinner party in New York City given by Diane von Furstenburg.

He told the dinner guests, among whom was economic councillor Alan Greenspan, that presidential advisers and experts were obsolete, that all anybody needed was common sense. He said maybe, just maybe, he'd profit from 'experts' advice. He said maybe, just maybe, he'd profit from Alan Greenspan's advice.

Greenspan's date, television hostess Barbara Walters, leaned forward, raised her eyebrows and said "Maybe you would!"

It was a very good year — 1931 — for royal yachts. For beautiful yachts of raking grace. For bowsprits decorated with crowns. Masts that fly royal standards.
