Dear Mr. President,

I have pleasure in enclosing herewith a special folder containing a Stamp and First Day Cover released by Government of India on 29th May, 1976, to commemorate the American Bicentennial. This Stamp was released by the Vice President of India, Mr. B.D. Jatti. On the same day, I released the Stamp in the historic city of Philadelphia, where an International Philatelic Exhibition had been inaugurated earlier in the morning.

The Stamp and the First Day Cover will, I am sure, be welcomed by both Indians and Americans. The spirit of the American Revolution and ideals of the great sons of America who secured her independence were and still are a source of inspiration to the people of India.. The issue of this commemorative stamp is a reflection of the friendship between the peoples of India and the United States; a friendship based on shared ideals and aspirations.

May I take this opportunity of conveying to you once again the sincere good wishes of the Government and people of India as the American people celebrate the Bicentennial.

Sincerely,

(T.N. Kaul)

Dear Mr. President,

I have been asked by my Prime Minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, to convey the following message to you:

"I have pleasure in conveying warm greetings and felicitations on my own behalf and on behalf of the Government and people of India to you and to the American people for the 200th anniversary of the Independence of the United States of America. I also send my best wishes for your personal well being and the continued prosperity of your great country.

The high ideals proclaimed by the American Revolution have been an inspiration for many countries, including India, in their own struggle for freedom and independence. The dynamism and innovative spirit of the American people which brought prosperity to their country, will, I am sure, serve America equally well in the future.

I hope that the friendly relations between our two governments and peoples will be strengthened to our mutual benefit and for the cause of peace and international understanding.

Request for Job Guidance from S. S. Darbari,
Embassy of India, Belgrade

With reference to the attached request, we suggest you send Mr. Darbari a note recommending he contact the India Desk Officer at the Department of State for appropriate guidance on applying for university positions in the US. Alternatively, if this is an individual known to the Vice President, you could pursue State's suggestion that he approach universities with South Asian studies programs. However, you will want to keep in mind that if you get into suggesting specifics, the individual may take the line that "the Vice President suggested I seek a job at your university...." This is why we believe you should refer him to State. However, if this is a special situation, you may wish to talk with Bob Oakley.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~MEMORANDUM FOR MR. BRENT SCOWCROFT
THE WHITE HOUSE

Subject: Appointment of Kewal Singh of India as Ambassador to the United States.

The Government of India has inquired whether our Government agrees to the appointment of Kewal Singh as Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the United States (Tab 2). A biography of Kewal Singh is attached (Tab 1). A thorough review of United States Government records reveals no grounds for objection.

The Department believes from the information available that Mr. Singh will make a good ambassador to the United States and recommends that the President agree to the proposed appointment. If he concurs, the Department will inform the Government of India.

BIOGRAPHY - Kewal Singh

Republic of India

Kewal Singh, 61, an experienced and capable diplomat, retired on March 31, 1976 as India's Foreign Secretary, a position he had held since December 1972. His Foreign Service postings prior to that assignment included: Ambassador to the Federal Republic of Germany (1970-72), Secretary (West) in the Foreign Ministry (1968-70), and Ambassador to the Soviet Union (1966-68). Singh also served in Turkey, Berlin, Portugal, England, Cambodia, Sweden and Pakistan, serving as Ambassador in the latter three. Earlier in his career he served as India's Consul General to Pondicherry and, with the de facto transfer of the French establishments in 1954, became Chief Commissioner.

Kewal Singh was born in Lyallpur District of the former undivided Punjab on June 1, 1915. Trained in the law, he was educated at Forman Christian College and Law College, Lahore, and Balliol College, Oxford, attending the latter in 1938-39. He joined the prestigious Indian Civil Service in 1939 and for the next nine years held various positions in the civil administration of Punjab before receiving his initial overseas assignment in 1949.

Singh is respected by his colleagues as highly professional, articulate and intelligent. He has maintained cordial and usually productive relations with U.S. officials and is considered well-disposed towards the United States. During his tenure as Foreign Secretary, he visited the U.S. on several occasions and appeared genuinely committed to improving Indo-U.S. relations.

Singh is a warm and sociable person who responds to an informal approach. He is married and has one daughter, Aruna. His only son died in 1968. He speaks German, French, Swedish, Russian and English, besides several Indian languages.

A thorough search of United States Government sources reveals no grounds for objection.

