MEMORANDUM FOR: RON NESSEN

FROM: SAMUEL A. SCHULHOF

CONCUR: Full
WILLIAM N. WALKER

SUBJECT: United States Advisory Commission
on Information, USIA

Attached is a copy of my proposed memorandum to The President discussing the reappointment of James Shaheen and James A. Michener to the subject Commission.

On September 23, you were asked to review a similar memorandum recommending the reappointment of Shaheen and the appointment of either James Stewart or Herbert Klein to the position currently held by Michener. That memorandum was never forwarded to The President as a number of circumstances came to pass which suggested the reappointment of Michener.

It would be appreciated if you would again review the membership on this Commission and have your office contact Greg Lebedev's office (x2981) to let us know of your opinion of the current proposal so that we may accurately represent your views in the final decision memorandum. As we wish to act on this matter as expeditiously as possible, we would very much appreciate a reply by Wednesday, October 16, 1974. If we have not heard from your office by that time, we will assume that you have no comment and go forwarded with the memorandum. Your observations and assistance will be greatly appreciated.

Thank you very much.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

THROUGH: DONALD RUMSFELD

FROM: SAMUEL A. SCHULHOF

CONCUR: WILLIAM N. WALKER

SUBJECT: U.S. Advisory Commission on Information, USIA (PAS, WOC)

This memorandum seeks your approval of the reappointment of John Shaheen and James A. Michener to the subject Commission.

The U.S. Advisory Commission on Information is a five-Member body established by Public Law 402 of January 1948 for the purpose of advising the USIA Director on the character and thrust of ongoing policies and programs aimed at strengthening overseas understanding of the U.S. as well as those of an informational nature which are essential components of U.S. foreign policy. The statute directs that the Members of the Commission are to be appointed by The President with Senate approval (PAS) for terms of three years, and that the body is to be bipartisan in character with no more than three Members of the same political party. The current composition of the Commission follows: Hobart Lewis (Chairman), George H. Gallup, J. Leonard Reinsch, James Michener, and John Shaheen.

A discussion of my recommendations follows:

JOHN SHAHEEN (Tab A)

John Shaheen has been recommended for reappointment by Hobart Lewis of Readers Digest and Chairman of the U. S. Advisory Commission on Information. Both Lewis and USIA Director Keogh feel that he is a hard-working Member and a definite asset to the Commission. By way of background, Shaheen is one of the major industrial leaders in the country, heading up his own petroleum company with operations in several countries around the world. As a result of his international business experience and former intelligence activities with the U. S. Navy, he possesses an excellent background for this Commission. He is a solid Republican and a contributor of many years; and I strongly recommend that he be reappointed to the Commission.

_____ Disapprove

JAMES A. MICHENER (Tab B)

James A. Michener, the well-known author, has an impressive background of international experience which includes extensive overseas travel on behalf of the Commission during his three-year term. Both Hobart Lewis and Keogh feel that Michener, a Democrat, has been a very productive Member of the Commission; and I, therefore, recommend his reappointment.

Q. What is Bill Walker's salary?

A. $36,000 a year.

Q. Does the Ford Administration continue to operate the computerized talent bank which was set up under former President Nixon?

A. More than 2,800 individuals have submitted resumes and asked to be considered for employment in the Ford Administration. In addition, there are several hundred names of individuals who have been highly recommended by others. These two lists form the basis of the talent pool from which most of the appointees will come. The computer which belongs to the General Services Administration is, of course, used for many other activities and it is rented on a specified time basis by the White House personnel office. There were approximately 2,600 names in the computer when former President Nixon left office and a print-out of those names was sent to the Nixon files (which are still here). The new names that have been called to our attention also will be put into the computer, but Bill Walker said he only expects to use the computer for data storage purposes.

Q. How many people does Walker have on his staff?

A. About 35, which he says is about the same level as it was in the previous Administration. The ~~personnel~~^{professional} staff makes up about 2/3 of the office.

Q. What do 35 people do all day long?

A. The staffing of the Executive Branch with high caliber individuals obviously is a full time job. There are about 5,000 positions which come under the auspices of the personnel office including the following Presidential appointments:

560 - full time executive level and above jobs (Cabinet officer, Assistant Secretary, Agency head, Deputy, etc.)

