
Our congressional candidate, J. Kenneth Robinson, is a staunch supporter of economy in government. He is pledged to hold down government spending—to back up every effort by President Nixon to hold Federal spending in check. Now, why is this?

Ken Robinson knows that years of increasing government costs with an uncontrolled $25 billion in Federal red-ink spending in 1968 produced a nearly runaway inflation in this country—flation that hurt us all and hit farmers and old folks on fixed incomes the hardest.

We have got to stop spending more than we take in at the Federal level. If we fail to keep government spending within revenues, the price for the American people will be catastrophic in the end.

The big spenders in Congress cause inflation. Their over-spending pushes up the price of everything. And yet they pretend to be the friends of the people. Their generosity with the taxpayers' dollars puts an ever-increasing burden on generations yet to come and requires an ever-increasing appropriation just to pay the interest on the national debt. In fact, the interest we now pay on the national debt is a major government expense—second only to spending for national defense.

Today President Nixon and Republicans in Congress are locked in battle with the big spenders. It's a fight to control inflation. We know whose side Ken Robinson is on. Send him to Congress where he can help me and the President fight the big spenders, the radical liberals who vote for every spending bill they can trot out.

Now let me tell you that we have turned the corner on inflation in spite of the big spenders. We are making progress against inflation, and at the same time the economy is in the early stages of an upswing.

If there is any segment of the economy which deserves greater rewards in terms of performance it is agriculture.

Everyone will agree that one of the basic defects in the economy today is a failure to achieve substantial gains in industrial productivity in recent years.
By contrast, the American farmer's record of productivity is nothing short of fabulous, and it continues on the increase.

Productivity has risen faster in agriculture than in any other sector of the economy. In the past two decades alone, farm output per manhour has almost quadrupled, while nonfarm productivity has just about doubled.

So I am pleased that the Nation's farmers fared quite well in 1969 but I would like to see them do much better. Last year, despite a sharp rise in production costs, farm operators posted an 8 per cent increase in realized net income. Total net farm income was $16 billion, based on substantial gains in both marketing receipts and government payments. I hope the new farm bill will be a plus.

How can the farmer do better? One way is to make himself more friends in Congress. The farmer needs a stronger voice in Congress. He needs farm men like J. Kenneth Robinson in the U.S. House of Representatives. Not only is Ken a highly successful farmer himself, but he is the kind of farmer who can sell urban congressmen on the importance of a healthy and prosperous agriculture.

We are making progress under the Nixon Administration on the problems of the farmer and the problems of all the people.

We are moving toward peace in Vietnam despite the tactics of the congressional sellout crowd. Vietnamization is ahead of schedule, and we will end our front-line ground combat role in South Vietnam by next May.

The situation in the Middle East is tenuous, but at least the Nixon Administration has produced a cease-fire there. Administration initiative in the Middle East has averted a possible confrontation there with the Soviet Union. We must now move cautiously ahead in the hope of working out a peace settlement.

These are only a few Administration pluses—the kind of progress that has been produced by policies backed by J. Kenneth Robinson.

We are making progress in fighting crime, too—no thanks to the week-kneed libertarians in the Congress.

The Administration has struck strong blows against organized crime, staging massive raids on narcotics traffickers and producing shock waves felt throughout the underworld.

The Administration has also sent 13 major anti-crime bills to the Congress. Unfortunately, the House Democratic leadership has done nothing to fight crime except for the omnibus District of Columbia crime bill.

President Nixon badly needs more support if he is going to turn America around. He needs the help of sound-thinking men like Ken Robinson. Send Ken Robinson to Congress. Add to the strength of responsible government in America.
NOTES

The Seventh Congressional District of Virginia has been the area of great strength and leadership in the Republican effort in Virginia as has become increasingly apparent with each succeeding election. It was a stronghold of support for Governor Holton in his first gubernatorial bid in 1965 and in his recent successful election. It gave President Nixon an overwhelming majority in 1968 as it had in his 1960 election and in the Eisenhower election in 1952 and 1956.