Dear Mr. President,

I shall be relinquishing my charge shortly and would deem it a great privilege to have an opportunity of paying a courtesy farewell call on you for a few minutes any time convenient to you, upto October 4.

I should like to thank you and your Administration for the courtesy, hospitality, and cooperation always extended to me during my tenure of over 3 years in this country. My stay has been pleasant and fruitful and I am glad that relations between our two countries are better and more friendly today than they were when I came here in May 1973. I sincerely hope that our relations - important as they are for both our countries as well as for the rest of the world - will develop further in the months and years ahead on the basis of mutual respect and understanding and due regard for the vital interests of both countries.

14th September 1976

Dear Mr. President,

I shall be relinquishing my charge shortly and would deem it a great privilege to have an opportunity of paying a courtesy farewell call on you for a few minutes any time convenient to you, upto October 4.

I should like to thank you and your Administration for the courtesy, hospitality, and cooperation always extended to me during my tenure of over 3 years in this country. My stay has been pleasant and fruitful and I am glad that relations between our two countries are better and more friendly today than they were when I came here in May 1973. I sincerely hope that our relations - important as they are for both our countries as well as for the rest of the world - will develop further in the months and years ahead on the basis of mutual respect and understanding and due regard for the vital interests of both countries.

With the assurances of my highest esteem,

I remain,
Yours sincerely
T.N. Kaul
(T.N. Kaul)

Hon'ble Gerald R. Ford,
President of the United States of America,
The White House,

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. BRENT SCOWCROFT
THE WHITE HOUSE

Subject: Letter to Mrs. Ford from Wife of Indian Opposition Leader George Fernandes
NSC # 7605575

Mrs. George Fernandes, the wife of imprisoned Indian Opposition leader George Fernandes, wrote Mrs. Ford August 12 requesting the First Lady's assistance in establishing her husband's whereabouts and in exerting her influence to ensure his welfare. Mrs. Fernandes has been publicizing her husband's plight in recent months, and on September 16 testified before Congressman Fraser's Subcommittee on the human rights situation in India.

Since this letter was written, there have been several significant developments in this case. (Mr. Fernandes was publicly arraigned in New Delhi on October 4, and there has been extensive press coverage of this event as well as of comments he made to reporters in the courtroom.) In view of the lapse of time since the letter was originally written, and the political implications which might be read into any response from Mrs. Ford to Mrs. Fernandes, the Department of State recommends that no reply be sent.

Mrs. Betty Ford
The White House
Washington D.C.

Dear Mrs. Ford:

I am turning to you for assistance at a moment of very great distress. My husband, George Fernandes, Chairman of the Socialist Party of India and a prominent trade union leader was arrested on June 10, 1976. Over the past two months I have tried again and again through the Indian Ambassador, the Secretary, Home Ministry, New Delhi and the Minister of Home Affairs, India to find out the whereabouts of my husband - all without avail. I have made two requests of the Indian Prime Minister, and yesterday I sent out my third appeal to her personally to be informed of George's well-being and whereabouts.

All the anxiety in being kept in the dark in this manner stems from the fact that my husband has been a strong critic and opponent of the policies of Mrs. Indira Gandhi. It was a mere chance of fate that George escaped arrest on June 26, 1975 when thousands of dissidents throughout the country were rounded up in the night in one fell swoop. In the following 11½ months my husband moved around the country from the underground, since all avenues for open expression of dissent had been cut off, organising resistance to the authoritarian regime, educating people to shed their fear and terror through newsbulletins distributed from the underground in an attempt to break through the total press censorship enforced since June 26, 1975.

A systematic campaign to denigrate my husband was started from July, 1975 after having silenced the voice of the opposition. He was portrayed as receiving large amounts of foreign funds through dubious sources, as a rabble rouser, as a C.I.A. agent and as agent of Mao Tse Tung simultaneously.

The secret police was deployed to track him down, and finally, on June 10, 1976 they captured him. My husband is far from all the dreadful things he is made out to be by the state controlled media in India. He is a warm, compassionate, wonderful human being. His whole life is one of sacrifice and of service to the poor and oppressed. He started life to be a priest, but when he felt his true vocation to serve God and man lay in practical work he became involved in the trade union movement and was inspired by the ideals of the Socialist party of India. All this was when George was 19 years old. Today he is 46, and I believe his life is in danger.

