- The creativity of American design.
- The skill of American workmanship.
- The importance of American jobs.

Look for our label when you shop for women's and children's apparel.
Women's and children's clothing, made in decent American factories under fair labor standards, carries the signature of the members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union Label.

The I.L.G.W.U. represents more than 455,000 workers, mostly women, many of them the sole support of their families. Today, we, of the I.L.G.W.U., are engaged in an all-out campaign to persuade our Government to control the import of garments made in low-wage countries and dumped on our market, which is threatening the livelihood of thousands of our people out of work.

The threat to the economy of the U.S.A. is very real but because government action is very slow and ineffective, we ask you to support our efforts. You can help by insisting on our label in every garment you buy. That's good for the garment workers, good for the communities in which they live and it's Good for America!

Mary Miller, Project Director
WOVEN is a project about and for women. It is concerned with women as volunteers and the untapped potential of women in the State of Ohio as candidates for decision-making positions in public service.

OBJECTIVES

- With many qualified women in the state and the impetus in government to promote women to responsible public service jobs, the first objective is to improve access for the State of Ohio to the reservoir of talented women. And, equally, to make qualified women aware of available positions as well as appointment openings on boards and commissions.

- The second objective is to facilitate the translation of voluntary service into job related credit. Volunteer experience is often underrated as job training by agencies, employers, and even the volunteer herself.

PROJECT OUTLINE

- Establish a network of individual women and organizations in the State of Ohio for the purpose of identifying competent women, counseling them on how to enter public service, and matching them for career jobs and appointments to boards and commissions.

- Coordinate efforts being made throughout the State to improve volunteer service, making recommendations on ways to credential volunteer work.

- Investigate barriers to employment and recommend changes to eliminate these barriers.

- Sponsor workshops and seminars for the purpose of gathering and disseminating information and to bring together individuals with common concerns.

Funding for WOVEN is provided by The Cleveland Foundation, The Columbus Foundation, The George Gund Foundation, the Nathan L. Emhy Charity Fund and The Mershon Center.

and Agency Listing

United Torch
For all of us.
United Torch ... for all of us.

United Torch Services is a non-profit organization which serves as the coordinating body for a variety of functions of its 160 member agencies. This insures against duplication of services among member agencies and between its agencies and public assistance programs.

While public assistance, such as welfare, provides for people's basic needs — food, clothing and shelter — United Torch agencies provide services in the areas of child care, family strengthening, health education, rehabilitation, research, group work, recreation and services to youth and the aged. United Torch also gives accounting and cost analysis advice and service to the agencies.

A leader in the nation for more than 60 years, the Greater Cleveland community continues to show the way for a more economical and efficient organization — one which melds many functions under one cooperative endeavor. It guarantees to the voluntary contributor that their generously donated money will be wisely and prudently spent. Ninety-three cents of every donated dollar is invested in actual services. Four cents is used for administrative expenses and three cents for campaign expenses.

Our community began with a spirit of neighbor helping neighbor to build a house, to help with the harvest, to reach a common goal for the benefit of all. That sense of caring about the plight of all individuals still exists in our community. People still volunteer to help people, to help the less fortunate to once again become productive citizens.

NOW IS THE TIME

NOW IS THE TIME, the more than 160 agencies supported by the United Torch Drive need you to help maintain the high quality of health and social services.

NOW IS THE TIME, demands on our agencies are greater, as more people turn to us for help. We must be able to meet these demands — we must answer these pleas for help. With YOUR help we will meet them. Those of us who are employed can count our blessings and share what we have with the less fortunate.

NOW IS THE TIME, when many agencies are feeling the impact of increased requests for help, including assistance in a broad range of service areas such as day care centers, family counseling and services to the aged. Unemployment brings about many ramifications other than financial hardship. Stress, anger, frustration and financial strain often result in serious emotional problems affecting the wage earners, the spouse and the children. With non-existent limited employment available, more and more people are turning to our agencies for information, counseling and help.

Our senior citizens on fixed incomes are finding it more and more difficult to make ends meet, resulting in loss of dignity, fear and increased dependency on others. They too are turning to our agencies for help and support.
NOW IS THE TIME, those of us who are working should give serious thought to pledging our fair share. Your Fair Share pledge, your gift to those in need, will enable our agencies to help people help themselves.

NOW IS THE TIME, the United Torch agencies must rise to meet the problems facing our community. But we need your help to keep our community a great place in which to live and work . . . for all of us.

SOLICITATION AND SERVICE AREA

United Torch Services helps provide funding for agency operations in Cuyahoga, Lake, Medina, and Northern Ohio counties (including Brunswick, Willoughby Hills, Kirtland, and Fairport Harbor Townships.)

