H.R. 15319 - Habeas Corpus Rules

Posted

Attached for your consideration is H.R. 15319, sponsored by Representative Hungate.

Archives
9/29/76

On April 26, 1976, the Supreme Court promulgated several amendments to the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, and complete revisions of the rules of procedure and practice for cases involving writs of habeas corpus in State and Federal cases. Enactment of P.L. 94-349, approved July 8, 1976, delayed the effective dates of the rules of criminal procedure until August 1, 1977, and the habeas corpus rules until 30 days after the 94th Congress adjourns sine die, in order to give Congress an opportunity to study them.

H.R. 15319 would approve in their entirety most of the habeas corpus rules promulgated by the Supreme Court.

A detailed description of the amendments made to the habeas corpus rules by this legislation is provided in OMB's enrolled bill report at Tab A.

OMB, Max Friedersdorf, Counsel's Office (Kilberg) and I recommend approval of the enrolled bill.

Discussion

Pursuant to statutes known as the Rules Enabling Acts, the United States Supreme Court is authorized to promulgate rules of practice and procedure governing the conduct of criminal and civil cases in the Federal courts. Under these statutes, rules promulgated by the Supreme Court take effect 90 days after they have been reported to Congress unless the Congress, by specific Act, rejects or modifies them.

On April 26, 1976, the Supreme Court promulgated several amendments to the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, and complete revisions of the rules of procedure and practice for cases involving writs of habeas corpus in State and Federal cases. Enactment of Public Law 94-349, approved July 8, 1976, delayed the effective dates of the rules of criminal procedure until August 1, 1977, and the habeas corpus rules until 30 days after the 94th Congress adjourns sine die, in order to give Congress an opportunity to study them.

The enrolled bill is the product of congressional study of the habeas corpus rules and would approve them with certain amendments. Briefly, 28 U.S.C. 2254 and 2255 define eligibility for habeas corpus actions in State and Federal cases, respectively, involving persons in court-ordered custody. Section 2254 provides that someone who is held in State custody may apply to a Federal court for a writ of habeas corpus "only on the ground that he is in custody in violation of the Constitution or laws or treaties of the United States." Section 2255 provides that a person who is held in Federal custody may, by motion, seek release from that custody "upon the ground that the sentence was imposed in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States, or that the court was without jurisdiction to impose such sentence, or that the sentence was in excess of the maximum authorized by law, or is otherwise subject to collateral attack..."

The two sets of rules of practice and procedure related to these statutes as promulgated by the Supreme Court govern cases under 28 U.S.C. 2254 and proceedings under 28 U.S.C. 2255. The procedures that they establish are very similar.

H.R. 15319 would approve in their entirety most of the habeas corpus rules promulgated by the Supreme Court; four of the Section 2254 rules and their counterparts related to Section 2255 would be amended. The new habeas corpus rules, as amended, would not take effect until February 1, 1977, in order to give the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts time to make changes in forms annexed to the rules, to print the rules and forms as amended, and to circulate them to the bench and bar.

The amendments made to the habeas corpus rules by this legislation regarding both State and Federal cases are summarized below.

Rule 2 - Form for petition for writ or motions to vacate, set aside, or correct a sentence.

Certain parts of Rule 2 provide that (1) petitions or motions must follow the prescribed form annexed to the rules or prescribed by the local rules of the district court and (2) the court clerk can return such petitions or motions for failure to follow the prescribed format. This bill would permit substantial conformance with the prescribed forms in order to preclude undue emphasis on strict compliance with format and prevent rejection of otherwise meritorious claims on that basis. In addition, the amended rules would not permit the clerk to reject a petition or motion for nonconformance to format unless the judge has so directed. The Justice Department, in its attached views letter, states that this change "would seem unnecessarily to burden federal judges with essentially clerical duties."

Rule 8 - Court appointment of counsel in evidentiary hearings.

The Supreme Court's rules would permit the appointment of counsel if the court or magistrate "determines that the interests of justice so require and such person is financially unable to obtain representation." The bill would amend the Supreme Court rules by further stipulating that the appointment of counsel may be done "at any stage of the case if the interest of justice so requires." This additional language is intended to state explicitly that the rules are not intended to restrict a judge's authority to appoint counsel.

Rule 9 - Delayed and successive petitions or motions.

