MRS. FORD'S REMARKS

THIRTY-EIGHTH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT LUNCHEON

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

MARCH 11, 1976

From all the wonderful things I've heard about you and your hard work for the GOP, I just wish we could package your energy and enthusiasm and distribute the packages around the country for the benefit of all other GOP volunteers.

Of all the stories I've heard about your dedicated service, my favorite is about the elderly voter who was taken to the polls twice. She was so impressed by your concern and helpfulness she couldn't bear to tell the second volunteer she'd already been to vote. That story told me so much--not only about how hard you work, but something even more important--how much personal attention you give to people.

Sometimes all of the sophisticated talk about polls and percentages overshadows what good politics is about--people! You obviously understand this very well.

Americans who've never been involved in party work watch those votes flick on the television screen election night and think only of numbers.

You see those numbers and think about people--people who must be registered and urged to the polls.

Grassroots is exactly the right description of the silent, indispensable work volunteers like you do for the Republican party. Just as the roots of grass hold the soil in place--so your work keeps the party together. You prevent the erosion of Republican support during off years, and you work every season to build up GOP registration and to keep the party organization running smoothly.

You do the Party's hard work--out of the limelight and without pay. All of the jobs you do--keeping headquarters open, raising your own funds, distributing literature and registering and getting out voters--require time, patience, and energy and lots of dedication.

I know how indispensable GOP volunteers are for our Party, and I'm proud to join this "Thank You" for all those hours and all those sore feet.

THIRTY-EIGHTH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT LUNCHEON
MARCH 11, 1976

I've been asked to present five awards to those who represent the dedicated service you all give, and I'm very honored to do so.

To the Canoga Park Jr. Republicans--a youth group dedicated to the principles and philosophy of the Republican party and pledged to carry them out with energy, devotion and enterprise. Group President Mark Wildberger.

To Mrs. Reta Fitzpatrick--during the past two years of tireless grassroots work in the 38th Assembly District, she gave generously of her time and efforts while serving as precinct chairman.

To Mrs. Madge Tarter--after retirement, she found a new and enjoyable career working for the GOP when she became headquarters and phone chairman for the 38th Assembly District.

To Mrs. Virginia Blashill--for many years, she has served as precinct chairman for the Pacific Palisades area of the district, and her efforts have increased Republican voter registration and produced more GOP votes on election day.

To Mrs. Mary Robinson--she found no limitations as a Republican Party worker and wore many hats, but she displayed her most exceptional talents as registration chairman.

I congratulate each of these special award recipients and all of you in this audience who have given so generously of yourselves to the Republican Party. Keep up the good work.

I spoke with Mrs. Hicks, Vice Chairman of the L.A. ^{Calif.} Repub. Central Comm. (actually she was out, but I left a message with her husband because I will be away next week) that every one here agreed that their having a fundraising tea or luncheon for Mrs. Ford while she is with the President in Calif. in Sept. is a great idea, but the trip is being structured and scheduled officially thus this would be the only political event which would change the nature and funding of the trip. Therefore, we would keep it in mind for a future visit. I also told Mrs. Ford about the conclusion, and she concurred.

Dear Mrs. Porter:

By way of introduction I am the Beatrice Kay who called you the other day and left a message that I would like to discuss arrangements concerning Mrs. Fords' luncheon engagement in Los Angeles, March 11th.

Perhaps it would be better to explain further by saying that Mrs. Marie Hicks, chairman of the committee for the luncheon, has asked me to handle press arrangements for the event.

In Los Angeles, which is frequently called the "never-never" land (meaning never say no) when it was learned that the President's wife would be making a separate appearance here, we were immediately subjected to numerous and odd requests from the press.

So I thought it would be wise to check with you quickly and in turn those members of Mrs. Ford's staff who work with the press so they could give me benefit of their counsel for my guidance.

It is a certainty there are special press arrangements which must be considered and that was my purpose in calling you.

I would appreciate hearing from you or the appropriate people as soon as possible. Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

Beatrice Kay

Mrs. Betty Ford, the nation's first lady, the honored guest at a fund-raising luncheon hosted by the 38th Assembly District of the Republican Central Committee, praised Republican grassroots volunteer workers as indispensable to any political campaign.

Mrs. Ford presented awards to the years outstanding Republican activists in the District.