Reports have been received that George is being tortured; that he has been whisked out of Delhi to an unknown place in Haryana state; that in the meanwhile a case has started in Delhi titled: UNION of INDIA vs GEORGE FERNANDES and others, suggesting that the freedom fighters are being treated as enemies of the state.

I was reading the story of Eugene Debs in this country of the last century and early part of this century. His story reminded me of the tragedy unfolding now for us.

On July 5, 1976 I went to Monticello to see and hear President Ford. America is celebrating its Bicentennial of freedom and independence while the shadows of darkness are dropping over India. Is there nothing that can be done? Surely there is. Some weeks ago I heard you on the radio on the occasion when a distinguished Rabbi had a heart attack at a public meeting. And I was very moved.

Please Mrs. Ford, please exercise your good influence to safeguard my husband's life. I shall be very grateful to you.

I have sought refuge in this great land with my little son, now 2½ years old. Atleast one thing must provide some comfort to my husband, wherever and however he may be: that his wife and child are safe. Indeed I am glad to be here now, even though it is a great ache not to be able to go to my country where my mother and other close relations are left behind.

I enclose a few clippings giving more details of the crisis.

Sincerely,

Leila Kabir Fernandes

Dear Ambassador Kaul:

Not knowing the whereabouts of my husband, George Fernandes, since his arrest on June 10, 1976, despite several enquiries to Mrs. Indira Gandhi and the Home Ministry, New Delhi, finally on July 18 I had contacted you in great anguish to seek your assistance in obtaining this information. At that time you had noted down my specific enquiries and assured me that you would try and get the details for me. The next evening your representative phoned me and gave me almost the same information which you had already given me the previous evening yourself. I told your representative that I would be hoping to have more exact information.

On July 28 I phoned you again in the hope that perhaps by then you would have obtained details of where my husband is detained. In reply to my question: "WHERE IS HE?" I was appalled with your answer: "HE IS IN INDIA". You went on to state that I should put my request to you in writing. If that is the only way in which things can move, I wonder why you did not ask me to do so when I contacted you first on July 18. What am I expected to make of your reply to me? Imagine for a moment if your wife or son were in jail and you had no news of their whereabouts for six weeks. How much comfort would you have drawn from a reply such as you gave me?

Please explain to me what is the great "open society" that exists in India today where a wife may not know where her husband is jailed, where a mother is kept ignorant of her son's whereabouts for days on end while the police inflict such brutal torture that they reduce the man to a physical and mental wreck. In case you have not read it, I enclose herewith a copy of the letter my mother-in-law wrote to the President of India with copies to 26 others, including Mrs. Indira Gandhi, giving details of the atrocities perpetrated upon George Fernandes' brother, Lawrence Fernandes.

Will you be able to help me find out the following regarding my husband?

- i) Place of detention
- ii) What are the charges
- iii) Has a trial been started
- iv) If so, the details of the same upto now
- v) Has legal counsel been provided
- vi) If so, the name of the lawyer
- vii) What, precisely, are the rules for visitors
- viii) Present state of health

Opposition Leader Being Put On 'Show Trial,' Alleges Wife

By PORUS COOPER

The government of India has decided to bring to trial Socialist leader George Fernandes, according to his wife, Leila Fernandes, who is in the United States. Fernandes, 46, led an underground Opposition to the state of emergency proclaimed on June 26, last year, till his arrest in Calcutta on June 10.

Quoting unnamed sources, Mrs. Fernandes told India Abroad in an interview last week that the Indian government was preparing for a "show trial" and that an approver had been found to testify against her husband.

According to her, Fernandes was produced on June 11—a day after his arrest—in a Delhi court and remanded to police hearings on July 3, 12, 15, and 21, and his lawyers, O. P. Malaviya and K. K. Luthra, had told the court that they were being prevented from seeing him.

Between his arrest and the opening of his case, Mrs. Fernandes alleged, her husband was "continuously interrogated and prevented from sleeping." Her latest information was, she said, that Fernandes was lodged in a jail in Haryana state, whose administration, according to her, has in the past taken ruthless action against dissidents.

JUDICIAL CUSTODY

Indian ambassador in Washington, Triloki Nath Kaul, confirmed that Fernandes had been produced before a magistrate. Talking to India Abroad over the telephone on August 2, Kaul said Fernandes had been sent to judicial custody, but did not know in which court he was produced.

Mrs. Fernandes said that despite repeated inquiries neither the ambassador nor the authorities in India had told her of her husband's whereabouts.