The District has been a great source of Republican talent in political leadership as has been demonstrated by the following track record of Republican men holding key posts:

In 1963, Pete Giesen was elected to the State Legislature where he joined in the General Assembly the delegate from Shenandoah County, Howard Ellifrits.

State elections in November 1965 saw the election of Delegates:

1. Bev Roller, Delegate from Funkhouser and Delegate from

A special election in December 1965 saw the election to the State Senate of Kenneth Robinson.

In 1967, Bob Dawbarn was elected to the Virginia Senate.

It is significant to note also that the former District Chairman from this district, Warren French, holds the key party post of State Chairman.
The Seventh Congressional District has perhaps one of the richest political histories of any district in the country. The district as it is now configured has been the principal home, or birthplace, of five presidents of the United States. They are: Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, Zachary Taylor and Woodrow Wilson.

It is interesting to know that Thomas Jefferson of Albemarle County, who ranks as one of the world's foremost exponents of limited government, was careful to describe the name of his party as the Democratic-Republican Party.

The first member of the House of Representatives to represent that part of the district which lies east of the Blue Ridge was James Madison, whose opponent in the election was James Monroe.

The Frederick County area was in the early days of our country represented by General Daniel Morgan, a federalist.

Just a few miles from Harrisonburg was the home of the parents of Abraham Lincoln, who might well have been born in this county had they not migrated west.

President Eisenhower's mother was born in nearby Fort Defiance, in Augusta County.
Ford Backs Robinson Candidacy

House Republican Leader Gerald Ford has pledged his full support to the appointment of J. Kenneth Robinson to the Appropriations Committee in the 92nd Congress.

Robinson, the Republican candidate from the Seventh District, had earlier expressed a strong desire for such an appointment if he is successful in his race this fall.

Ford, who will address a giant rally of Republicans in Harrisonburg Saturday night, is himself a member of the powerful committee, and has served on the group for 14 years. The House minority leader represents the 5th District of Michigan in Congress.

More than 200 guests are expected at Lloyd's Steak House, the scene of the Ford dinner. The Harrisonburg and Rockingham County Republican committees have handled the arrangements for the dinner.
Candidate Lists Funds Due in Sharing Plan

By ReV Barry

State Sen. J. Kenneth Robinson announced figures last night of how much Charlottesville and Albemarle County can expect if Congress approves President Nixon's "no-strings attached" revenue sharing proposal.

Carrying his Republican campaign for the 7th District congressional seat in the speaker's class of the Charlottesville Kiwanis Club, Robinson said Charlottesville could expect $425,000 annually from the federal government and the county could look forward to $139,000.

Robinson said although the populations of the two areas are nearly equal, the city has "shown a willingness to tax itself harder" than the county and the federal government takes this into account.

In addition to the city and county money proposed under federal revenue sharing the states would also get money, Robinson stated.

He stressed this money has "no strings attached. Local and state governing bodies could spend it as they saw fit."

Virginia, he said, would receive $3 million in funds additional to that received by localities, according to the proposed sharing formula.

The revenue sharing proposal is currently being considered in Congress and Robinson said he favors it.

"Raising a belief that a congressman must give close cooperation to local government," Robinson repeated a campaign promise to open branch congressional offices in the 7th District. He again noted "Charlottesville seems a proper place for such an office."

Robinson is strongly committed to a balanced budget and insisted "to curtail inflation, we must have a balanced budget."

Instead of Congress voting on individual programs, then later voting on appropriations, Robinson advocated a schedule in which Congress would vote on a budget ceiling, then allocate funds to its programs under this limit.

"Then," he said, "the President could balance the budget.

The major issues facing the country, Robinson said, are changing from a war to a peace, economy, ending inflation, strengthening law and order and a respect for the dollar and the man and the country.

In answering a question, Robinson stated he opposed any effort by Congress to limit the President's power to enter Cambodia or other country in the course of the fighting in Southeast Asia.