"It is a marvelous thing the First Lady is doing," Mrs. Marie Hicks, the luncheon organizer and chairman of the 38th Assembly District said.

"To our knowledge it is the first time anyone has asked Mrs. Ford to raise money for a volunteer Republican organization and we are just delighted she accepted our invitation," Mrs. Hicks added.

Those receiving awards were Reta Fitzpatrick, 38th District precinct chairman; Virginia Blashill, for many years District precinct chairman for the Pacific Palisades area; Madge Tarter, telephone and headquarters chairman whose job is to find unregistered Republican voters and get out the vote on election day; and Mary Robinson who has served as headquarters chairman, registration chairman and assisted in fund-raising. Mrs. Robinson is also past president of the Canoga Park Republican Womens Club, Federated.

The Canoga Park Junior Republicans in the person of the current president Mark Wildberger was presented an award for many hours of precinct work on telephones, distributing campaign literature, helping to get out the vote on election day plus compiling 10,000 sets of campaign literature. The Junior Republicans are young people of junior and senior high school age.

On behalf of the 38th District, Mrs. Hicks presented a check in the name of Mrs. Ford to the Crippled Children's Society of Los Angeles County to be used for the new sheltered workshop at Rancho del Valle in Woodland Hills. Brian Brian Stone, 10, of Agoura, the 1976 Crippled Children's Seals Child, accepted the check on behalf of the Society.

I. Introduction

This pamphlet presents a brief overview of The Lambs, Incorporated and emphasizes The Lambs Institute as a national training institute. The pamphlet will also include a brief overview of The Lambs' purpose and philosophy, the services being offered to the mentally handicapped adult and its place in the community. It is not intended to answer all questions. Because of the individuality of each young person, and the newness of The Lambs Institute, many of your questions can only be answered after consultation with our staff.

You have noticed that we referred to those in residence and active in our program as "young people". We also refer to our facilities, businesses and grounds as a "community". This is intentional.

The Lambs is a unique and dynamic project in community living for mentally retarded adults. The Lambs consists of seven businesses which employ mentally retarded adults, and a residential program which provides a home for our young people.

The young people are eligible for admission after the age of eighteen and once accepted may remain in the program as long as they wish.

The Lambs Institute has been developed to provide a multi-dimensional educational and training base necessary to meet the needs of several distinct target groups who may wish to explore The Lambs' approach and methods for application to their own community, professional or organizational program.

II. History of The Lambs

The Lambs was founded in 1960 by Robert Terese and Corinne Owen who were serving as instructors at Retarded Childrens Aid at Chicago's Hull House. The members at that time consisted of the parents of twelve young retarded adults. In 1961 The Lambs Pet Shop was opened on North State Street in Chicago. The young people cleaned the cages, fed the animals and performed the routine maintenance. Growth and success of the venture forced the necessity of expansion to provide for increased numbers of young people and more areas of activities. In 1965 a 49 acre tract was located near Libertyville, Illinois and is the present location for the program.

Gradually the old farm buildings were converted into business work areas; i.e., the barn to a pet shop, the large farmhouse to a tearoom, etc. New buildings have been added, including: a Farmer's Market, Silk Screen Arts and Crafts Shop, Refreshment Stand, Farm Animal Zoo, etc. A $125,000 sewage treatment plant has been installed to permit the construction of the existing residency and more planned for the future. The present job areas consist of:

Pet Shop	Farm Animal Zoo
Restaurant	Farmer's Market
Bakery	Refreshment Stand
Gift Shop	Silk Screen Shop

The enthusiastic response of the Chicago Community area shown by its patronage points to the success of the business operated by and for the mentally retarded.

The response of the mentally retarded Lambs to their jobs and their customers demonstrates the success of The Lambs as a mental health project.

III. What is The Lambs?

The Lambs, Inc. is a private non-profit organization providing semi-protective activities for mentally retarded adults living within the Chicago Community area. The young people are moderately and mildly retarded, ages 18 and up, who have terminated available public school education and who, because of their mental handicaps have difficulty succeeding in today's working society. The Lambs is a self-perpetuating organization which the mentally retarded themselves directly help to keep going. The operation creates its own reason for being in its contact with the community by furthering the acceptance of the mentally retarded by the general public.