Mrs. Fernandes showed India Abroad copies of cablegrams she had sent to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, as well as of letters she had written to Indian Home Minister K. Brahmananda Reddi and to the Secretary in the Home Ministry inquiring about the whereabouts and state of health of her husband.

Leila Fernandes

She said she had also talked over the telephone to Ambassador Kaul on July 18, to the Minister (commerce) at the embassy, J.N. Dixit, on July 19, and again to the ambassador on July 28, but neither of them had told her where her husband was being held.

According to her, the ambassador in his first conversation had

'I Am With Him Every Moment,' Says Wife of Arrested Politician

Wedding bells had rung for her on July 22, 1971. The nation's president and prime minister came bearing gifts. There was music and merriment and her friends joked and smiled. The world may have been a perfect place to be in.

But there is no stopping time. On her fifth wedding anniversary she fought back tears as she spoke with anxiety and tried to mask the torment that she felt. Her child cried, "I want my Daddy."

Now uncertainty is the only thing of which Leila Fernandes, 39, is certain. Her husband is under arrest and she does not know his whereabouts. Her efforts to contact him, she says, have all been futile. Her lifelong friends find it embarrassing to know her, she says. A few close relatives and her 2½-year-old son, Sushanto, are her only consolation. His name means, "full of peace," she said, and added: "That is my hope for him. It is because of him that I left India."

Leila Fernandes (nee Kabir) first met the trade union leader and former member of Parliament whom she was to marry, in 1967, but it wasn't until three years later that she had a chance to know him. George Fernandes was recuperating in a hospital in New Delhi and

The Fernandes couple being greeted by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi at their wedding.

Leila went to see him there at the instance of the late Socialist leader, Ram Manohar Lohia.

In the years after her marriage she helped her husband publish a magazine, "Partipaksha," or "the other side." In 1974 her husband led a railway strike as the president of the All India Railwaymen's Federation. Thereafter, his political activities became less and less tolerable in the eyes of the Indian government, and his dedication to his cause grew even stronger.

On June 26, 1975, Leila saw her husband for the last time.

They were holidaying at a small fishing village, on India's eastern coast.

"We were to have left in May," Leila recalls. "But his work kept him. Finally, in mid-June I decided to go on my own. We decided that he would join me later. On the night of June 23, he arrived there by surprise. We spent two days together.

"Then there came a bolt from the blue. We heard about the emergency being declared in India. Radio broadcasts did not give any details and the nature of the understatements made us uneasy. All that we could make out was that something radically different had happened.

On June 26 she parted company with her husband. Thereafter, she had no word from him. For two months she endured the tension of a tapped phone, a police unit, and the embarrassment of friends who "looked right through you" and pretended not to know you.

She feared for her husband, and she feared for their son. One day in September on the advice of those close to her, she quietly boarded a flight to the United States, carrying 40 pounds of luggage and her child. She said of her husband: "I'd like to tell him I am with him, every inch, every moment. I bear up with him. I want to give him strength."

told her that her husband had been seen by doctors because he suffered from arthritis, while the second time she called him, he told her to make her inquiries in writing.

Kaul confirmed that he had told Mrs. Fernandes to write to him, but said she had not done so yet. Mrs. Fernandes, contacted later on August 2, said she had mailed the ambassador a letter on August 1, inquiring about her husband's whereabouts and state of health. The letter presumably had not reached the ambassador when India Abroad talked to him.

One of Fernandes's brothers, Lawrence, 44, had been tortured in custody before his (George Fernandes's) arrest, she alleged, and expressed fear that her husband might be facing similar treatment in custody. Her apprehension had increased after the ambassador had told her in response to her inquiries that Fernandes had been examined by doctors, she said.

ready and "it was really quite simple to leave the country," she said.

Mrs. Fernandes said she last saw her husband on the evening of June 26, 1975, the day the emergency was announced and the government arrested Opposition leaders. They heard the news while on vacation in a remote West Bengal village. Mrs. Fernandes said her husband went underground without telling her where he was going.

She alleged that in the months that followed her phone was constantly tapped and sometimes cut off "as it suited them (the authorities)." On August 16 last the police came to her home in New Delhi and questioned her about her husband's whereabouts. Besides Lawrence, another of her five brothers-in-law, Michael, a trade union leader, was also under arrest, she said.