Under an ongoing program the Kiwanis Club sponsors appearances of candidates for political office, Robinson's opponent, Democrat Murat W. Williams, will speak at next Monday's Kiwanian meeting, program chairman Joseph W. Tougou announced.
Some items in this folder were not digitized because it contains copyrighted materials. Please contact the Gerald R. Ford Presidential Library for access to these materials.
CONGRESSMAN
GERALD R. FORD
HOUSE REPUBLICAN LEADER

NEWS RELEASE

--FOR RELEASE AT 6:30 P.M.--
Saturday, September 19, 1970

Our congressional candidate, J. Kenneth Robinson, is a staunch supporter of controls on government--our pledge to hold down government spending--to back up every effort by President Nixon to hold Federal spending in check. Now, why is this?

Ken Robinson knows that years of increasing government costs with an uncontrolled $25 billion in Federal red-ink spending in 1968 produced a nearly runaway inflation in this country--inflation that hurt us all and hit farmers and old folks on fixed incomes the hardest.

We have got to stop spending more than we take in at the Federal level. If we fail to keep government spending within revenues, the price for the American people will be catastrophic in the end.

The big spenders in Congress cause inflation. Their over-spending pushes up the price of everything. And yet they pretend to be the friends of the people. Their profligacy with the taxpayers' dollars puts an ever-increasing burden on generations yet to come and requires an ever-increasing appropriation just to pay the interest on the national debt. In fact, the interest we now pay on the national debt is a major government expense--second only to spending for national defense.

Today President Nixon and Republicans in Congress are locked in battle with the big spenders. It's a fight to control inflation. We know whose side Ken Robinson is on. Send him to Congress where he can help me and the President fight the big spenders, the radical liberals who vote for every spending bill they can trot out.

Now let me tell you that we have turned the corner on inflation in spite of the big spenders. We are making progress against inflation, and at the same time the economy is in the early stages of an upswing.

If there is any segment of the economy which deserves greater rewards in terms of performance it is agriculture.

Everyone will agree that one of the basic defects in the economy today is a failure to achieve substantial gains in industrial productivity in recent years.

(more)
By contrast, the American farmer’s record of productivity is nothing short of fabulous, and it continues on the increase.

Productivity has risen faster in agriculture than in any other sector of the economy. In the past two decades alone, farm output per manhour has almost quadrupled, while nonfarm productivity has just about doubled.

So I am pleased that the Nation’s farmers fared quite well in 1969 but I would like to see them do much better. Last year, despite a sharp rise in production costs, farm operators posted an 8 per cent increase in realized net income. Total net farm income was $16 billion, based on substantial gains in both marketing receipts and government payments. I hope the new farm bill will be a plus.

How can the farmer do better? One way is to make himself more friends in Congress. The farmer needs a stronger voice in Congress. He needs farm men like J. Kenneth Robinson in the U.S. House of Representatives. Not only is Ken a highly successful farmer himself, but he is the kind of farmer who can sell urban congressmen on the importance of a healthy and prosperous agriculture.

We are making progress under the Nixon Administration on the problems of the farmer and the problems of all the people.

We are moving toward peace in Vietnam despite the tactics of the congressional sellout crowd. Vietnamization is ahead of schedule, and we will end our front-line ground combat role in South Vietnam by next May.

The situation in the Middle East is tenuous, but at least the Nixon Administration has produced a cease-fire there. Administration initiative in the Middle East has averted a possible confrontation there with the Soviet Union. We must now move cautiously ahead in the hope of working out a peace settlement.

These are only a few Administration pluses—the kind of progress that has been produced by policies backed by J. Kenneth Robinson.

We are making progress in fighting crime, too—no thanks to the week-kneed libertarians in the Congress.

The Administration has struck strong blows against organized crime, staging massive raids on narcotics traffickers and producing shock waves felt throughout the underworld.