IV. Finance

The Lambs business revenues contribute to the support of the cost of sustaining the program. The remaining operating costs plus construction and expansion funds must be raised by contributions and grants.

The Lambs receive no state or federal funds making it truly a unique organization where the young people are doing their best to help themselves, (commensurate with their capability) and are succeeding with the generous help of many individuals and groups in the community.

V. Purpose of The Lambs, Incorporated

The purpose of The Lambs, Inc. includes:

1. To own, operate, control and maintain high level activities and projects for mentally handicapped persons.

2. To provide, own, operate, control and maintain living facilities for mentally handicapped persons.
3. To engage in projects and work related to the education, training, care, support and maintenance of mentally handicapped persons.

In an attempt to meet the need of supportive life services which many adult retardates are unable to provide through their own resources, The Lambs, Inc. was founded. The philosophy of The Lambs is to develop and maintain a community in which the retarded adult can live, work, socialize and develop with dignity.

VI. The Lambs Program

The Lambs is a pilot program developing a model which is an alternative to the sheltered workshop and classical rehabilitation concept. Many things about mentally retarded have been learned and incorporated into The Lambs program which points the way to additional progressively unique activities. Visitors are constantly coming to the farm from all over the world seeking patterns, techniques and encouragement from what they see being done. The work projects of The Lambs are not synthetic, but real. The Lambs is not a school, although the retarded are taught to manage themselves and perform work tasks. The method executes the basic philosophy of The Lambs. The mentally retarded can develop beyond their current functioning level if they are assigned tasks beyond the routine. The assumed responsibility, the public contact, the work variety all demand and develop the latent potential of the mentally handicapped. Individuals can achieve a composed outlook on life, devoid of fear and hostility, which is indeed mentally and emotionally healthy.

VII. The Lambs Board of Directors

The Board of Directors of The Lambs is a highly functioning board. It is a composite of parents, technically and professionally skilled people as well as other genuinely interested individuals. They all devote their talent and time to the operation, development and growth of the program.

VIII. Lambs Goals

There are many goals which The Lambs is attempting to reach.

1. "What will happen to my child when I am gone" is a question often asked by parents of the retarded. When the family can no longer provide the needed care, more often than not the answer to that question is an institution, or residential facility. Many retarded, although not capable of completely independent living, are capable of a very productive life. The Lambs is an attempt to provide a loving, structured social life and a productive, interesting work environment.
2. The retarded can learn and develop, but most work forces are not geared to the slower learning and production rate. The Lambs puts emphasis on individual learning and development experiences. Salary and competition are not used as motivation. Each young person is given confidence by encouragement and reinforced success.
3. Most people do not know what the retarded are really like. Unless you have actually worked with or lived with the retarded, the open love and warmth they have may escape you.

The Lambs is open to the public for shopping and dining every day of the week. (Tea Room is closed on Fridays.) In this way, the public is able to see how capable the retarded are. At the same time, this public contact gives the young person a chance to meet in an atmosphere he or she finds comfortable.

IX. Lambs Institute

Another equally important thrust of The Lambs Program is the education of interested individuals and organizations in methods and techniques of developing similar programs in America and other countries.

Upon completion of The Lambs model, the program will still only be able to serve a limited number of retarded adults. The number of retarded adults in need of similar services is too great for one operation to meet. There is a critical need throughout the United States and foreign countries for additional programs similar in approach to The Lambs. This is indicated by the hundreds of interested groups and individuals who have written or visited the farm to request information. These directors, parents, agencies and students are interested in how to develop and operate a program that provides total life services.

The Lambs Institute philosophy is to provide a multi-dimensional educational and training base necessary to meet the needs of several distinct target groups who may wish to explore The Lambs approach and methods so as to apply them to their own community, professional or organizational program. The Lambs Institute may be better understood through identification of the target groups and the educational objective of each.

1. Parents and Lay Leaders - parents of retarded people and other concerned citizens have been and probably will continue to constitute the largest group of people who visit or make contact with The Lambs for educational reasons. The Lambs' objective is to assist them in learning about The Lambs' approach, program and organization.
2. Students - students are a second group which frequently visit The Lambs to inquire about its approach to working with retarded people. The objective of this group is to provide opportunities for experiential learning in working with retarded people with results of graduates who are well informed and experienced.

