SUBJECT: World Law Day

This office supports the issuance of a Presidential proclamation on World Law Day pursuant to the request of Charles S. Rhyne.

We are sensitive to your concerns over the growing hodge-podge of commemorative proclamations. However, in view of the fact that the World Law Day Conference will be held in Washington, D. C. this year, we believe the proclamation is in the interests of the President and consistent with past practices. In this regard, I note that in 1965 when the last conference was held in the U. S., then-President Johnson issued an appropriate proclamation.

The Honorable Donald H. Rumsfeld
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Rumsfeld:

Yesterday Postmaster General Bailar mentioned informally to Mr. James T. Lynn the possibility of a Presidential Rose Garden ceremony in announcing a World Law Day Proclamation and the presentation to the President of the first issue of a stamp to be issued on World Peace Through Law. Mr. Lynn suggested to the Postmaster General the idea be presented to you by me in this way.

In 1965 President Johnson held such a ceremony in issuing such a proclamation, to which he invited the law leaders of our Nation. It was a tremendous occasion publicized world-wide as a prelude to the Law World Conference held here in 1965. The 1975 Conference on the Law of the World will also be held in Washington. This is described in the enclosed letter of May 27, 1975 to the President.

Prodded by and growing somewhat out of discussions with Sir Winston Churchill and President Eisenhower (non-lawyers!) while I was President of the American Bar Association in 1957-58, and begun under an American Bar Association Committee to which I appointed Tom Dewey as Chairman, this program to strengthen law world-wide has enjoyed enormous success.

World Law Day this year is dedicated to International Women's Year to focus the attention upon law gains for women nationally and internationally.

I believe that a Rose Garden, or similar ceremony, inviting our Nation's law leaders, with a particular focus honoring women who have achieved success in the law, such as Mrs. Hills, Judges and lawyers, would be a unique and worthwhile event.

I realize the limits on your time and will not lay out details, but I would be glad to provide further suggestions and information.

Sincerely,

Charles S. Rhyne
President

A Proclamation

From the time more than 25 centuries ago when a Hebrew prophet wrote, "The Lord is our judge . . . our lawgiver . . . our king; he will save us," Western civilization's sense of salvation has been intimately related to its vision of the universal rule of law in the affairs of men. We in the United States have special reason to cherish this vision, for the freedom, the order, and the abundance which we enjoy are fruits of its application. The great principle that the people are sovereign, and that the law they make is supreme, has operated with such signal success in our country's history that Americans are turning increasingly to the compelling logic of putting it to work in the world community as well. People of many other nations and cultures are doing likewise.

At the same time technology is shrinking the globe so that the sense of common destiny and common danger, the sense that "my country is the world; and my countrymen are mankind," is no longer fancy but compelling fact for the whole human race. More and more, it becomes a matter of prime importance that principle and not mere power should govern in this country called Earth.

We can see many heartening evidences that law is becoming stronger and more just around the world under the pressures which reason and necessity exert. Within the nations, human rights and ecological wisdom continue to gain stature in the law. Among the nations, security and cooperation—on every front from space to the seabeds—are being enhanced through negotiations, treaties, and conventions. The United Nations is entering its second quarter of a century, and many other international organizations are working effectively through and for world law.

Also playing a constructive role are those organizations which are made up not of countries but of individual men and women, joined together in the interest of the law as citizens of their countries and of the world. One of the most important of these is the World Peace Through Law Center, founded in 1963, which this summer will hold its Fifth World Conference on World Peace Through Law at Belgrade, Yugoslavia. July 21, the date when thousands of lawyers and jurists from around the world will convene for this conference, will be observed in many nations as World Law Day—an observance in which I know the American people, a people who love the law, will want to join.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RICHARD NIXON, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim July 21, 1971, as World Law Day. I call on every American to reflect that day on the sacredness of the law in American tradition. And I urge each American to join with millions of his fellow men around the world in heightened recognition of the importance of the rule of law in international affairs to our goal of a stable peace.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this 17th day of June, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-one, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred ninety-fifth.

The Honorable Gerald R. Ford
President of the United States of America
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

I write to request that you issue a Proclamation on the occasion of World Law Day, October 12, 1975

World Law Day is an effort to bring the promise and potential of international law to the attention of all peoples throughout the world and thereby to further the great ultimate goal of our Nation of peaceful world order with justice for all under the rule of law.

President Lyndon B. Johnson issued the first such Proclamation, and he and President Nixon have issued Proclamations on the occasion of each World Law Day in conjunction with World Law Conferences held every two years. A copy of Proclamations issued by Presidents Johnson and Nixon are attached.

The theme of World Law Day 1975 is the role of law in improving peaceful world cooperation with special focus upon International Women's Year. The emphasis on International Women's Year is in cooperation with the United Nations' Declaration on the subject.

We believe that no more timely or important emphasis upon peaceful world order with justice under the rule of law and United States leadership could be chosen. Cognizant of your personal concern for this theme, I am certain that your voice of leadership in a Proclamation can add tremendously to the impact and success of World Law Day.