The Supreme Court's rules would permit dismissal of petitions or motions on the ground that a delay in filing prejudices the State's or Federal Government's ability to respond. The rules would also provide for a rebuttable presumption of prejudice in favor of the State or Federal Government when a petition or motion has been filed more than 5 years after the judgment of conviction. The enrolled bill would strike the language relating to a rebuttable presumption after 5 years on the grounds, as stated in the House Judiciary Committee report, that (1) it is "unsound policy to require the defendant to overcome a presumption of prejudice" and (2) the rule should conform to current statute which permits the filing of an application for writ of habeas corpus or a motion "at any time." Justice does not believe that the elimination of the rebuttable presumption is justified.

With regard to successive petitions or motions, the Supreme Court's rules would permit a judge to dismiss a second or successive filing, even when new and different grounds for relief were alleged, if the judge found that failure to assert those grounds in a prior petition or motion was "not excusable." The bill would amend the Supreme Court's rule by deleting the "not excusable" standard and inserting "constituted an abuse of the writ" as the test for dismissal. The House Judiciary Committee report states that the "not excusable" language would create a new and undefined standard that would give a judge "too broad a discretion" to dismiss a second or successive filing, and that the "abuse of writ" standard conforms to existing law.

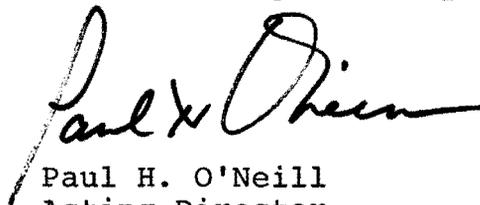

Rule 10 - Powers of magistrates.

The Supreme Court's rules would permit a magistrate to perform certain duties of a judge if and to the extent he is empowered by district court rule. This legislation would amend the Court's rule by further requiring that the court-ruled delegations include standards and criteria governing the magistrate's performance of those duties. The House Judiciary Committee report argues that the duties which this rule permits to be delegated to a magistrate are "important enough to require that they be delegated with standards and criteria" in order to ensure proper performance.

In its attached views letter, the Department of Justice states that while it "does not believe that the bill, on balance, fulfills its purpose of improving the Rules," nevertheless "none of the bill's amendments will have a serious adverse impact on the criminal justice system."

September 23, 1976

Honorable James T. Lynn
Director, Office of Management and Budget
Washington, D. C. 20503

Dear Mr. Lynn:

Pursuant to your request, I have examined a facsimile of the enrolled bill H.R. 15319 "To approve in whole or in part, with amendments, certain rules relating to cases and proceedings under sections 2254 and 2255 of title 28 of the United States Code."

The Supreme Court, under the Rules Enabling Acts, on April 26, 1976, transmitted to Congress various proposed amendments to the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, as well as new Rules to govern proceedings in the nature of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. 2254 and 2255. The Court's proposed Rules carried an effective date of August 1, 1976. Subsequently Congress enacted, and the President approved, Public Law 94-349 to extend the effective date of the foregoing Rules proposals in order to give Congress additional time to study them.

The present bill is the result of that study. The bill makes amendments to four of the section 2254 Rules (and duplicative amendments to four of the section 2255 Rules). The amendments are designed to clarify the Rules and to change certain minor policy decisions embodied therein. While some of the amendments are unobjectionable, the Department of Justice does not believe that the bill, on balance, fulfills its purpose of improving the Rules. For example, the changes made in Rule 2 of the proposed section 2254 and 2255 Rules to require the court, rather than a clerk, to return to the petitioner, with a statement of reasons, a petition that is not substantially in the proper form would seem unnecessarily to burden federal judges with essentially clerical duties. Moreover, we do not consider justified the elimination, in Rule 9, of the proposed rebuttable presumption of prejudice to the government in the case of a petition for relief filed more than five years after the conviction.

Nevertheless, in our judgment none of the bill's amendments will have a serious adverse impact on the criminal justice system. Accordingly, the Department of Justice has no objection to Executive approval of this bill.

Sincerely,

Page 4, line 14, strike out "atfer" and insert in lieu thereof "after".

Page 4, line 14, insert a comma immediately after "duties".

PURPOSE

The purpose of this legislation is to make certain amendments to the rules of procedure for use in cases and proceedings arising under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2254 and 2255.

