My Dear Mr. President:

I am saddened by the results of the election and share your disappointment. You made a tremendous effort against overwhelming odds and a partisan media. It was so close, if New York, if Ohio, if Mississippi, if, if, if!!

Apparently in the hoopla and rhetoric of the campaign, 51% of the electorate overlooked the real accomplishments of the past two years, and the truly important issues at hand. You returned dignity and trust to the White House. Even more important, you set an example of honesty, decency, dedication and concern for all of us.

You turned the economy around, got people back to work and no one is getting killed in service. One Hell of a record and your candidacy deserved a better fate! Only we, the people are the losers.

Anyway, you have provided a great service to our Nation and eventually all our fellow citizens will come to realize it. We enjoyed your family's participation in the campaign. You can deservedly be very proud of all of them. We particularly liked Jack's performance on "Meet the Press".

Hazel sends her love. She was terribly disappointed, having worked hard in your behalf.

If there is a convenient time in the remaining weeks (I'll check with Miss Leonard), I would love to visit you in the Oval Office, perhaps Hazel too.

Meanwhile keep the faith.

Sincerely,

Duane T. Brigstock

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Briscock:

Thank you very much for your letter of the 28th. I would like to state that in the past office it has been a constant aim to be representative of the people.

Working hard to work better.

Thank you very much. We are certainly disappointed in the lack of participation in "Meet the Press."

Nevertheless we will bring of all of them. We have certainly tried to involve you in the process of the campaign. You can eventually get out of the campaign and come to realize it.

Finally, you have brought a great service to our nation and to us.

Thank you very much for the letter. Only we, the people are the one to bring the letter to the people. One day of a record and you don't know the economy of the people. For people back to work and to all of us.

For an example of honesty, decency, respect and concern for the people and the people to the White House. Please make the people the people and the people to the White House. Please make the people the people and the people to the White House.

Thank you very much for the letter. It was so close to the people. It was so close to the people. It was so close to the people.

I am very much of the people and the people to the White House.

My best regards.