841 - Federal jobs

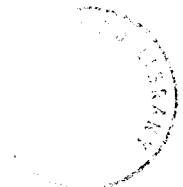

188 - U.S. Attorneys and U.S. Marshals (94 each)

146 - Ambassadors

608 - Non-career super grade slots (GS-16-17-18)

2,240 - Part-time Board and Commission members

In addition, there are approximately 1,100 non-career positions below GS-16 which Walker's office has a peripheral interest in, such as a GS-14 or 15 Special Assistant to a Cabinet officer.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

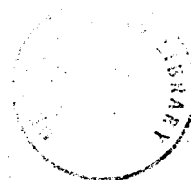

THROUGH: DONALD RUMSFELD

FROM: WILLIAM N. WALKER

SUBJECT: Presidential Awards for Distinguished Service

Currently, the Presidential Awards Program for honoring distinguished service has fallen into disarray. There are no criteria for awarding the Medal of Freedom, the highest civilian honor conferred by the President. Furthermore, no on-going program exists to seek out and recognize distinguished service. This memorandum outlines a new approach for you to consider in honoring outstanding public service.

A. Background. The Medal of Freedom was created by the President in 1945 as an award to civilians, American or foreign, who performed a "meritorious act or service which has aided the United States in the prosecution of a war." (See Tab A, Executive Order 9586). The Medal could be awarded by the Secretaries of State, War and Navy as well as the President. In 1947 President Truman expanded the criteria to include "service in the interest of the security of the United States." (Tab B). The Medal of Freedom was thus given only to civilians who served in diplomatic or defense related fields. The National Security nature of the Award continued throughout the Truman and Eisenhower Administrations and into the early Kennedy Administration. (Recipients listed at Tab C). In early 1963, President Kennedy substantially altered the nature of the Medal of Freedom. He expanded the criteria to include "any person who has made an especially meritorious contribution to 1) the security or national interest of the United States or 2) World Peace or 3) cultural or other significant public or private endeavors." (Tab D, Executive Order 11085). Furthermore, he designated the Distinguished Civilian Service Awards Board (which had been previously established to determine the recipient of the highest civil service award) to submit nominations to the President for the award of the Medal. The Board was expanded to include five public members as well as the existing five government members.

President Kennedy did not live to award the Medal of Freedom under the new standards. Within a month after his death, however, President Johnson awarded the Medal to a large number of individuals (Tab E) at a White House luncheon which received wide publicity. Another group awards ceremony was held in September, 1964. (Tab F). The awarding of the Medal of Freedom then became increasingly haphazard. In the later years of the Johnson Administration, the Medal was most frequently given to outgoing members of his Administration. (Tab G).

Under President Nixon the Award was given less frequently and under different circumstances. The role of the Distinguished Civilian Service Awards Board was abolished. On two occasions, President Nixon gave the Medals to a group of astronauts (Tab H) and on another occasion to a group of journalists (Tab I). He also gave the Medal at individual ceremonies outside of Washington. For example, Eugene Ormandy of the Philadelphia Orchestra received the Award in a surprise ceremony which had considerable exposure and impact at the time.

President Nixon also created the Presidential Citizen's Medal to recognize the citizens "who had performed exemplary deeds of service for their country and other fellow citizens." (Tab J, Executive Order 11494). Mrs. William P. Rogers and Roberto Clemente are the only recipients of this Award.

B. Proposal.

1. The Medal of Freedom. The criteria for awarding this Medal ("an especially meritorious contribution to 1) the security or national interest of the United States, or 2) world peace or 3) cultural or other significant public or private endeavors") are sufficiently broad to include any American of distinction. Applying the standards is a matter of judgment. There are a great many individuals in the United States deserving high recognition. However, the Medal of Freedom should be the highest recognition.

