MEMORANDUM FOR:

PHILIP W. BUCHEN

FROM:

JAY T. FRENCH

SUBJECT:

MERGER OF CIEP AND THE ECONOMIC POLICY BOARD

A. Background of CIEP and the Economic Policy Board

- 1. Council on International Economic Policy
 - (a) Authority -- Public Law 92-412, August 29, 1972 (Tab A).
 - (b) Functions -- To provide for the coordination of international economic policy among departments and agencies and insure consistency between domestic and foreign economic policy. These functions are amplified, in the statute, by a list of specific duties which include assisting in the preparation of an International Economic Report which is required by this law.
 - (c) Composition -- Secretaries of State, Treasury (Chairman),
 Defense, Agriculture, Commerce, Labor,
 and Transportation
 - -- Director, Office of Management and Budget
 - -- Chairman, Council of Economic Advisers
 - -- Special Trade Representative
 - -- Additional members as the President shall designate: Executive Director of CIEP and Assistant to the President for Economic Policy have been so appointed.
 - (d) Expiration -- The Council is abolished on June 30, 1977, unless extended by law.
 - 2. President's Economic Policy Board
 - (a) Authority -- Executive Order 11808, September 30, 1974 (Tab B).
 - (b) Functions -- To advise the President with regard to national and international economic policy and oversee the formulation, coordination and implementation of all U.S. economic policy. The Board has an Executive Committee which shall meet daily to consider matters pertinent to the Board's functions.

- (c) Composition -- Secretaries of State, Treasury* (Chairman),
 Agriculture, Commerce, Labor, Transportation, Interior, Health, Education and Welfare, Housing and Urban Development
 - -- Director, Office of Management and Budget*
 - -- Chairman, Council of Economic Advisers*
 - -- Executive Director, CIEP*
 - -- Assistant to the President for Economic Affairs*
 - -- Chairman of the Federal Reserve, is invited to attend Board and Executive Committee meetings.

The Executive Committee members have an asterisk (*) after their titles.

B. Considerations for a Merger of CIEP and the Economic Policy Board

- 1. Organization
 - (a) Membership
 - (1) Present members common to CIEP and the Board Secretary of Treasury Secretary of State
 Secretary of Commerce
 Secretary of Agriculture
 Secretary of Labor
 Secretary of Transportation
 Director, Office of Management and Budget
 Chairman, Council of Economic Advisers
 Assistant to the President for Economic Affairs
 Executive Director of CIEP
 - (2) Present members of CIEP only:
 Secretary of Defense
 Special Representative for Trade Negotiations
 - (3) Present members of the Board only:
 Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare
 Secretary of Housing and Urban Development
 Secretary of Interior
 Chairman, Federal Reserve (invited to attend)

- (4) In addition to certain statutory members, the President should have authority to designate additional members. (This authority was given in the CIEP law.)
- (b) Titled Positions
 CIEP has a Chairman, Deputy Chairman and an Executive Director of an appointed staff. The Board has a Chairman and an Executive Director. The Secretary of Treasury is presently the only official holding the same position (Chairman) at CIEP and the Board. The following combined structure is suggested for the new board:

Position
Chairman
Deputy Chairman
Executive Director

Official
Secretary of the Treasury
Assistant to the President
For Economic Affairs

By the President By the President

By the President

Designation

of CIEP

Executive Director

(c) Executive Committee

The Economic Policy Board has an Executive Committee of five (5) members who may consider matters relating to responsibilities of the Board and shall meet daily. (CIEP has no such committee.) All of the present members are common members of both CIEP and the Board. They are listed below:

Secretary of Treasury
Assistant to the President for Economic Affairs
Director, Office of Management and Budget
Chairman, Council of Economic Advisers
Executive Director, CIEP
(Chairman, Federal Reserve, is invited to attend)

It is suggested that the titled positions of Chairman, Deputy Chairman and Executive Director be applied to the Executive Committee and that the same officials fill these posts by presidential appointment as designated in subparagraph (b) above.

(d) Professional Staff
Presently, CIEP has a professional staff to assist the Council in performing its duties. One of these duties is preparation of an annual international economic report.
It is desirable to establish a staff for the new board and to do so in the same manner as set forth in 22 U.S.C.A. § 2847.
(See Tab A).