BACKGROUND

Section 2254 of title 28, United States Code, provides that someone who is held in State custody may apply to a Federal court for a writ of habeas corpus "only on the ground that he is in custody in violation of the Constitution or laws or treaties of the United States." Section 2255 of title 28, United States Code, provides that a person who is held in Federal custody may, by motion, seek release from that custody "upon the ground that the sentence was imposed in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States, or that the court was without jurisdiction to impose such sentence, or that the sentence was in excess of the maximum authorized by law, or is otherwise subject to collateral attack . . . ."

On April 26, 1976, the Supreme Court promulgated two sets of rules of practice and procedure related to these statutes that shall be referred to in this report from time to time as the habeas corpus rules.<sup>1</sup> One set of rules governs cases under 28 U.S.C. § 2254; the other set governs proceedings under 28 U.S.C. § 2255. The procedures that they establish, however, are very similar.

The Court, acting pursuant to statutes known as the "Rules Enabling Acts,"<sup>2</sup> provided that the rules were to take effect on August 1, 1976. The August 1 effective date was postponed, however, by Public Law 94-349. The habeas corpus rules are now scheduled to take effect 30 days after the 94th Congress adjourns sine die.

The purpose for delaying the effective date of the habeas corpus rules was to give Congress an adequate amount of time in which to study them.<sup>3</sup> H.R. 15319 is the product of the Congressional study of those rules that Public Law 94-349 contemplates.

After a careful study of all of the proposed rules, the Committee on the Judiciary has concluded that the majority of them ought to be approved as drafted. Accordingly, H.R. 15319 amends only 4 of the § 2254 rules and 4 of the § 2255 rules. It approves the rest in their entirety.

During the course of the hearings on the habeas corpus rules, it was suggested that the legislation ought specifically to overturn the recent Supreme Court decision in Stone v. Powell, 44 U.S.L.W. 5313 (July 6, 1976). In Stone, the Supreme Court held that where a State has provided an opportunity for a full and fair litigation of a Fourth Amendment claim, a State prisoner is not entitled to habeas corpus <sup>1</sup> Rules of practice and procedure promulgated by the Supreme Court are not drafted exclusively by it. The Judicial Conference of the United States is authorized to "carry on a continuous study of the operation and effect of the general rules of practice and procedure now or hereafter in use as prescribed by the Supreme Court for the other courts of the United States pursuant to law." 28 U.S.C. § 331. The Judicial Conference has set up committees to assist it in this responsibility. The Advisory Committee on Criminal Rules gives initial consideration to new rules or amendments to existing rules relating to practice and procedure in criminal cases and proceedings. Any draft of a rule or amendment that it prepares is forwarded to the Standing Committee on Rules of Practice and Procedure. If the Standing Committee approves the draft, it forwards it to the Judicial Conference. The Judicial Conference then decides whether to recommend that the Supreme Court promulgate the rule or amendment.

For a brief discussion of how the Advisory Committee works, see Statement of Judge J. Edward Lumbard in Hearings on Proposed Amendments to Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure Before the Subcommittee on Criminal Justice of the House Committee on the Judiciary, 93d Congress, 2d Session, serial No. 61, 8-19 (1974). See also testimony of Professor Howard Lesnick, id., at 197-209.

relief on the ground that evidence obtained through an unconstitutional search and seizure was introduced at his trial. This legislation is intended neither to approve nor to disapprove the Stone decision.

During the hearings, the forms annexed to the rules were criticized in several respects. One witness,<sup>4</sup> for example, criticized item 12 in the forms insofar as it listed 10 possible grounds upon which the petitioner could base his claim of unlawful incarceration. The witness stated that "it is seriously questioned whether any proposed form should set forth the 'top ten' most popular allegations on federal habeas corpus." He further went on to note that, "The volatile state of federal law itself precludes such an approach."

Representatives of the Judicial Conference who testified conceded that the forms could be improved and ought to be revised from time to time, not only to take account of changing rules of law but also to improve the clarity of the forms. These representatives testified that it was the opinion of the General Counsel of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts that these forms could be changed as necessary by the Administrative Office, without the necessity for the Supreme Court to promulgate the changes. The Committee concurs in this opinion, and the legislation, therefore, does not address itself to the forms annexed to the rules. It is expected that the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, from time to time, will make changes in the forms in order to comply with court decisions or in order to make the forms easier to read and understand.<sup>5</sup>

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1

Section 1 of H.R. 15319 provides that the habeas corpus rules promulgated by the Supreme Court on April 26, 1976, as amended by the bill, are approved and shall take effect with respect to petitions and motions filed on or after February 1, 1977. This provision intended to give the Administrative Office of the United States Courts ample time to make changes in the forms annexed to the rules, to print the rules and forms as amended, and to circulate them to bench and bar.