We ask you to issue the Proclamation at your earliest convenience, in order that the maximum benefit of world-wide publicity can be derived from it for World Law Day. In the past we have mailed these to Judges and lawyers in 145 nations. Heads of State from over 100 nations have issued statements of the importance of international law to World Conferences which have resulted from a program first enunciated by President Eisenhower and planned by an American Bar Association Committee under the Chairmanship of Thomas E. Dewey. All Presidents of the United States have supported this effort. Enclosed is a copy of the Inaugural Address of President Johnson to the 1965 World Conference. We remain hopeful you can accept our invitation to deliver the Inaugural Address this October when some 4,000 Judges and law leaders of over 100 nations will convene here.

I enclose the latest draft of the Program for the October World Conference and pamphlets on "Project Involvement" and "Share Your City--Project Involvement" under which we hope to send our distinguished visitors for the World Conference into over 500 U. S. cities. This is a unique and tremendous program to show our Nation to the World and to show our people great law leaders from all over the World. We believe its evident success demonstrates that isolationism does not exist as deeply in our Nation as some have urged.

With appreciation of your consideration of this request for a 1975 World Law Day Proclamation, I remain,

Sincerely,

Charles S. Rhyne
President

A Proclamation

By the President of the United States of America

WHEREAS the year 1965 has been designated by the United Nations General Assembly as International Cooperation Year, and I have so proclaimed it for the United States; and

WHEREAS international cooperation is essential to the achievement of a peaceful world order; and

WHEREAS the foundation for the peace of mankind within nations and among nations is a system of law and legal institutions; and

WHEREAS a system of law enables men and nations to avoid conflict, and legal institutions provide forums for the peaceful resolution of conflicts when they arise; and

WHEREAS the expansion of the Rule of Law in the World Community requires broad agreement on principles and terminology for multilateral treaties and conventions; and

WHEREAS those treaties require public support for the promise and potential of a world ruled by law; and

WHEREAS it is essential that the minds and hearts of men of good will of all nations be focused upon the necessity of world peace through law:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LYNDON B. JOHNSON, President of the United States of America, believing that cooperation to build a world legal system is among the most beneficial projects that can be advanced by International Cooperation Year and in order to further the great objectives thus noted for achieving world peace, do hereby proclaim September 13, 1965, as World Law Day and call upon all public and private officials, members of the legal profession, citizens, and all men of good will to arrange appropriate observances and ceremonies in courts, schools, and universities, and other public places.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this eighth day of July in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninctieth.

BACKGROUND:

An annual White House function for the Federal Judiciary was traditional for a number of years prior to 1965 and in 1967 President Johnson had a reception for selected members of the Judiciary. To revive this practice would afford a timely recognition by the President of the importance of the Judicial branch of Government. The one difficulty is that judges who do not receive invitations may feel some resentment, but, of course, it is impossible to invite all 596 members of the Federal Judiciary.

If the dinner were to be held during the week when the World Law Conference is held in Washington, it would tie in with the proposed Presidential Proclamation in recognition of World Law Day on October 12.

BACKGROUND: An annual White House reception for the Federal Judiciary was traditional for a number of years prior to 1965. In 1967 President Johnson had a reception for selected members. Since then the tradition has not been continued.

To return to this tradition would be a warm and friendly gesture, as well as an appropriate and much deserved tribute to the members of the Federal Judiciary.

Additionally, the National Conference on Citizenship has been scheduled for September 17 and 18, 1975 with a special ceremony at the National Archives on September 17, the only day the entire Constitution will be on display prior to our nation's 200th anniversary.

MEMORANDUM FOR: MARIA DOWNS
FROM: KEN LAZARUS
SUBJECT: White House Dinner Honoring
the Federal Judiciary

Attached please find the Schedule Proposal which was submitted on August 7 of this year and eventually gave rise to the President's decision to schedule a White House dinner in honor of members of the Federal Judiciary and their wives on November 24. In view of the fact that the dinner will not be held in conjunction with the World Law Conference, references in the memorandum to the Conference should be disregarded. Additionally, certain adjustments will be made in our recommendation regarding the list of invitees.

I am operating on the assumption that the maximum number of people to be invited is approximately 120. Tomorrow, I shall forward you a list of suggested invitees including the following information: (1) correct marital status; (2) title and place of business; (3) home address and phone number; and (4) business address and phone number.

Kindly advise if I can be of further assistance.

THROUGH: PHIL BUCHEN
FROM: KEN LAZARUS /s/
SUBJECT: White House Dinner Honoring
the Federal Judiciary

Attached are the names of the people we recommend be invited to the dinner honoring the Federal Judiciary on November 24. The total number of suggested invitees is 118. The list is broken down as follows:

- Tab A -- Supreme Court
- Tab B -- Congressional Representatives
- Tab C -- Federal Judges
- Tab D -- Justice Department
- Tab E -- White House
- Tab F -- Administrative Office of the U. S. Courts
- Tab G -- State Chief Justice

In the event your plans include the possibility of inviting additional people to attend after-dinner entertainment, we would appreciate the opportunity to recommend a number of individuals deleted from a larger list due to the ceiling on dinner guests.

Thank you.
