RICHARD O. RISTINE

June 24, 1975

The Honorable Leslie C. Arends 4815 Dexter St., N.W. Washington, D. C. 20007

Dear Congressman:

Complying with your suggestion, I am enclosing the brief announcement of the appointment of Dr. Robert P. Briggs as a public interest director for the Federal Home Loan Bank of Indianapolis, just as a short vita of the man.

With Tom Bomar's resignation and the impending end of the term of Garth Marston, the other Republican member, the anxiety facing the Savings and Loan Industry and the uncertainty about the continuity of policy in the Federal Home Loan Bank itself, should be matters of concern to the Administration. As you will recall, when Chairman Preston Martin resigned President Nixon didn't appoint a successor for ten months which generated considerable drift in the whole thrift industry. I recognize the advantages in a 1975 southern strategy, but to appoint a distinguished, experienced mature man from his own home state might also be good strategy and strengthen the President's prestige with the Savings and Loan Industry (incidentally, he is the first President to ever use the term " S & L's" in a press conference. His obvious understanding of the problems of the industry made him some good points that day).

You know better than I how important a strong housing comeback fortified by a sound Savings and Loan Industry is to the economy. I think Dr. Briggs could be helpful in every relevant respect.

Thank you for letting me bend your ear; it was good to see you and your charming wife at Hilton Head.

Sincerely,

Richard O. Ristine