Section 2

Section 2 of H.R. 15319 amends rules 2, 8, 9 and 10 in both the § 2254 rules and the § 2255 rules.

Rule 2

Rule 2(c) of the § 2254 rules, as promulgated by the Supreme Court, required that a petition for habeas corpus be in the form annexed to the rules or in a form prescribed by the local rules of the district court. It further provided that the "The petition [for habeas corpus] shall follow the prescribed form." Rule 2(b) of the § 2255 rules, as promul-

<sup>4</sup> California Assistant Attorney General Daniel J. Kremer, testifying on behalf of California Attorney General Evelle J. Younger and the National Association of Attorneys General.

<sup>5</sup> During the hearings, the following language in the § 2254 petition was objected to as being unclear: "In order to proceed in the federal court, you must ordinarily first exhaust your state court remedies as to each ground on which you request action by the federal court. If you fail to set forth all grounds in this petition, you may be barred from presenting additional grounds at a later date." It is anticipated that the Administrative Office of the United States Courts will review this language and make such changes as are necessary to make it more readily understandable.

gated by the Supreme Court, provided similarly for motions to vacate, set aside, or correct a sentence.

The legislation amends Rule 2(c) in each set of rules by deleting the provision that the petition or motion "shall follow the prescribed form." The legislation also amends the first sentence of each Rule 2(c) to provide that the petition or motion "shall be in substantially the form annexed" to the rules (emphasis added). The Committee believes that the rules as promulgated by the Supreme Court put too much emphasis upon a strict compliance with the forms, perhaps leading to a rejection of otherwise meritorious claims on the ground of failure to adhere strictly to the form.

Rule 2(e) of the § 2254 rules deals with the return of a petition for habeas corpus for failure to comply with the requirements of rule 2 or Rule 3 of the § 2254 rules. As promulgated by the Supreme Court, Rule 2(e) permitted a court clerk to return a petition for noncompliance. Rule 2(d) of the § 2255 rules provided similarly with respect to motions to vacate, set aside, or correct a sentence which did not comply with the requirements of Rule 2 or Rule 3 of the § 2255 rules.

The legislation amends Rule 2(e) of the § 2254 rules and Rule 2(d) of the § 2255 rules to permit return of a petition for noncompliance with Rule 2 or Rule 3 only "if a judge of the court so directs * * *." The Committee believes that the decision to return a petition or motion for failure to comply with Rule 2 or Rule 3 is not a decision that a court clerk should make but, rather, is a decision that a judge should make.

Rule 8

Rule 8(c) of the § 2254 rules authorizes the judge to hold an evidentiary hearing and to "appoint counsel for a petitioner who qualifies for the appointment of counsel under 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(g) * * *." <sup>6</sup> Rule 8(c) of the § 2255 rules provides similarly with respect to motions to vacate, set aside, or correct a sentence.

The legislation adds the following sentence to Rule 8(c) in the § 2254 rules: "These rules do not limit the appointment of counsel under section 3006A of title 18, United States Code, at any stage of the case if the interest of justice so requires."<sup>7</sup> A similar provision is added to Rule 8(c) of the § 2255 rules. This language is intended to state explicitly that appointment of counsel provisions in the habeas corpus rules are not intended to restrict a judge's authority to appoint counsel under 18 U.S.C. § 3006A. For example, it may be appropriate, prior to a request for discovery under Rule 6, for a judge to appoint counsel in an instance where the petition or motion raises a substantial legal issue.

Rule 9

Rule 9(a) of the § 2254 rules is entitled, "Delayed petitions." As promulgated by the Supreme Court, it permitted dismissal of a petition for habeas corpus on the ground that the delay in filing it prejudiced

<sup>6</sup> 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(g) provides that a person seeking relief under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2254 or 2255 may be furnished with counsel, at government expense, if a court or magistrate "determines that the interests of justice so require and such person is financially unable to obtain representation."