3. Educators - it is important to familiarize educators with the techniques and methods used by The Lambs so they may in turn apply these methods in their classroom and program instruction.
4. Administrators - interested administrators will find ideas to apply to governmental or non-governmental agencies. After exposure to new ideas the value these administrators have will affect three distinct areas.
 - A. Influence of professional attitudes and practice in their respective agencies.
 - B. Professional influence in decisions of public policy.
 - C. Develop and teach methods of practice compatible with The Lambs' philosophy of care.

X. Lambs Institute Purpose

The purpose of The Lambs Institute is to offer a multi-functional education program to distinct target groups who wish to explore

The Lambs' approach and methods.

To develop sensitivity, through love and understanding of the mentally handicapped.

To provide a base of information and materials relating "The Lambs Way" as a contribution to many professional levels so they may in turn apply "The Lambs Model" to their own specific interest group or organization.

To provide training workshops and institutes to expose individuals, organizations, and agencies interested in the retarded, to philosophies and life structures which enable secure and fulfilling lives for the retarded adult. These principals and philosophies are also applicable to other groups who need to live in communities with special support, i.e. aged, deaf, physically handicapped, emotionally disturbed, etc.

To provide direction and consultation related to matching handicapped citizens' capacities with community opportunities.

To develop further methods and programs to enable the mentally handicapped and other special support groups to live with a sense of human dignity, of self-fulfillment, and of realization of one's potential.

To encourage people in such a way that they may overcome the fear of starting in a venture similiar to ours.

XI. Lambs Institute Curriculum

It should be emphasized at the outset of this discussion that as the program develops, certain modifications and combinations of the proposed activities can be expected to occur. For example, educational workshops and conferences are outlined below in terms of rather specific lay and professional audiences and objectives, but it is probable that some of the educational offerings will be designed for integrated groups; in this way people can bring their different perspectives, roles and skills to bear on a particular aspect of the humane care of the retarded and thereby enrich each other.

The Lambs Institute program will include:

1. Community Leaders' Workshop

The Community Leaders' Workshop will be one of the basic offerings of the institute. It will be given several times each year, based on fluctuations in demand and other institute commitments. Its purpose will be to acquaint the workshop participant with the entire scope of The Lambs operation.

Experiential learning in the form of participation in business/training areas and individual consultation will be provided during the afternoon and some evening sessions.

2. College and University
Field Experience

Another basic component of the institute's program will be the provision of field experience opportunities for college and university students.

3. Conferences and Workshops
For Professionals

In addition to conducting the basic workshop for community leaders, the institute will offer a series of shorter conferences and workshops for professionals in various functional fields.

4. Lectures from Lambs' staff and other professionals in the field.

5. Group discussions.

6. Design workshops based on The Lambs' experiences so the participant has the opportunity to design a work module appropriate to their own special interest group.

7. Hands-on experience at The Lambs in one or all of the business stations.

8. Areas to be researched related to mentally handicapped and other special supportive groups.

9. Other areas of need that the institute may direct itself to.

XII. The Lambs Residential Program

Rewards gained from the work experiences and planned social activities are still only part of The Lambs community. In 1976 The Lambs established an additional component in providing for the total-life needs of the adult retardate. A complete community must provide a base center for the daily living, not just a center for work. The Lambs' residence provides the facility in which the adult retarded individual can live in dignity, security and respectability.

Goals and Objectives

1. Provide a home atmosphere for a base center of daily living.

2. Encourage the establishment of peer relationships.
3. Promote self-sufficiency regarding personal hygiene and grooming.
4. Enhance the growth of fine and gross motor development.
5. Expand and develop individual skills and areas of interest.
6. Provide comprehensive exposures to cultural and social events in the community.
7. Create an environment which initiates emotional stability and maturity.
8. Provide an atmosphere of refined social maturity.

The Lambs' residence role in the state's comprehensive program is to:

1. Provide an alternative to institutional type care by making available facilities and services desperately needed by the retarded.
2. Provide a supportive home-like environment with guidance and supervision.
3. Encourage responsibility, usefulness, self-respect and independence.

4. Provide the opportunity to function at and develop to the individual's potential while realizing his rights and dignity.
5. Operate a program within the state's comprehensive program which has initiative and innovation.