2. Functions and Duties

A new Economic Policy Board would have the broad purpose of advising the President on economic policy and formulating, coordinating and overseeing the implementation of all U.S. economic policy. In addition to this purpose, there are a number of functions and specific duties which the Congress originally gave to CIEP which might be added to the new board's mandate. These are set forth below:

(a) Functions

- (1) To have the opportunity to investigate problems with respect to coordination implementation, and long range development of international economic policy.
- (2) To make findings and recommendations with regard to the development of policy.

(b) Duties

- (1) Assist the President in the preparation of the International Economic Report (which the President is required to submit annually to the Congress by the CIEP law).
- (2) Review economic activities and policies of the Government, several States and private industry.
- (3) Collect, analyze and evaluate economic information including the impact international trade on domestic labor and the impact of transnational corporations on trade flows.
- (4) Coordinate economic activities of all departments and agencies.
- (5) Make recommendations to the President for economic programs including those relating to monetary mechanisms, foreign investment, trade, balance of payments and international treaties.

C. Merger of Additional Existing Policy Boards

- 1. National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Policies (See Tab C)
 - (a) The primary purpose of the Council is coordination of policy among U. S. representatives to the International Monetary Fund, International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, and the Export-Import Bank, and all other government agencies to the extent they make foreign loans or engage in foreign financial and monetary transactions. This purpose could easily be included in the new board's charter.

A secondary function provides that the Secretary of Treasury shall instruct U.S. representatives to international financial organizations and that he shall decide whether to approve or not, certain actions of the IMF and the banks, in behalf of the U.S. when such approval is required. This secondary function would have to be specifically written into the legislation for a new board.

- (b) The composition of the Council is not significantly different from that of the Economic Policy Board except that the President of the Export-Import Bank would have to be added to a new board.
- 2. President's Committee on East-West Trade Policy (See Tab D)
 - (a) The primary purpose of the Committee is to advise the President with regard to such policy. Major trade initiatives are handled by chairman who are designated for that purpose. This purpose could be added to the functions of a new board.
 - (b) Composition does not appear to be a problem if merger occurs.
- 3. Council on Economic Policy (See Tab E)
 - (a) The primary purpose of the Council is coordination in the formation and execution of economic policy. It appears to be a duplication of the existing Economic Policy Board and could be terminated with any difficulty.

SUBJECT:

GAO Requests for CIEP Documents

Attached at Tabs A and B are two separate requests for documents from GAO that have been held up pending the formulation of our policy on Executive Privilege. The request at Tab B could probably be broken out before a definitive policy is established; but if this is done it should be in the knowledge of the issues raised by Tab A.

The request at Tab A is a far-reaching request by GAO for access to the files of CIEP and NSC. Their stated purpose in informal discussions with me is to test the limits of what they can get. The summary on page 2 of the Victor Lowe letter is an accurate statement of the policy guidelines of the previous administration.

The request at Tab B is specified in the November 11, 1974, memorandum from Hartquist to me, which is clipped to the inside cover of the file folder; the documents requested are in the folder. Of these, the most sensitive appears to be the clipped decision memorandum of September 25, 1974, from Ken Rush to numerous cabinet level and senior White House officials. My gauge of sensitivity is not the content, but the level, of the communication.

Hartquist indicates no objection to furnishing the documents at Tab B, and I agree that they pose no evident harm in themselves and appear to raise no serious issue of precedent. My greatest reservation is that in judging the issue this way we are giving up high-level documents on the ground that there is nothing harmful in them rather than on the basis of reasoned guidelines for access. While it is the practical thing to do here, I think we need a better guidepost.

My recommendation would be to provide the documents in Tab Bas an ad hoc decision, reserving judgment on the broader request in Tab A.

GENERAL GOVERNMENT
DIVISION

October 10, 1974

Mr. Philip W. Buchen Counsel to the President The White House

Attention: Mr. Jay French

Dear Mr. Buchen:

In discussions with Mr. Michael Oppenheimer on September 30, 1974, Mr. Jay French asked that we write to you detailing the chronology of events concerning our requests for certain Council on International Economic Policy (CIEP) and National Security Council records.

