For parties requiring transportation from the Moncloa Palace, a limited number of vehicles will be stationed at the Palace itself. Requests should be made to the State Department Control Officer through the White House Advance Office at the Palace.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Madrid, Spain

1. Moncloa Palace

Located next to the campus of the University of Madrid, the palace of La Moncloa is one of the most picturesque residences on the city's outskirts. La Moncloa is surrounded by trees and hills, faces recreation park Casa de Campa, and has a clear view of the Guadarrama Mountain Range. During the Civil War of 1936-39, the palace was completely destroyed because it formed part of the front lines and was continually attacked and occupied in the battles in that part of Madrid. A new building was constructed between 1946-53 near the old site but on a higher location. The square floor design, utilizing three sides and an open patioed fourth side, includes three floors and a basement. The interior was decorated predominantly in the neo-classical and imperial styles and displays antique (rococo) furniture, tapestries, clocks, chandeliers, and china--all furnished by the Patrimonio Nacional. The palace also includes all the modern conveniences and is utilized as the official residence for important personalities and chiefs of state who visit Spain.

2. Princess Sophia of Greece

Princess Sophia, 36, is the eldest daughter of the late King Paul and Queen Frederika and sister of King Constantine II. Sophia and Prince Juan Carlos of Spain were married in Athens in a combined Greek Orthodox and Roman Catholic ceremony in May 1962. (Sophia adopted the Roman Catholic faith in June 1962.) Sophia was trained as a pediatric nurse before her marriage. The Princess shares her husband's love of sports, especially sailing. Since establishing their residence at the palace of Zarzuela in Madrid, Prince Juan Carlos and Princess Sophia have toured Spain extensively. The royal couple has three children: Elena, Christina, and Felipe. The Princess speaks fluent Spanish, German, and English, in addition to her native Greek.

3. General Franco

General Franco was married in 1923 to the former Carmen Polo Y Martinez Valdes, the daughter of a wealthy Austrian merchant. Their only child, a daughter called Carmencita (Maria del Carmen Franco Y Polo), is married to prominent Madrid cardiologist, Dr. Cristobal Martinez Bordiu Ortega Y Vascaran, Marques de Villaverde. The Francos have seven grandchildren.

Sometimes appreciatively referred to as "La Generalissima," Mrs. Franco reputedly has enjoyed full partnership with her husband and has had more influence on his decisions than Spanish tradition encourages. In recent years Mrs. Franco has substituted for her husband in public functions. Some of the family financial interests are in her name, e.g., real estate. Mrs. Franco devotes a great deal of her time to charity and willingly lends her name and presence to fund drives supporting such institutions as hospitals, homes for the aged, and orphanages.

Both attend Mass several times a week.

5. Mrs. Weells Stabler

Miss Emily Atkinson was married to Weells Stabler, now Ambassador to Spain, in Salzburg, Austria in 1953. They have four children (two girls, aged 20 and 19, two boys, aged 17 and 17). Eldest daughter is student at American University and second girl at Skidmore College. The two boys attend St. Georges School, New Port, Rhode Island. Mrs. Stabler grew up in Boston and attended Milton Academy. She worked for two years for a radio station in Greenwich, Connecticut, producing and voicing a half-hour daily program ("Town Topics") and later as research assistant in international industrial consulting firm in New York. Personal interests: skiing, tennis, and swimming.

SALESAS REALES CHURCH

At 7:15 a.m., you will attend a Catholic Mass at the Salesas Reales Church, one of Madrid's most beautiful churches. It was completed in 1787. The front is remarkable for its simplicity and for the harmony of its elements, one of which is sculptor Julian San Martin's bas-relief representing St. Francis de Sales (after whom the Order was named) and the founder of the Order, Juana Francisca Freymot. The inside of the church continues the simplicity of the front, and makes one think of it as a chapel rather than a church. It has beautiful marble altar pieces, and above the main altar is a painting by Agustin Esteve, with the same theme as the bas-relief at the entrance. All the other paintings in the church were done by one of the nuns, who is still alive, but who unfortunately, will be in Cordoba when you see her work.

The name of the priest saying mass is Emiliano Perez. He is the priest who normally says mass in this church.

