OTHER SUGGESTIONS

- Present Lindbergh an award at the opening of the National Air and Space Museum (Date Scheduled: July 1)
- We should have an Ad Hoc panel to select these names (e. g. Cabinet). Better put some distance between the President and the selection process.
- We are very short of women... to find further candidates, I suggest we look to lists of people who have already won Nobel Prizes, National Medal of Science, etc.,

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

- Present Lindbergh an award at the opening of the National Air and Space Museum (Date Scheduled: July 1)
- We should have an Ad Hoc panel to select these names (e. g. Cabinet). Better put some distance between the President and the selection process.
- We are very short of women... to find further candidates, I suggest we look to lists of people who have already won Nobel Prizes, National Medal of Science, etc.,

THE WHITE HOUSE

MEMORANDUM FOR: THE PRESIDENT
FROM: JACK MARSH JM
SUBJECT: Medal of Freedom

You will recall that in our previous discussions you asked that the staff come forward with recommendations for possible recipients of the Medal of Freedom.

I have met with a number of leading members of the staff (e.g., Bob Hartmann, Phil Buchen, etc.) and together we have come up with the names on the attached list.

Our original thought was that it might be appropriate for you to present 13 medals on the 5th of July -- a way that you could have your own unique celebration of the Bicentennial and could carry forward the original intention that this medal be presented around July 4 each year. It is probably too late to arrange such a ceremony now, but if you could look through the list of possible recipients and indicate your personal choices, we could then begin to think about a ceremony at another time that would be fitting. In the meantime, we will also be looking for other candidates.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

June 24, 1976

MEMORANDUM FOR:

THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

JACK MARSH JM

SUBJECT:

Medal of Freedom

You will recall that in our previous discussions you asked that the staff come forward with recommendations for possible recipients of the Medal of Freedom.

I have met with a number of leading members of the staff (e. g., Bob Hartmann, Phil Buchen, etc.) and together we have come up with the names on the attached list.

Our original thought was that it might be appropriate for you to present 13 medals on the 5th of July -- a way that you could have your own unique celebration of the Bicentennial and could carry forward the original intention that this medal be presented around July 4 each year. It is probably too late to arrange such a ceremony now, but if you could look through the list of possible recipients and indicate your personal choices, we could then begin to think about a ceremony at another time that would be fitting. In the meantime, we will also be looking for other candidates.