XIII. Admission Policies

1. Mildly and moderately retarded persons, ages 18 - 35, are admitted. The applicant must have the potential for:
 - a. work
 - b. getting along with others
 - c. following directions
 - d. maintaining attention
 - e. taking public transportation.
 Persons are not necessarily excluded for lack of speech or for physical handicaps.
2. Persons are not admitted to The Lambs who have:
 - a. severe sensory or motor handicaps
 - b. uncontrollable seizures
 - c. history of delinquency
 - d. severe emotional problems.
3. Generally, applicants should have completed available school education.

4. Appropriate legal requirements such as establishing guardianship and securing a social security number must be arranged.
5. Medical, psychological, educational and social evaluations must be submitted for admission consideration.
6. Tuition is determined on a sliding scale based on ability to pay. No person is denied service because of financial needs, sex, race or religion.

Admission Procedures

Application for admission to The Lambs is made through the Social Service Department. A formal application is sent to the parents or legal guardian following a preliminary evaluation to indicate The Lambs ability to serve the young person. The application must be submitted to the Social Service Department accompanied by a $10.00 fee for processing. Medical, psychological, educational and/or social evaluation is requested for admission consideration.

An interview with the candidate and parent/guardian or interested person will follow the receipt of the above information. The potential desirability of placement of the candidate at The Lambs will be discussed at this time. Subsequently, additional evaluations, such as psychological, medical and/or on job evaluation, may be required.

Upon meeting the necessary criteria as determined by the staff and as openings become available admission is completed.

Love is Best of All

by Dr. Karl Menninger

My interest in mentally retarded children came from a great teacher, Dr. Elmer Ernest Southard, my teacher at Harvard Medical School, who was far ahead of his time in many ways. In the development of psychiatry to the problems of industry, in his efforts to bring psychological treatment out of institutions into daily life — he was a forerunner of modern thought, 50 years ago.

Among his many interests he gave a priority to the study of mentally retarded children and he urged me to make a place for this concern when I started my own practice in Topeka, Kansas. He said that not only was there much need for study of this group but that he believed that there was much to be learned from them by the scientist, especially about the learning process and its vicissitudes.

At the time he advocated this, it was believed that most mental retardation (or deficiency) was an unalterable state which was not subject to treatment. Since then our thinking has very gradually changed, and today such organizations as The Lambs have shown us that a great deal depends on the treatment of retarded children and young people.

One of the hopeful and inspiring facts about the treatment of these individuals is that we can all have a part in it. Understanding, love, patience and hope, when exercised by everyone who meets these young people, open doors too long closed to them.

The program of the Lambs Pet Shop and Pet Park, as instituted and carried on by Mr. Robert Terese and Mrs. Corinne Owen, with magnificent faith and devotion, emphasizes work and that is good; it emphasizes work that enables the young people to meet and deal with the public and that is better; and it also gives them something to love and something to care for, something dependent upon them, and that is best of all.

Who's retarded? Couple challenges old attitudes

Providing meaningful work for adults who have been judged retarded and breaking down stereotyped ideas about them — these were the primary motives of Robert Terese and Corinne Owen when they started a pet shop. Today, the Lambs, their organization, has 65 such adults working on a 50-acre farm, where they learn many different skills — from baking to working in a craft shop. One in a continuing Monitor series on the World's Good Samaritans.

By Monty Hoyt

Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Libertyville, Ill.

"I hear you have retarded boys and girls here," said a wealthy matron who breezed travel expenses to and from the farm as well as $10 a month "salary."

The real success story behind the Lambs has been in human terms.

Here's what you'll see when you visit THE LAMBS

Dr. Karl Menninger, senior consultant to Chicago's Stone-Brandel Center and founder of the Menninger School of Psychiatry.

CHILDREN'S FARMYARD - The new Children's Farmyard includes many baby farm animals to feed and to pet. The Lambs are responsible for feeding, cleaning and taking care of these animals.

FARMER'S MARKET - This old-fashioned general store carries a full line of cheese, sausage and penny candy. Our brand new preserves department cans jams and jellies. The Lambs are responsible for weighing, bagging and pricing the bulk grains and noodles, and processing the preserves.