The Monastery of the Visitation of St. Mary (to the right of the church) is called a "monastery" but there are no monks - only 35 nuns. The Mother Superior, who agreed to arrange this special mass for you, is Maria Josefa Heras. The nuns dedicate themselves to the almost lost arts of baking and embroidering. They maintain the church and the monastery with the proceeds of their sales and help the poor.

DEPARTURE FROM MADRID

Generalissimo and Mrs. Franco will arrive at Moncloa Palace at 8:25 a. m. and are greeted by you and Mrs. Ford. After a 15-minute meeting with the Generalissimo, you ride with him in his car to the airport. Upon arrival, you will be met by the Minister of Air Cuadra and escorted to a VIP Lounge where you bid farewell to the assembled dignitaries. You and the General then review the troops, ascend the platform for the playing of the Anthems, and after bidding Generalissimo and Mrs. Franco goodbye, board Air Force One and depart for Salzburg.

SALZBURG ARRIVAL

You and Mrs. Ford will be met at the Salzburg Airport by Chancellor and Mrs. Bruno Kreisky and other key Austrian and American dignitaries. After passing by the ceremonial honor guard (this is not a military unit so no salutes are offered or returned), you and Chancellor Kreisky proceed to a stand-up microphone where the Chancellor makes welcoming remarks and you respond. LIVE LOCAL TELEVISION. Following your remarks you and Chancellor Kreisky depart in your car for the Schloss Klessheim (Presidential Residence).

The Schloss Klessheim, which is to be your residence while in Salzburg, lies two miles northwest of the city. The imposing baroque mansion was originally built for Archbishop Johann Ernst Graf Thun by Fischer Von Erlach in 1700-09, but became the property of the Austrian Emperor at the time of the Congress of Vienna (1816). Emperor Francis Joseph I gave it to his brother, Archduke Ludwig Viktor, in the 1860's and decreed it to be the Archduke's residence. In 1921, the Province of Salzburg acquired Schloss Klessheim from the heirs of Archduke Ludwig Viktor.

The palace is now used to lodge guests of the Provincial Government and for seminars, congresses, ceremonial occasions, and in the summer is used as a school for diplomats. The park contains a golf course, swimming pool, and the "Hoyoshaus" a garden pavillion.

HEAD TO HEAD MEETING WITH CHANCELLOR KREISKY

At 11:00 a. m. upon arrival at the Schlöss Klessheim, you and Chancellor Kreisky proceed to a sitting room for a 30-minute head to head meeting.

LUNCH AT SCHLOSS FUSCHL

You depart the Schloss Klessheim at 12:40 p. m. en route the Schloss Fuschl where you will attend a working lunch hosted by President Sadat. Following the dessert course, President Sadat will offer a toast, to which you respond. You return to the Schloss Klessheim for personal time of 1 hour and 50 minutes.

The Schloss Fuschl, now an elegant hotel, is situated about 12 miles east of Salzburg overlooking the Lake of Fuschl. The original castle, a late Gothic tower, was built in 1450 by the Salzburg archbishops as a hunting lodge and was in the possession of the church until 1830. In 1830, the castle became private property until 1938 when it was occupied during World War II by German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop and his family. The tower was turned into a hotel in 1948 and enlarged by adjoining buildings with the help of Marshall Plan funds.

HEAD TO HEAD MEETING WITH PRESIDENT SADAT AT RESIDENZ

You depart the Schloss Klessheim at 4:45 p. m. en route Residenz for a 90-minute head to head meeting with President Sadat. You return to the Schloss Klessheim at 6:55 p. m. and have personal time for 1 hour, and 20 minutes.

The Residenz was built in the 16th century and housed the Salzburg archbishops and their courts when it became more comfortable to stay in the city rather than on the high fortress. With its extensive courtyard where small operas and concerts are performed during the Salzburg Festival, as well as with its beautifully decorated imperial rooms, the residenz serves today for representational functions hosted by the Governor of the province of Salzburg.

STATE DINNER AT RESIDENZ (DARK BUSINESS SUIT)

You and Mrs. Ford depart the Schloss Klessheim at 8:15 p. m. for a State Dinner hosted by Chancellor and Mrs. Kreisky honoring you and President Sadat. At approximately 10:00 p. m., and before dessert, Chancellor Kreisky offers a toast to you and President Sadat. Following President Sadat, you make your response toast. After dessert and coffee, you return to your residence --arriving there at approximately 11:20 p. m.
