National Hunting and Fishing Day, 1974

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

No one has a fuller appreciation and respect for nature than the American sportsman. Hunters and anglers were among the first to warn us of the need to conserve America's fish and wildlife resources, and many of them have played an active, voluntary role in restoring and enriching America's splendid natural heritage.

In recognition of the significant contributions of American hunters and fishermen in enhancing and preserving our environment, and to dramatize the continued need for gun and boat safety, the Congress, by House Joint Resolution 910, 93rd Congress, has requested the President to declare the fourth Saturday of September, 1974, as National Hunting and Fishing Day.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GERALD R. FORD, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Saturday, September 28, 1974, as National Hunting and Fishing Day.

I urge all of our citizens to join with outdoor sportsmen in the wise use of our natural resources and in insuring their proper management for the benefit of future generations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-seventh day of September, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-four and of the Independence of the United States of America, the one hundred ninety-ninth.

National Hunting and Fishing Day, 1975

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

The great natural resources which belong to America meant survival to our forefathers. The abundance of fish and wildlife enabled the early settlers to withstand the first winters. Later this abundance helped pioneers to make their way across the continent.

Today, our outdoor sportsmen help to assure the survival of our natural resources. Hunters and fishermen contribute to the preservation and protection of America's fish and wildlife through their voluntary conservation efforts and by providing millions of dollars for restoration programs, acquisition and maintenance of habitat and supportive research. These funds come through the purchase of licenses and excise taxes on sporting equipment.

In recognition of the significant contributions by American hunters and fishermen, to dramatize the continued need for gun and boat safety and to promote the conservation of our resources, the Congress, by Senate Joint Resolution 34, has requested the President to declare the fourth Saturday of September 1975 as National Hunting and Fishing Day.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GERALD R. FORD, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Saturday, September 27, 1975, as National Hunting and Fishing Day.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this eighteenth day of September, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundredth.

Dear Mr. Baroody:

Please convey my thanks to the President for his thoughtfulness in having you send me a duplicate of his Proclamation designating September 27 as National Hunting and Fishing Day, 1975. This is a most deserving tribute to the work of sportsmen in supporting the fish and wildlife conservation programs.

Best wishes.

Dear

President Ford recently signed a Proclamation designating September 28th as National Hunting and Fishing Day, 1974. In his Proclamation the President states, "No one has a fuller appreciation and respect for nature than the American sportsman . . . and many of them have played an active, voluntary role in restoring and enriching America's splendid natural heritage."

The President asked that I send you the enclosed duplicate of his National Hunting and Fishing Day Proclamation as a small remembrance of this occasion. It comes to you with his very best wishes.

Sincerely,

William J. Baroody, Jr.
Assistant to the President

Dear

President Ford recently signed a Proclamation designating September 27th as National Hunting and Fishing Day, 1975. In his Proclamation the President states, "The great natural resources which belong to America meant survival to our forefathers . . . Today, our outdoor sportsmen . . . contribute to the preservation and protection of America's fish and wildlife through their voluntary conservation efforts. . ."

The President asked that I send you the enclosed duplicate of his Proclamation as a small remembrance of this occasion. It comes to you with his very best wishes.

Sincerely,

William J. Baroody, Jr.