SILK SCREEN ART SHOP - This shop is the result of a long tradition in the history of The Lambs. Since the original Lambs Pet Store began in Chicago, the Lambs have hand-screened Christmas cards. We still print Christmas cards in our new shop, and now have added notepaper, breadboards, ceramic tile, our own recipe book, and labels for our own brand of pet food sold in the Pet Shop. The Lambs not only hand-screen, but fold, imprint and package the cards they make.

A WALK IN THE WOODS - Our gift shop carries the natural atmosphere of the outdoors in its interior and merchandise. In this shop the Lambs stock and price the gift items and water the green plants which are for sale.

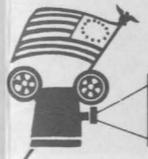

PET SHOP - The Pet Shop is the original business of The Lambs. We have all types of animals for sale and supplies to care for them. The Lambs feed, water and clean the animals and their cages. They also bag and price the pet supplies.

GRANDMA'S BAKERY - Our bakery makes the bread and rolls served in the Farmer's Market and dining room. Cookies, turnovers and breadsticks are made there also. The Lambs bake all these things and recently completed a cake decorating course.

SHEPHERD'S INN DINING ROOM - Our dining room serves a buffet lunch six days a week to both visitors and special groups. The Lambs work here waiting on tables, and in the kitchen preparing the food. Hours are 11:30 to 2:00 weekdays and Saturday; Sunday-11:30 to 4:00; closed Fri.

HERITAGE HOUSE - This building was designed to give groups a chance to see a film showing the development of The Lambs, as well as a slide and film presentation about our country's heritage.

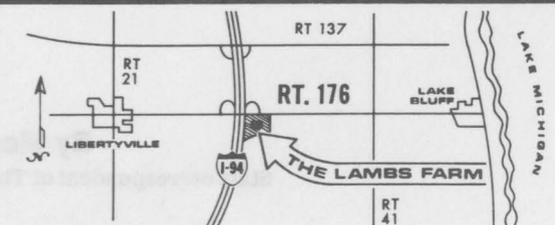

We hope these facts will make your visit more meaningful. If you have any questions about the farm, please don't hesitate to ask. The staff will be delighted to help you in any way they can.

Enjoy your visit!

THE LAMBS: A FARM IS A WAY OF CARING

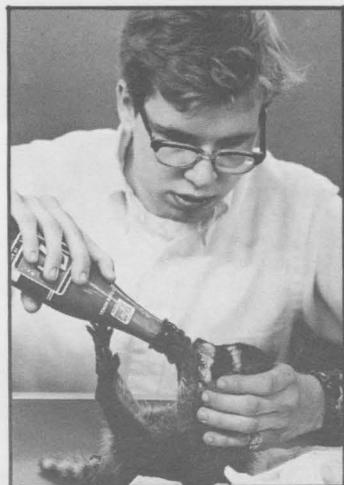

THE LAMBS: A FARM IS A WAY OF CARING

"Which ones are retarded?"
asked the lady in the pet shop.
"I'm one of them," said the salesgirl.
"Can I help you?"

Seven days a week, 55 people with IQ's of 30 to 80 go to work at the Lambs Pet Farm in Libertyville, Ill. Many commute from Chicago out to the 50-acre farm whose huge barn and silo dominate the surrounding pastureland. They know they're subjects of a program for the mentally retarded, but they don't see themselves as passive spongers of "care." At the farm, they're the ones who do the caring—for themselves, each other and the animals who depend on them. The Lambs, as the retarded people proudly call themselves, get up in the morning because they have jobs to do, friends to meet and satisfactions to seek. (The rest of us should be going to work for the same reasons.) They work in the farm's pet shop, gift shop, restaurant, bakery and silk-screen room. Tourists, pet owners and folks in search of a good inexpensive lunch swarm to the farm because it's a nice place to visit and shop—not because they feel sorry for the Lambs. They spend enough to cover 65 percent of the farm's operating expenses. Private donations take care of the rest.

A Lamb doesn't see all this as custody or treatment but as a way of life that is, for him, like anybody else's. An earnest 18-year-

A gushy collie, a comforting friend, and a tiny thing that counts on you for every drop of life, all get the "Lambs" to work in the morning. At right, Corinne Owen, Bob Terese (behind her), some of their charges and friends.

A REPORT TO FRIENDS AND DONORS

"LOVE IS BEST OF ALL"

Dr. Karl Menninger

"The program of the Lambs Farm emphasizes work and that is good; it emphasizes work that enables the young people to meet and deal with the public and that is better; and it also gives them something to love and something to care for, something dependent upon them, and that is best of all."