<sup>7</sup> The plural ("These rules") is used in order to cover other provisions in the rules dealing with the appointment of counsel under 18 U.S.C. § 3006A. See Rule 6(a) of both the § 2254 rules and the § 2255 rules.

the State's ability to respond to the petition. As promulgated by the Supreme Court, it further provided that

If the petition is filed more than five years after the judgment of conviction, there shall be a presumption, rebuttable by the petitioner, that there is prejudice to the state. When a petitioner challenges the validity of an action, such as revocation of probation or parole, which occurs after judgment of conviction, the five-year period as to that action shall start to run at the time the order in the challenged action took place.

Rule 9(a) of the § 2255 rules provides similarly with respect to motions to vacate, set aside, or correct a sentence.

The legislation amends Rule 9(a) in both the § 2254 rules and the § 2255 rules by deleting the language relating to the rebuttable presumption after 5 years and the calculation of the 5 year period. The Committee believes that it is unsound policy to require the defendant to overcome a presumption of prejudice<sup>8</sup> and that the legislation brings Rule 9(a) into conformity with other provisions of law.<sup>9</sup>

Rule 9(b) of the § 2254 rules is entitled "Successive petitions." As promulgated by the Supreme Court, it permitted a judge to dismiss a petitioner's second or successive petition, even if the petition alleged new and different grounds for relief, if the judge found that the failure to assert those grounds in a prior petition was "not excusable." Rule 9(b) of the § 2255 rules provided similarly with respect to motions to vacate, set aside, or correct a sentence.

The legislation amends Rule 9(b) in both the § 2254 rules and the § 2255 rules by deleting the "not excusable" standard. As amended by the bill, Rule 9(b) of the § 2254 rules permits a judge to dismiss a second or successive petition alleging new and different grounds if the judge finds that the failure to assert those grounds in a prior petition "constituted an abuse of the writ." The legislation makes a similar amendment to Rule 9(b) of the § 2255 rules.

The Committee believes that the "not excusable" language created a new and undefined standard that gave a judge too broad a discretion to dismiss a second or successive petition. The "abuse of writ" standard brings Rule 9(b) into conformity with existing law. As the Supreme Court has noted in reference to successive applications for habeas corpus relief and successive § 2255 motions based upon a new ground or a ground not previously decided on the merits, "full consideration of the merits of the new application can be avoided only if there has been an abuse of the writ or motion remedy; and this the Government

<sup>8</sup> Those facts which make it difficult for the State to respond to an old claim (such as the death of the prosecutor) can readily be discovered by the State. It is not easy, perhaps in some instances not possible, for a prisoner to discover those facts that he would have to show in order to rebut the presumption of prejudice.

Rule 10

Rule 10 of the § 2254 rules and the § 2255 rules is entitled, "Powers of magistrates." As promulgated by the Supreme Court, Rule 10 in both sets of rules permits a magistrate to perform certain duties of a judge "if and to the extent that he is so empowered by rule of the district court * * *."

The legislation amends Rule 10 in both sets of rules by adding a provision that a magistrate may perform these duties only "to the extent that the district court has established standards and criteria for the performance of such duties." The Committee believes that the duties which this rule permits to be delegated to a magistrate are important enough to require that they be delegated with standards and criteria.<sup>10</sup>

NEW BUDGET AUTHORITY

H.R. 15319 creates no new budget authority.

STATEMENT OF THE BUDGET COMMITTEE

No statement on this legislation has been received from the House Committee on the Budget.

COMMITTEE VOTE

H.R. 15319 was reported out of Committee on Tuesday, August 31, 1976, by voice vote. Twenty-six members of the Committee were present.

RULE 2. PETITION

(a) APPLICANTS IN PRESENT CUSTODY. If the applicant is presently in custody pursuant to the state judgment in question, the application shall be in the form of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in which the state officer having custody of the applicant shall be named as respondent.

(b) APPLICANTS SUBJECT TO FUTURE CUSTODY. If the applicant is not presently in custody pursuant to the state judgment against which he seeks relief but may be subject to such custody in the future, the application shall be in the form of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus with an added prayer for appropriate relief against the judgment which he seeks to attack. In such a case the officer having present custody of the applicant and the attorney general of the state in which the judgment which he seeks to attack was entered shall each be named as respondents.