In view of the emerging congressional and public interest in the increased United States-Soviet Union trade, we undertook in March 1974 a survey of the Government's role in East-West trade. Letters explaining the assignment and requesting their cooperation were sent to the Departments of Commerce, State, Treasury, Defense, Agriculture, and three White House agencies—the Council on International Economic Policy, the Office of the Special Trade Representative and the National Security Council. Copies are enclosed.

We met with the various agency officials to discuss our survey objectives and to establish some mutually agreeable ground-rules for examination of the records. With respect to the White House agencies, discussions with Mr. David Evans, CIEP, on June 4, 1974, indicated that we would be able to examine interagency CIEP-sponsored studies, and decision papers emanating from CIEP to the other agencies. We understood that we would be permitted to examine the records at CIEP, to take notes, but not be permitted to make copies. Our understanding excluded random access to the files, data going to or from the President, and internal data going to or from the Director.

On June 5, 1974, Mr. Richard Price, the supervisor of this assignment met with staff members of the East-West Trade Policy Committee Working Group and spelled out in greater detail specific areas of interest, our reporting objectives, and the scope of our survey. The members of that Group apparently considered our request and set specific groundrules for our access to executive branch agency records on East-West trade matters.

Mr. Evans advised us on June 7, 1974, that the previous arrangements had been changed. On June 10, 1974, Mr. Evans advised that as a result of agreements reached at the June 5, 1974, Trade Policy Committee Working Group we would no longer be permitted to examine CIEP records. This exclusion covered documents prepared by CIEP or jointly with other agencies, and data on pending matters. The question of access to CIEP internal studies was referred to the White House Counsel's Office.

We were informed by a representative on July 30, 1974 that the White House Counsel's Office had set forth the following guidelines:

- a. direct access to CIEP files, as such, would not be permitted,
 - b. CIEP representatives would answer questions and furnish information in written or oral form, except in connection with (1) Presidential advisory statements and documents relating to the Presidential decision making process; (2) national security sensitive material; and (3) negotiating positions, and
 - c. CIEP would make available factual material that is easily separable from confidential materials in the CIEP files.

With respect to the National Security Council, it was advised of our review by letter dated June 14, 1974. Initial discussion held with staff members of the Council resulted in our being asked to provide a listing of Council documents needed for the survey. We provided a tentative listing on June 26, 1974, and Mrs. Jeanne Davis, the Staff Secretary advised us our request would be reviewed by the White House Counsel. We were advised by letter dated August 5, 1974, that upon advice of the White House Counsel, the National Security Council was unable to furnish us the requested documents or permit our access to other National Security Council records. The Council was prepared to provide oral briefings to us on the substance of the material, but not with respect to (a) Presidential advisory statements, comments or recommendations, or (b) negotiating positions or other security sensitive foreign relations matters.

In another matter dealing with a review we are making of U.S. trade policy towards developing nations, we requested certain Council documents. We again were advised, this time by letter dated September 25, 1974, that the Council would not furnish us with copies of the requested documents.

Conversations with Mr. John Showe, CIEP and Mrs. Jeanne Davis, NSC, were held to explain the effect these decisions would have on our ability to report to the Congress on a complete and factual basis. These representatives told us that the ground-rules for access were established by the White House Counsel and that any change would have to come from that Office. In following up on these matters with the White House Counsel's Office, we were informed by Mr. Chapman that our request was one of several left over from the previous administration and that he was preparing a memorandum for you on all these outstanding requests. Mr. Chapman said that you would reassess the previously established groundrules. Mr. Chapman said his memorandum has now gone forward and that we should discuss the issue with you.

It is our intention to report to the Congress on the Executive Branch's policies, practices, and procedures, for carrying out East-West trade. In order to provide an accurate assessment, it is essential that we have access to the data which explains the background and basis for the policies being followed. Since the policies apparently originated in large measure at the White House level, this data is basic to an understanding of the issues involved and to our evaluation.