WHAT IS THE LAMBS?

The Lambs, Inc., a private non-profit organization, provides semi-protective activities for mildly and moderately mentally retarded young adults. For too long the fear of failure has haunted the retarded person in a "normal" world and has forced him to retreat to his home — feeling rejected, useless and unfulfilled. Our Lambs, who range in age from 18 to 40, are mentally young and socially vulnerable. Here at the farm — while they will always be retarded because it is an irreversible condition — they can and have become whole, valuable, contributing human beings.

In 1960, Robert Terese and Corinne Owen were instructors at Retarded Children's Aid of Chicago Hull House. They were concerned with what would happen when the children left there, and they were convinced that the moderately retarded could thrive in an atmosphere founded on friendship with fellow peers and job fulfillment within their individual scopes.

In 1961, Bob and Corinne, with the parents of twelve young retarded adults, opened The Lambs Pet Shop on Chicago's Near North side. For the first time, these retarded youngsters felt the joy of accomplishment as they cared for the animals and served the public. At the same time they learned to trust and like themselves and developed a new social maturity. Growth and success of the venture made expansion a necessity, and with the help of W. Clement Stone, a 49 acre farm was acquired near Libertyville, Illinois, in 1965.

Now we have 80 Lambs coming to the farm each day and have added seven other job areas in which the young people can work. We are careful to teach them new skills from the standpoint of their strengths and then to educate them in their weaker areas. Thus our young people proceed from a position of success which is important to those who have failed so often.

They have proved that they are physically, mentally and emotionally able to function in a sheltered situation. They have also demonstrated that given care, concern and interest, their response can be even more immediate than that of a normal person.

Corinne Owen and Robert Terese, Co-Founders of the Lambs, Inc.

A FEW OF THE PRODUCTS MADE BY THE LAMBS, INC.

PHYSICAL FACILITIES

Gradually the original farm buildings were converted into business work areas and new buildings were added. The Lambs now operate a Pet Store, Restaurant, Bakery, Gift Shop, Farmer's Market, Farm Animal Zoo, Refreshment Stand and Silk Screen Art Shop. A $125,000 sewage treatment plant was installed to permit the construction of our residential buildings.

EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES

The Lambs is not a school, although the retarded are taught to manage themselves and perform work tasks in our business areas. This method employs the basic philosophy of the Lambs: that the mentally retarded can develop beyond the routine. Assumed responsibility, public contact and work variety, all help to develop the potential of the mentally handicapped.

FUTURE DEVELOPMENT

It is unrealistic to expect all retarded adults to be self-sufficient in areas of daily living. Eventually their families die or are unable to carry the constant responsibility. Now we are striving to provide a center for living as well as working. In the fall of 1975 we will open our first residential facility for 34 people. Our goal is to build a total community for 250 retarded adults.

A MESSAGE TO THE MANY FRIENDS OF THE LAMBS FROM DR. PAUL LAZAR, PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD

When thirty-four people move into our new residence in Libertyville, Illinois, the initial phase of the goal for the Lambs, Inc. will have been achieved. The reality of the first village concept for the mentally retarded will have been realized — people living and working together within their own community.

What is the importance of this successful effort which has been carefully watched by so many? The Lambs, Inc. is a national center serving as a prototype in a burgeoning field for the mentally retarded. Consider the statistics: there are an estimated 330,000 mentally retarded in Illinois alone. In the U.S.A. a staggering three percent of the population or six million people are mentally handicapped. With imaginative programs such as the Lambs, purely custodial care will be reduced to an absolute minimum for only the most severely retarded.

More than 800 educators and professionals visited the farm in 1974 to study and learn our techniques. Plans are underway to create a teaching center at the farm so that we can effectively help others who want to duplicate our pilot program.

The fact that a program such as this was conceived and finally fulfilled in less than 15 years is astounding. It is due to an exceptional staff, an unselfish corps of volunteers, an involved group of parents, a dedicated Board and the generosity of an understanding public.

The legal, medical, educational and emotional problems ahead are infinite.

But most critical are the financial needs that face us now. We have a $500,000 bank debt which we must service quarterly and obviously want to retire. In addition, we had a 1974 deficit of $289,000. This is what was needed just to keep the program going.

