Memorandum for the Vice Presidential Staff #4

From: L. William Seidman

Since the Administration of George Washington, Presidential and Vice Presidential papers have been considered to be the property of the men holding these offices. In view of this, as well as the particular historical significance of such materials, it is extremely important that complete papers be retained and deposited in the White House Central Files.

With the various changes in responsibilities at this time, each of you should begin to prepare your papers for deposit in Central Files, where they will remain available for recall as necessary. (To the extent practicable, Vice Presidential papers will be maintained separately from Presidential papers). Where such materials will be regularly needed in fulfilling on-going or new responsibilities, they may be retained for the time being within your office. However, it must be remembered that all official papers are the property of the President and should be treated accordingly.

The attached memorandum dealing with White House papers discusses the distinction between official and personal papers, as well as appropriate handling procedures. Should you have any questions, please contact the Office of Legal Counsel, ext. 4242.

By custom and tradition, all White House Office papers are regarded as the personal property of the President and subject to such control and disposition as he may determine. At the close of the Administration, the entire collection of papers now being created may be expected to be deposited in a Presidential library similar to the libraries that preserve the papers of the last six Presidents. To provide the President with a complete and accurate record of his tenure in office, the White House staff must oversee the preservation of the papers it generates.

The procedures set forth in this document represent the collective thinking of many members of the staff as to how best to preserve papers and documents for the President. Compliance with these procedures is an expression of loyalty by the staff to the President. For these procedures to be effective, it will require cooperation and assistance of every staff member.

The security classification of each document prepared in the White House is determined by the individual staff member writing it in accordance with Executive Order 10501—or other applicable Executive Orders. He is responsible for insuring that the classification assigned to his work reflects the sensitivity of the material concerned, and also for making certain that this classification is not excessively restrictive.

White House Office Papers: Filing with Central Files

1. It is requested that the maximum possible use be made of Central Files, and the procedures listed below be followed. This will aid in the faster and more complete retrieval of current information, eliminate unnecessary duplication of files, prevent excessive xeroxing, and maximize preservation of White House papers.

2. Each staff member shall maintain his personal files separate from any working files he may keep on official business and clearly designate them as such. Personal files include correspondence unrelated to any official duties performed by the staff member; personal books, pamphlets and periodicals; daily appointment books or log books; folders of newspapers or magazine clippings; and copies of records of a personnel nature relating to a person's employment or service. Personal files should not include any copies, drafts or working papers that relate to official business or any documents or records, whether or not adopted, made or received in the course of official business.

3. Each staff office shall forward regularly to Central Files three copies of all outgoing official business consisting of correspondence and memoranda. One copy of all other outgoing related materials should also be filed.

4. Each staff office shall forward regularly to Central Files any incoming official business from sources other than White House staff offices after action, if any, has been taken. Each staff office, if it so desires, may keep a copy of such incoming official business for its own working files.

5. Each staff office shall forward regularly to Central Files any originals of incoming official business from other White House staff offices after action, if any, has been taken and if such originals were not intended to be returned to the sender. If desired, a copy may be kept for the staff's working files.

6. Each staff office shall forward to Central Files at such times as it determines to be appropriate all working files of official business which are inactive and no longer needed. These files will be stored by office as well as listed by subject matter. They will, of course, always be available for later reference.

7. Each staff office at its own discretion may segregate any materials that it believes to be particularly sensitive and which should not be filed by subject matter. Such sensitive materials should be forwarded to the Staff Secretary on the same basis as outlined in paragraphs 3 through 6 in an envelope marked SENSITIVE RECORDS FOR STORAGE with the office or individual from which they are sent marked on the outside and (as appropriate) a list of inventory in general terms attached. This list of inventory should also be sent to Central Files so that notations can be made in subject files that certain material is missing from the file. These materials will be filed in locked containers and will only be made available to the in- dividual or office from whom they were received.

8. No defense material classified under Executive Order No. 10501 with a classification of TOP SECRET or Restricted Data under the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 should be forwarded to Central Files. All such material should be forwarded to the Staff Secretary for storage.

9. No exceptions to the above shall be made without the express consent of the Counsel to the President. Additional advice on the operation of Central Files may be obtained from Frank Matthews, Chief of Central Files (Ext. 2210).

White House Office Papers: Disposition of Papers Upon Leaving Staff

1. Upon termination of employment with the staff, each staff member will turn over his entire files to Central Files with the exception of any personal files he might have maintained.

2. Personal files include: correspondence unrelated to any official duties performed by the staff member; personal books, pamphlets and periodicals; daily appointment books or log books; folders of newspaper or magazine clippings; and copies of records of a personal nature relating to a person's employment or service. Personal files should not include any copies, drafts, or working papers that relate to official business; or any documents or records, whether or not adopted, made or received in the course of official business. The White House Office of Presidential Papers, staffed by representatives of the National Archives, is available to assist staff members in the determination of what are personal files. Any question in this regard should be resolved with their assistance by contacting John Nesbitt, supervisory archivist of the Office of Presidential Papers (Ext. 2515).

3. A staff member, upon termination of employment, may at his discretion make copies for his personal use of a carefully chosen selection of the following types of documents within his files:

(A) Documents which embody original intellectual thought contributed by the staff member, such as research work and draftsmanship of speeches and legislation.

(B) Documents which might be needed in future related work by the individual.

4. No staff members shall make copies as permitted in paragraph three of any documents which contain defense material classified as CONFIDENTIAL, SECRET OR TOP SECRET under Executive Order No. 10501, Restricted Data under the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, or information supplied to the government under statutes which make the disclosure of such information a crime.

5. Each staff member who decides to make copies of such documents described in paragraph three shall leave a list of all such documents copied with Central Files. This will enable retrieval of a document in the event that all other copies of it and the original should be later lost.

6. The discretionary authority granted in paragraph three is expected to be exercised sparingly and not abused. All White House Office papers, including copies thereof, are the personal property of the President and should be respected as such. Any copies retained by a staff member should be stored in a secure manner and maintained confidentially.

7. All confidential and sensitive materials will be protected from premature disclosure by specific provisions of the Presidential Libraries Act of 1955 (44 U.S.C. 2108).