Access to CIEP and National Security Council records is necessary to fulfill our congressional reporting responsibilities. We believe a report on East-West trade will provide the Congress with valuable insights into this important matter and will assist it in fulfilling its responsibilities. We would appreciate your early consideration of our access to the requested data on East-West trade as well as on U.S. trade policy towards developing nations. We would be pleased to meet with you to discuss any matters which may concern you.

ATTACHED MEMORANDUM CONCERNING

THE ECONOMIC POLICY BOARD

Skip Hartquist and I have reviewed and discussed this paper. Tabs A and B demonstrate how the current CIEP law could be amended to create a new EPB. Tab C is the alternative approach of an entirely new EPB statute.

Mr. Seidman would like to give this memorandum to the President by February 3 (Monday).

In order not to delay your review of this proposal I have not examined it in detail. I would note that based upon a discussion at our first meeting the Executive Committee should be deleted from the draft of the amended CIEP law. See Tab B "Sec. ____", following "Sec. 205". Additionally, Skip upon review noted that the President should not designate a Board Chairman if he (The President) sits on the Board. Therefore, the last sentence in Section 205 of Tab B could be deleted. I concur.

You indicated earlier that Max Friedersdorf might be consulted with regard to selection of the best legislative course. I will prepare a cover memorandum for him, defining the issue if you prefer.

COUNCIL ON INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC POLICY WASHINGTON, D.C. 20500

MEMORANDUM FOR

PHILIP W. BUCHEN

SUBJECT:

Legislation Regarding Economic Policy Board

Attached are three items for your review. Items (1) and (2) represent optional approaches in drafting the EPB bill:

- (1) Draft legislation to establish the Economic Policy Board by amending the International Policy Act of 1972 (TAB A).
 - (a) A version of (1) showing changes in existing law (TAB B).
- (2) Draft legislation establishing the Economic Policy Board and repealing the International Economic Policy Act of 1972 (TAB C).

I recommend we submit to Congress the draft legislation establishing the EPB and repealing the International Economic Policy Act of 1972 (Tab C above). It seems to me that this legislation should be presented to the Congress as an additional effort by the President to solve the difficult economic problems facing the nation, rather than as an 'upgrading' of CIEP. Legislation amending the CIEP statute (Tab A) would tend to understate the importance of the EPB itself while emphasizing the broadening of CIEP's responsibilities.

The basic arguments for establishing the EPB by legislation are as follows:

(1) The President is reinforcing his determination to cooperate with the Congress in solving our economic problems by establishing the EPB by statute, making it accountable to Congress.

(2) In order to support the decision-making process within the EPB, and assure coordination among Federal departments and agencies on economic matters, the President has decided to provide the EPB with a small, highly qualified staff.

While I agree with your assessment that it is important to retain the support of CIEP's constituency on the Hill, I believe our supporters will favor giving the EPB a legislative mandate, particularly if they are assured that CIEP's functions regarding international economic policy will be continued under the umbrella of the EPB setup. With respect to Congressional leaders, key Committee chairmen and the membership at large who may not be intimately familiar with CIEP, however, I think it is important to submit the proposal as a new law rather than as an amendment to an existing statute which deals with international economic matters. This is even more important with respect to the presentation of the proposal to the press and the general public.

OMB also recommends following the approach taken in Tab C, for the following reasons:

- (1) If the legislation is drafted in the form of a reorganization of the Executive Office, it is more likely to be referred to the Government Operations Committees than the Banking Committees. This is desirable, because the testimony of the Administration witness would then be focused on organizational matters rather than a detailed examination of economic policy. This is particularly important because Senator Proxmire and Congressman Reuss, vocal critics of the Administration's economic program, chair the Banking Committees.
- (2) If the legislation is referred to the Government Operations Committees, we have more flexibility in deciding who the Administration witness will be. It may be desirable to have the Director of the Office of Management and Budget testify, rather than Mr. Seidman. This would avoid the complication of having an Assistant to the President testify (though the Assistant to the President would be testifying in his capacity as the President's nominee for Executive Director of the Board).

- (3) As a reorganization proposal, the draft legislation is less likely to be encumbered with detailed amendments requiring an annual report, reports to various congressional committees and so forth.
- (4) This method of establishing the EPB is in accord with the President's desire to set up an "NSC-type" organization for economic policy.