Now with the opening of a residential program, overhead costs will increase. As more retarded people seek admittance to the Lambs, we will need to expand businesses, job and recreational areas, and housing. The long range plan is to have residential facilities for 250 mentally retarded people living and working on the present farm site.

For all these reasons we need your financial help to provide these people with a decent, meaningful life. They cannot do this for themselves, but you, through your contributions to The Lambs, Inc., will help not only those being served by our program, but indirectly many others across the nation.

When you contribute to The Lambs, Inc. remember that our program is open to all regardless of race, religion, creed or ability to pay. Your contributions are tax deductible. They are also an investment in dignity.

For most working people, their vacation is the high spot of the year. For our young people, coming to the farm and working is their high point. A day off is long, dull and boring and we find them asking to be allowed to work six and even seven days a week. Also they know that their efforts contribute to the expansion and growth of our program. While they watch the first dormitory reach its final stages, they know that their participation is making The Lambs' goal a reality.

PRODUCTIVE BUSINESSES RUN BY AND FOR THE LAMBS

There are many basic differences in our young people's work at the farm and work in a "normalized" society. Society uses productivity and creativity as its criteria for success. For our retarded, willingness to try and working at whatever pace is best for each individual is the meaningful measure. It is difficult for them to handle competitive situations and frustration comes when the challenge is beyond their capacity. Within their own peer group, they quickly learn that their strengths and weaknesses vary in different work areas and they extend help to one another in a way "normalized" society could follow.

WHO ARE THE LAMBS?

They are young adults of every race, religion and creed who need your help to function to their fullest capacity.

SAM, 19, came to The Lambs after a brief stay in an out-of-town institution. At first he wouldn't talk to anyone — not the other young people, nor the staff, nor the volunteers. Gradually he became aware of our total acceptance and finally he would say one word to one person at a time. As this daily contact continued, he slowly began to relate — first to the staff, then to other Lambs and eventually to volunteers and customers alike. Today he works in the Silk Screen Shop and jokes, chats and laughs with spontaneity.

BETTY is 33 years old. From the time she finished special schooling at 18 until she came to The Lambs at age 28 she had no training, no work or recreation program. For ten years her only activity was going to Church. She came to our program and was so stimulated by being with people who weren't bored with her that she was too outgoing. She would run to strangers and kiss them indiscriminately. Betty had to learn to control this uninhibited show of affection. It turned out that being convinced that she belonged was enough to stabilize her jubilation. Now she works in the Pet Shop and greets customers with warmth and ease.

LARRY, 38, is living with his blind and aged grandmother and has no other relatives. Larry also had a sight problem with the possibility of being totally blind in ten years. When The Lambs, Inc. was contacted about him, they acted to secure Public Aid Funds which he had not known were available. They arranged for corrective eye surgery and now he has almost normal vision. But the main thing about Larry is that he fully embodies the problem of what happens to retarded people when there is no longer a family to care for them. Without a residential program these people would have to be institutionalized. For Larry this fear has been removed. With the completion of our first living facility, he will be able to have a meaningful and secure life here at The Lambs Farm.

WHO VISITS THE LAMBS FARM IN LIBERTYVILLE, ILLINOIS?

• FIELD TRIPS

1974 brought 21,000 youngsters out to the farm. 8,383 were served sack lunches from our refreshment stand.

• SCHOOL CHILDREN

• DAY CAMPS

• SENIOR CITIZENS

Actual reservations in our tea room for 7,934 persons prove the ever increasing interest in our program by these groups.

• CHURCH GROUPS

• SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS

• STUDENTS

More than 800 came to study our program. Hopefully pilot programs such as ours will be started across the country.

• EDUCATORS

• PROFESSIONALS

• GENERAL PUBLIC

There is no way to estimate the number of people who actually come to the farm each day, week or month to just shop or browse. We do know that we served our tea room lunch to between 45,000 and 50,000 persons in 1974.

"Where are the retarded?" Often we are asked this because in appearance our Lambs are substantially no different from others their age. At The Lambs Farm visitors observe and deal with the retarded in a fashion that breaks down fears, misconceptions, indifferences and distrust. Through everyday contact the public is learning that the retarded are really gentle people — who only ask to be allowed to function with human dignity.