In Lake County, there are two separate, autonomous United Way organizations with whom United Torch Service has a close working relationship:

The communities of Eastlake, Laketown, Mentor, Painesville, Willoughby, Willowick, and a portion of Willoughby Hills encompassed by the Western Lake County Community Fund, Inc., which conducts its own United Drive. By agreement, the Western Lake County Community Fund does not solicit residents who are employed within the solicitation area of United Torch Services.

A similar agreement exists with the United Way of Lake County which encompasses Mentor, Painesville, Kirtland, Painesville Township, Grand River, Fairport, Madison, Perry, and Leroy Township.

All cooperate with United Torch Services in a fund-raising campaign which utilizes the principle of “give where you work.” The three autonomous organizations each sponsor a drive in their separate areas of solicitation, emphasizing that the needs of agencies serving clients in the entire metropolitan area are met most efficiently and effectively by adhering to the “give where you work” principle.

United Torch Services strives to provide an exchange of funds to both the United Way of Lake County and the Western Lake County Community Fund to assure services. In 1975, $151,000 was given to these communities by United Torch Services.

Because the United Torch Drive recognizes its responsibility to residents of adjacent counties who are employed in Greater Cleveland, agency services are made available to all residents living and working in the area regardless of their place of residence.

UNIVERSITY OF TORCH SERVICES

Incredibly enough, only seven cents of each dollar contributed to the United Torch Drive goes for campaign and administrative costs. The remaining 93 cents goes directly to the health and social service agencies supported by United Torch. Compare this with figures of some national charities which spend up to 25% and more of contributions on campaign and overhead costs.

Such economy in United Torch Services is anything but accidental. It is a precise, methodical, dollars-and-cents evaluation of needs balanced with available resources.

The agency allocations are arrived at by a group of volunteers representing business, industry, labor, the professions and other segments of the population including consumers of services. The process begins in the spring when the volunteers within the Planning and Allocations Division of United Torch, review the next year's budget estimates of the more than 560 member agencies.

During the year, the volunteers analyze detailed agency budgets, confer with agencies, and give careful attention to the certified public accountant's audit of each agency. This pre-campaign review of agency needs provides invaluable and essential information to the United Torch Services Board of Trustees in establishing the campaign goal figure. When campaign results are known, a post-campaign budget procedure is followed with actual agency allocations for the coming year recommended by volunteers to the Board for its final approval.

SOME FACTS A SOLICITOR SHOULD KNOW

* The American Cancer Society, Cuyahoga County Unit and the American Heart Association, Northeast Ohio Affiliate, Inc., conduct concurrent fund-raising campaigns in business and industry with United Torch Services in the annual fall United Torch Drive.

* One person out of every three in the Greater Cleveland area receives help from United Torch Services.

* 93 cents of every dollar contributed is used for services to help people. 4 cents goes for administrative costs and 3 cents for campaign expenses.

* The United Torch Drive is the most inclusive federation of human services in a single campaign in the country.

* Breakfast, luncheons and dinner meetings are underwritten by civic-minded communities, organizations or foundations. If there is no sponsor, meals are Dutch-treat affair. Contributed funds from the United Torch Drive for meeting human needs are never used for meeting purposes.

* Supports more than 150 health and social service agencies serving people in the four counties. Volunteer's evaluate all agencies each year to determine agency needs and to insure against duplication of services.
Some items in this folder were not digitized for preservation reasons. Please contact the Gerald R. Ford Presidential Library for access to these materials.
Any individual who pledges according to the Abbreviated Schedule of Generous Giving may be sure that such a pledge represents meeting the fair share of human needs in our area.

FUND RAISING

More than 30,000 men, women and teenagers volunteer time and effort each year to help raise funds in the United Torch Drive. They serve in seven fund-raising areas: Section I, corporate gifts from major firms; Section II, management and non-management employees in corporations both large and small; Section III, public service employees, schools and colleges, social service agencies and civic associations; Section IV, Business and Industry; Section V, professional persons such as attorneys, clergy, dentists, physicians, health facilities and investment firms; Section VI, residences and small neighborhood businesses; Section VII, foundations, trusts and estates.

COMMUNICATIONS DIVISION

In a year-round effort to keep area donors aware of the wide variety of United Torch Services, the Communications Division and its voluntary Advisory Committee work with all media to tell the organization's story. This division also interprets United Torch Services' policies and supports volunteers in organizing the annual fall United Torch Drive.

TOURS, SPEAKERS AND FILMS BUREAU

Each year, approximately 400 volunteer adult and student speakers address interested groups and community units. Guided tours through United Torch Drive agencies in our area and Torchlight speakers cover topics ranging from case histories in which volunteer support has played a significant role, to in-depth talks on community health and social service problems. Talks are also given by well-known local radio and television personalities and labor leaders, encouraging the support of the United Torch Drive.

More than 100 films dramatizing United Torch Drive service programs are available, without charge, for showings during the campaign period as well as throughout the year. Tours are available every weekday. Some United Torch Drive agencies also provide evening tours, luncheons and dinner meetings, preceded or followed by a tour; can be arranged at some agencies with sufficient advance notice.

