Dear Mr. President:

The recovery from the results of the election has not been easy for your many friends in Grand Rapids, and I am particularly sorry for the viciousness of the remarks and accusations that were made about you during the campaign. You handled yourself magnificently, as we all knew you would, and the results will make it hard for us to take the next four years.

Something good comes out of all events, so perhaps this is just as well to bring about a slower way of life for you, and the opportunity for you to continue your public service in different ways, and at a slower pace.

My warmest regards, always, to you and your family.

Sincerely,

Jack