The Administration has also sent 13 major anti-crime bills to the Congress. Unfortunately, the House Democratic leadership has done nothing to fight crime except for the omnibus District of Columbia crime bill.

President Nixon badly needs more support if he is going to turn America around. He needs the help of sound-thinking men like Ken Robinson. Send Ken Robinson to Congress. Add to the strength of responsible government in America.

##

Our congressional candidate, J. Kenneth Robinson, is a staunch supporter of economy in government. He is pledged to hold down government spending—to back up every effort by President Nixon to hold Federal spending in check. Now, why is this?

Ken Robinson knows that years of increasing government costs with an uncontrolled $25 billion in Federal red-ink spending in 1968 produced a nearly runaway inflation in this country—inflation that hurt us all and hit farmers and old folks on fixed incomes the hardest.

We have got to stop spending more than we take in at the Federal level. If we fail to keep government spending within revenues, the price for the American people will be catastrophic in the end.

The big spenders in Congress cause inflation. Their over-spending pushes up the price of everything. And yet they pretend to be the friends of the people. Their generosity with the taxpayers' dollars puts an ever-increasing burden on generations yet to come and requires an ever-increasing appropriation just to pay the interest on the national debt. In fact, the interest we now pay on the national debt is a major government expense—second only to spending for national defense.

Today President Nixon and Republicans in Congress are locked in battle with the big spenders. It's a fight to control inflation. We know whose side Ken Robinson is on. Send him to Congress where he can help me and the President fight the big spenders, the radical liberals who vote for every spending bill they can trot out.

Now let me tell you that we have turned the corner on inflation in spite of the big spenders. We are making progress against inflation, and at the same time the economy is in the early stages of an upswing.

If there is any segment of the economy which deserves greater rewards in terms of performance it is agriculture.

Everyone will agree that one of the basic defects in the economy today is a failure to achieve substantial gains in industrial productivity in recent years.

(more)
By contrast, the American farmer's record of productivity is nothing short of fabulous, and it continues on the increase.

Productivity has risen faster in agriculture than in any other sector of the economy. In the past two decades alone, farm output per manhour has almost quadrupled, while nonfarm productivity has just about doubled.

So I am pleased that the Nation's farmers fared quite well in 1969 but I would like to see them do much better. Last year, despite a sharp rise in production costs, farm operators posted an 8 per cent increase in realized net income. Total net farm income was $16 billion, based on substantial gains in both marketing receipts and government payments. I hope the new farm bill will be a plus.

How can the farmer do better? One way is to make himself more friends in Congress. The farmer needs a stronger voice in Congress. He needs farm men like J. Kenneth Robinson in the U.S. House of Representatives. Not only is Ken a highly successful farmer himself, but he is the kind of farmer who can sell urban congressmen on the importance of a healthy and prosperous agriculture.

We are making progress under the Nixon Administration on the problems of the farmer and the problems of all the people.

We are moving toward peace in Vietnam despite the tactics of the congressional sellout crowd. Vietnamization is ahead of schedule, and we will end our front-line ground combat role in South Vietnam by next May.

The situation in the Middle East is tenuous, but at least the Nixon Administration has produced a cease-fire there. Administration initiative in the Middle East has averted a possible confrontation there with the Soviet Union. We must now move cautiously ahead in the hope of working out a peace settlement.

These are only a few Administration pluses—the kind of progress that has been produced by policies backed by J. Kenneth Robinson.

We are making progress in fighting crime, too—no thanks to the week-kneed libertarians in the Congress.

The Administration has struck strong blows against organized crime, staging massive raids on narcotics traffickers and producing shock waves felt throughout the underworld.

The Administration has also sent 13 major anti-crime bills to the Congress. Unfortunately, the House Democratic leadership has done nothing to fight crime except for the omnibus District of Columbia crime bill.

President Nixon badly needs more support if he is going to turn America around. He needs the help of sound-thinking men like Ken Robinson. Send Ken Robinson to Congress. Add to the strength of responsible government in America.

# #