Mrs. Fernandes, 39, is the daughter of the late Humayun Kabir, who was a prominent leader of the ruling Congress Party. She met George Fernandes in 1970 when he was in a hospital recovering from injuries he sustained when the police baton-charged a demonstration he was leading in front of Parliament House in New Delhi. They were married on July 22, 1971. Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was among those present at their wedding, she recalled.

Bar Council To Surrender

BOMBAY — The Chief Metropolitan Magistrate here has issued a proclamation calling upon the Chairman of the Bar Council of India, Ram B. Jethmalani, to surrender to the police, the Communist Party newspaper, Patriot, reported last week.

The magistrate, M. M. Dhruv, issued the order on July 23, telling Jethmalani "to appear before the Commissioner of Police, Greater Bombay, or the District Magistrate, Palghat (Kerala), on any working day between the 31st day and 45th day from the date of the publication of the proclamation."

Dhruv said it had been shown to his satisfaction that Jethmalani, for whose detention an order has been issued by the Palghat district magistrate, "has absconded or is concealing himself to avoid the execution of the said order of detention."

The Palghat district magistrate, P. Shanmugnasundaram, had reported that he had passed the detention order against Jethmalani on January 30 but the order could not be executed as he "has absconded or is concealing himself." Dhruv said in

Dear Mr. Ambassador:

I am sorry it has taken so long to secure the enclosed photos.

However, I do hope Mr. Hussain will appreciate those of him as a further remembrance of his visit to the White House.

President Ford would like you to have the enclosed photograph taken in the Rose Garden in appreciation for your great interest in our Bicentennial commemoration.

My very best wishes.

Sincerely,

Milton E. Mitler

MEMO FOR JON HOWE
FROM: JEANNE W. DAVIS VWT
SUBJECT: Indian Parliament Request for Vice Presidential Message

Attached is the State Department's recommendation that there be no Vice Presidential message to the Rajya Sabha. We concur in this recommendation. If you agree, we suggest that you return this to us and we will have State handle the reply on the Vice President's behalf.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. BRENT SCOWCROFT
THE WHITE HOUSESubject: Request for Vice Presidential Congratulatory
Message for the Council of States in India

In reply to the inquiry from your office of December 21 (NSC-6444), it is our judgment that it would be inappropriate for the Vice President to forward a congratulatory message for the anniversary volume of the Rajya Sabha given the uncertainty surrounding the role of the Indian Parliament under the current state of emergency.

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN
RAJYA SABHA
PARLIAMENT HOUSE
NEW DELHI

20 November, 1976.
29 Kartika, 1898 (Saka).

Dear Mr. President,

The Council of States (Rajya Sabha), which is the Upper House of the Indian Parliament, will be completing 25 years of its life and will be holding its 100th Session in May, 1977. The General Purposes Committee of the Rajya Sabha decided that suitable celebrations be organised to mark the occasion.

As part of the celebrations, it was decided to bring out a Commemorative Volume on the role of the Upper Houses in Bicameral Legislatures. A list of subjects, not to be taken as exhaustive, indicating the various facets of the working of the Upper Houses is enclosed.

A function will be organised on the occasion to release this Commemorative Volume.

In order to make the publication interesting and befitting the occasion, I would request you to contribute an article on any of the topics mentioned in the enclosed list for inclusion in the Volume. | N.D

We would also welcome a Message of good wishes from you for publication in the Volume with a copy of your recent photograph.

I would appreciate if you could kindly send your article and Message of good wishes by the end of December, 1976 as it would facilitate timely publication of the Volume. K

Looking forward to hear from you and with kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

(Godey Murahari)

The Hon'ble Mr. Nelson A. Rockefeller,
President of the Senate,
Senate,
WASHINGTON, D.C. (U. S. A.).

Dear Mr. Ambassador:

Mrs. Ford and I want to thank you and Mrs. Singh for your thoughtful gift during the Holidays. We were most pleased to be remembered with the book entitled Chamba Painting which you so kindly inscribed. You may be sure this work is a splendid addition to our library.

With best wishes for the New Year.

Request for Presidential Message to Trade India International

This is in response to your request for guidance on the attached request for a message from the President to the Indian Garment Fair. Our staff has reviewed the request and decided that it would be inappropriate for a message to be sent to this promotional group in India. We have therefore forwarded the letter to State and requested that the Department handle the reply directly, indicating that a message will not be possible. (Eliska Hasek concurs)