In order to ensure the highest standards, a seven-member Board appointed by the President should be established, comprised of previous recipients of the Medal of Freedom. No one has greater interest in retaining the stature of the Medal of Freedom than its recipients. Therefore, I propose that the Board be composed of persons who have received the Medal. The Board would assume the responsibility of annually reviewing every major field of endeavor -- health, science, the arts, public service, labor, business, etc., to determine deserving recipients, at most 15 to 20 per year. The Board would then recommend nominations for the Medal to the President. These nominations would not be binding, although it would certainly be desirable to follow these recommendations in order to assure the credibility and continuity of the Medal and the importance of the Board. You would also retain the power to award the Medal whenever you deemed appropriate.

I suggest that the President's Commission on the Medal of Freedom be created by Executive Order, with the Secretary to the Cabinet to serve as Executive Secretary. The cost of the commission would be very slight and no separate budget would be required.

Decision Options: I recommend that you authorize establishment of the President's Commission on the Medal of Freedom. Upon the execution of an appropriate Executive Order the program could begin immediately.

Candidates:

1. I recommend that Thomas S. Gates, Jr. (Resume, Tab K), a very active Republican from Pennsylvania, age 68, be named as Chairman of the President's Commission on the Medal of Freedom upon its creation. Mr. Gates, a recipient of the Medal in 1961, has served with distinction in many capacities, including Secretary of Defense, Chairman of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., and Chairman of the President's Commission on an All Volunteer Armed Force.

2. George B. Kistiakowsky (Resume, Tab L), a Democrat and former science advisor to President Eisenhower, age 74. A distinguished research chemist and educator, he is now professor emeritus at Harvard College. In addition to the Presidential Medal of Freedom, which was awarded in 1961, Mr. Kistiakowsky has received the National Medal of Science (1968), the Peter Debye award in physical chemistry (1968), the Priestley Medal (1972) and many other awards in recognition of his work.

8. Since all of these individuals are older, you may wish us to propose some younger, non-recipients to add to the Commission.

Yes _____ No _____

I would propose that the Medal of Freedom be awarded at an annual ceremony at the White House on or around the Fourth of July. The ceremony should be very simple and dignified. Every effort should be made to focus national attention on the ceremony and, as a result, on the Medal, the recipients, and what they represent. As a result, every interested American should become aware of the Medal and that it is a continuing distinction of the highest order, attainable only through excellence and long service, not mere partisan politics, money or self-promotion.

2. The Presidential Citizens Medal. An annual awards program should also be established which would recognize outstanding citizen service. The Medal of Freedom would recognize great men and women who have made national contributions of historic dimensions. The Presidential Citizens Medal would recognize those who have made a substantial, distinguished contribution to their community or field of endeavor. The Award would be non-partisan and the criteria very broad. There would be far more recipients of these awards, perhaps 125 a year. The selection process could be handled in a manner similar to that of the White House Fellows Program. Eleven regional panels of distinguished citizens would review possible recipients of the awards and forward recommendations to a national panel, the President's Commission on Citizen Service, which would make nominations. Eventually all of the Members of the Commission would be recipients of the Presidential Citizens Medal. The Citizen Awards Program and the President's Commission on Citizen Service, as outlined, would be created by Executive Order. Since a staff would be required, it would be necessary for this program to have its own budget of approximately $150,000 per annum as a line item within the budget of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Thus the Citizens Award Program could not begin until FY 1976. I recommend the establishment of a Citizens Award Program and a President's Commission on Citizen Service.

1. Upon the creation of the President's Commission on Citizen Service, I recommend the appointment of Gordon Gray, age 65, as Chairman. Mr. Gray, a Republican, is a former President of the University of North Carolina, Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, Secretary of the Army and Chairman of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. He received the Medal of Freedom in 1961.

I recommend the following appointments as members of the President's Commission on Citizens Service.

C. Purpose. The establishment of an ongoing system of Presidential Awards would achieve several goals.

1. Those Americans who have provided outstanding service would receive the national distinction which they deserve. This distinction would also provide an incentive to those who would follow.
2. As the Bicentennial approaches, it seems desirable to honor the spirit of service and excellence which has characterized our history.
3. Finally, the institution of the Presidency would benefit by association with those Americans who have indisputably contributed to their country.