For additional information to arrange a tour or book a speaker or film, call United Torch Services at 3170 and ask for the Tours, Speakers and Films Bureau.

UNITED LABOR AGENCY

The United Labor Agency, a division of United Torch Services, acts as official liaison between the United Torch Drive and organized labor. It cooperates with and advises labor groups in promoting the campaign.

The United Labor Agency's role with United Torch Services is unique. In addition to the support provided by the staff, which includes numerous speaking engagements, the Agency also provides Loaned Executives. These men and women from various labor organizations throughout the community report to the United Torch Drive August 15th and spend the next 90 days working on the Drive.

The United Labor Agency also recruits approximately 43 labor representatives to serve on the various United Torch Services committees and agencies. This overall involvement of labor is unmatched anywhere in the country.

The United Labor Agency also provides both educational programs and extensive direct services to the total labor movement of the Greater Cleveland area.

LOANED EXECUTIVE PROGRAM

Approximately 60 executives from local businesses, labor unions and other organizations pin the United Torch Drive on a full-time, 90-day basis during the fall campaign period. Their salaries and all expenses are paid by their regular employers during the entire period that these valuable people are associated with the fund-raising drive. Their needed services help maintain the low operating costs of the United Torch Drive.

Since 1949, more than 100 area-wide companies, labor unions and organizations have loaned more than 300 executives to interpret agency services which are funded through the United Torch Drive. Recognizing the need for a suggested standard of giving, loaned executives do much to promote the Suggested Fair Share Giving Guide. As an extension of staff, they assist the volunteers in extending the service programs of the campaign with particular emphasis on group and employee giving.

PROJECT 100

Project 100 is charged with the responsibility of broadening the base of the campaign in order to further total community support. This committee represents an attempt by United Torch Drive leadership to help a selected list of corporations to achieve the generous corporate and employee giving schedules adopted by so many local companies.

BOARD LEADERSHIP TASK FORCE COMMITTEE

This group of interested and involved volunteers cultivates and encourages members of the voluntary boards of directors of the 160 United Torch Drive agencies to support the annual fall campaign. Their first-hand experience with agency functions and their knowledge of agency needs, help set the pace of the campaign.
AGENCIES

The following is a brief description of each United Torch Drive agency, its address, phone number, number of clients served in 1974, and the allocations approved at the time of printing of this booklet.

Many of the persons helped by these agencies have won their way back to health and self-sufficiency. They have become useful, productive members of our community.

Other agencies, such as those which specialize in youth programs, have instilled new knowledge and character in our young people. These are our citizens of tomorrow—who will give our community renewed strength and enduring stability in the years ahead.

The services of all of the United Torch Drive agencies are available to those who need them, and who live or work in the Torch Drive solicitation area.

HOW DOES ONE EVER THANK THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE?

The Greater Cleveland Congress is the result of teamwork and cooperation on a great and magnificent scale...It is a happening, a happening toward the future.

The Congress represents the joint efforts of participation from over three hundred women’s organizations, plus the participation of the social service agencies, business, labor, the federal, county and city government, the media, educational institutions, the arts, the cultural organizations, the foundations, and numerous individuals.

To all of you who have worked so hard...to all of you who have believed...to all of you who have contributed and to all of you who have participated—especially to the IWY Executive Committee and the Cleveland Foundation—thank you for making the Congress. Thank you for working toward a future which allows diversification within a framework of law, justice, communication, love and understanding.

This is a truly beautiful gift to the world.

It has been my rare and special privilege to work with you.

In Peace and In Love,

GWILL YORK, Chairperson,
Greater Cleveland Congress
International Women’s Year
A wide variety of needs confront women around the world. These range from improving the lot of rural agricultural workers to securing equal access to policy-making positions. There are, however, many common concerns. Chief among them is lack of opportunity and adequate preparation for the full participation of women in their respective societies.

While some progress has been made in eliminating discrimination against women, in no country have they yet attained full equality. Because of this and because of a growing recognition of women's importance in nation-building, International Women's Year has been proclaimed by the United Nations to mobilize the actions required to advance the status of women by:

- Promoting equal partnership between men and women;
- Ensuring the full integration of women into the total economic, social and cultural development effort of nations;
- Recognizing the importance of women's increasing contribution to the strengthening of world peace.

A basic IWY objective is to promote greater freedom of choice for women in planning their lives so they can better contribute to improving the quality of life for all women, men and children.

To explore women's options and discuss the many topics of concern to all women, the Greater Cleveland Congress of International Women's Year is being presented by a coalition of women's groups representing divergent philosophies and points of view.

It is intended to be a rational, comprehensive approach by women--and men--to IWY... a beginning toward the IWY goals of Equality, Development and Peace.