(c) FORM OF PETITION. The petition shall be in substantially the form annexed to these rules, except that any district court may by local rule require that petitions filed with it shall be in a form prescribed by the local rule. Blank petitions in the prescribed form shall be made available without charge by the clerk of the district court to applicants upon their request. [The petition shall follow the prescribed form.] It shall specify all the grounds for relief which are available to the petitioner and of which he has or by the exercise of reasonable diligence should have knowledge and shall set forth in summary form the facts supporting each of the grounds thus specified. It shall also state the relief requested. The petition shall be typewritten or legibly handwritten and shall be signed and sworn to by the petitioner.

(d) PETITION TO BE DIRECTED TO JUDGMENTS OF ONE COURT ONLY. A petition shall be limited to the assertion of a claim for relief against the judgment or judgments of a single state court (sitting in a county or other appropriate political subdivision). If a petitioner desired to attack the validity of the judgments of two or more state courts under which he is in custody or may be subject to future custody, as the case may be, he shall do so by separate petitions.

(e) RETURN OF INSUFFICIENT PETITION. If a petition received by the clerk of [the] a district court does not substantially comply with the requirements of rule 2 or rule 3, it may be returned [by the clerk] to the [petitioner] petitioner, if a judge of the court so directs, together with a statement of the reason for its return [ , and it shall be returned if the clerk is so directed by a judge of the court ] . The clerk shall retain a copy of the petition.

RULE 8. EVIDENTIARY HEARING

(a) DETERMINATION BY COURT. If the petition is not dismissed at a previous stage in the proceeding, the judge, after the answer and the transcript and record of state court proceedings are filed, shall, upon a review of those proceedings and of the expanded record, if any, determine whether an evidentiary hearing is required. If it appears that an evidentiary hearing is not required, the judge shall make such disposition of the petition as justice shall require.

(b) FUNCTION OF THE MAGISTRATE. When empowered to do so by rule of the district court, the magistrate may recommend to the district judge that an evidentiary hearing be held or, in the alternative, that the petition be dismissed. In doing so the magistrate shall give to the district judge a sufficiently detailed description of the facts to enable him to make a decision to hold or not to hold an evidentiary hearing.

(c) APPOINTMENT OF COUNSEL; TIME FOR HEARING. If an evidentiary hearing is required the judge shall appoint counsel for a petitioner who qualifies for the appointment of counsel under 18 U.S.C. § 3006A (g) and shall conduct the hearing as promptly as practicable, having regard for the need of counsel for both parties for adequate time for investigation and preparation. These rules do not limit the appointment of counsel under 18 U.S.C. § 3006A at any stage of the case if the interest of justice so requires.

RULE 9. DELAYED OR SUCCESSIVE PETITION

(a) DELAYED PETITIONS. A petition may be dismissed if it appears that the state of which the respondent is an officer has been prejudiced in its ability to respond to the petition by delay in its filing unless the petitioner shows that it is based on grounds of which he could not have had knowledge by the exercise of reasonable diligence before the circumstances prejudicial to the state occurred. [ If the petition is filed more than five years after the judgment of conviction, there shall be a presumption, rebuttable by the petitioner, that there is prejudice to the state. When a petition challenges the validity of an action, such as revocation of probation or parole, which occurs after judgment of conviction, the five-year period as to that action shall start to run at the time the order in the challenged action took place. ]

(b) SUCCESSIVE PETITIONS. A second or successive petition may be dismissed if the judge finds that it fails to allege new or different grounds for relief and the prior determination was on the merits or, if new and different grounds are alleged, the judge finds that the failure of the petitioner to assert those grounds in a prior petition [ is not excusable. ] constituted an abuse of the writ.

RULE 10. POWERS OF MAGISTRATES

The duties imposed upon the judge of the district court by rules 2, 3, 4, 6, and 7 may be performed by a United States magistrate if and to the extent that he is so empowered by rule of the district court, and to the extent the district court has established standards and criteria for the performance of such duties, except that when such duties involve the making of an order, under rule 4, dismissing the petition the magistrate shall submit to the court his report as to the facts and his recommendation with respect to the order to be made by the court.

hearing is required. If it appears that an evidentiary hearing is not required, the judge shall make such disposition of the motion as justice dictates.

(b) FUNCTION OF THE MAGISTRATE. When empowered to do so by rule of the district court, the magistrate may recommend to the district judge that an evidentiary hearing be held or, in the alternative, that the motion be dismissed.
