Tom Landry, head coach of the Dallas Cowboys, today endorsed President Ford with the following statement:

I've had the opportunity to be acquainted with President Ford since his days in Congress. I've found him the type of man that I can support for President.

He has the type of honesty and integrity that I look for in a man and I'm confident that he will represent the American people in a very positive manner.

To be a winner in football, a team must have this type of moral leadership. I believe the same kind of leadership is necessary for our country. That's why I'm urging all my friends to vote for the President in this important primary election.

MEMORANDUM

TO:

Texas Republican Leaders

DATE:

March 31, 1976

FROM:

Mrs. Beryl Buckley Milburn

Campaign Director

I want to begin by congratulating Governor Reagan on his fine victory in North Carolina. Those of us who support President Ford can take some consolation in the fact that he won 25 of North Carolina's 54 delegate votes, but no one is making any excuses. We lost.

Recently our office began receiving inquiries from the news media about a letter which the Co-Chairmen of the Texas Citizens for Reagan had sent to their leaders around the state. This letter made a number of charges against President Ford and his campaign organizations in Texas. We contacted Ron Deere, the Executive Director of Texas Citizens for Reagan, and requested a copy of the letter which we enclose.

Actions speak louder than words, and I think the actions of the President Ford Committee during the next month in Texas will answer this letter more effectively than anything else. I only ask that each of you make a careful evaluation of the fairness of the charges leveled at the President and draw your own conclusions.

We hope you agree that a positive campaign, based on the issues, is what Texas Republicans want in order to determine how they will vote on May 1. We pledge to conduct such a campaign and call on the leaders of Texas Citizens for Reagan to join us.

Dear Reagan Campaign Leaders:

The Texas campaign is about to go public, and lest there be any misunderstanding, Governor Reagan is determined to win. Besides that, he's frankly pretty hacked off at some of the tactics employed by the other side, at some of the distortions and downright misrepresentations of position and fact that have been used to discredit him in order to gain votes for Gerald Ford.

Texas is the key to the Republican nomination. The first of 16 primaries in May, a win here will establish the momentum to carry us into the August convention. It's delegate votes that count, and to reach that magic figure of 1,130, the Texas quota is only 66 of our 100 delegates! We can do better than that for the Governor...and will!

Governor Reagan has run astonishingly strong in those earlier primaries. True, the eastern media, singing in harmony with the Ford strategists, have succeeded quite well in convincing the casual voter that Ford has won crushing victories. The "big lie" doesn't make it so, however, and when the Governor personally starts to campaign down here, the real story will start seeing the light of day.

Not only are we convinced Governor Reagan will win Texas, thus changing the impetus of the contest, but the Ford folks themselves, by their own actions, affirm their deep concern. THEY KNOW THEY MUST STOP REAGAN IN TEXAS! THEY ARE BRINGING THEIR TOP TACTICIAN IN TO RUN THE TEXAS CAMPAIGN. William Roberts, the one who masterminded the Ford Florida effort, is to assume control here in lieu of the local establishment which has been running things. So, with Florida as a guide to go by, get ready for a tough, dirty-tricks effort. The same folks who have controlled the official Republican party structure, both nationally and state-wide, for the past dozen years, are fighting for their political lives - and fortunes - to continue that control. The objective is pure power, so don't expect campaign tactics to be adopted on the basis of moral judgements of truth and accuracy.

We have it on excellent authority, for example, that the automated Ford telephone banks across the state are already programmed to attack Ronald Reagan as one who would destroy our Right-To-Work law! They are prepared to smear Governor Reagan, who is firmly on public record in support of 14-B, just as they smeared him in Florida in an outrageous distortion of his position on social security. Isn't it amazing that those who profess to want to build party harmony would employ such tactics?

Now, to those "smashing victories": an incumbent president, with an accumulation of 25 years of I.O.U's. from his fellow Washington politicians. spends a reputed 2 million dollars campaigning in Florida to pledge some 200 million federal dollars to that state, wins an election with 53% of the vote, and it's called a "smashing victory"! Hogwash! That's the poorest showing by any incumbent in recent history! The vote differential was less than the size of the U.T. student body in Austin, yet the liberal "experts" would convince folks that this handful of souls should determine the future course of our Party. The same in New Hampshire, where the incumbent president beat our challenger by only 1 1/2%, drawing LESS than 50% of the vote himself. And in Illinois, where his campaign manager predicted a Ford win by 2 to 1, then making it 75% two days before the election, only to win by slightly more than 59%. In a machine-controlled state, that's not landslide stuff. Governor Reagan has been polling, percentage wise, only a few points behind the incumbent in spite of having almost the entire Republican Party hierarchy against him...and in states where he admittedly WAS NOT THE STRONGEST! HE'S STRONG HERE IN TEXAS, AND IN THE WEST AS WELL, and as you know from previous communications, he's won handily in caucus states which the media has ignored.

The fact is, Governor Reagan is a winner, and CAN WIN IN NOVEMBER. That frankly, is why we think the media moguls are trying to destroy his candidacy before the convention. THEIR ONLY HOPE IS FOR THE REPUBLICAN PARTY TO RUIN HIM BEFORE WE GET TO KANSAS CITY.

To lay it on the line, Gerald Ford cannot survive the November campaign. He'll be butchered to pieces on Watergate, the Pardon, Henry Kissinger, etc. Some Republicans reacted strongly when Governor Reagan once mentioned Watergate. Come off it! If they are naive enough to think the Democrats won't hit it in the event he gets the nomination...they just aren't very bright. It WILL be an issue, and a big one.

And another point. Does Gerald Ford have the ability to win a national election where it's Republican vs. Democrat? True, he won by a slight majority in the Republican party primaries to date...WHERE HE HAD CONTROL OF THE OFFICIAL PARTY STRUCTURES. BUT, slightly more than 50% in a party that admittedly only 18% of the population claim as their own, is no real national strength! The truth of what this means, simply stated, is that the incumbent president controls the established party machinery, machinery whose leadership has brought our Republican Party to the brink of obscurity as an effective political force in our government. They may be able (if we allow it) to close out Ronald Reagan, but when they do, they also close out our Party to those conservatives and independents who are essential in November, and who are our only added source of votes!

Ronald Reagan is a leader, a motivator, a man who can inspire our nation. His record of leadership in our most populous state, in the face of a hostile Democrat-controlled legislature, is unparalleled in modern history. A man who, upon assuming the burden of leadership of that state with a 700 million dollar deficit, left office eight years later with a balanced budget and a surplus of 400 million dollars, and in the interval, provided more than 5.7 billion dollars in direct tax relief to the citizens.

Gerald Ford, a moderate conservative? For a quarter century he has been a part of the Washington bureaucracy, always a part of the official Party machinery, a spokesman for the professional politician and the party line. Not a leader, a follower. An accidental president. A president selected, not elected. A man hand-picked by a frantic political establishment in the chaos of Watergate NOT BECAUSE HE WAS A LEADER, but precisely because he was NOT a leader. A man who, throughout and after the confirmation hearings, adamantly pledged he would never, under any circumstances, run for the presidency in 1976!

The future of our country and our Party is at stake in this election. Which way will we go? The direction of Nelson Rockefeller, W. J. Usery, Carla Hills, Elliott Richardson, Bill Scranton, all appointed by the "moderate conservative" Jerry Ford? Shall we continue the direction of detente, forfeiture of the Panama Canal, aid to the black revolutionaries in Africa, 60 billion dollar deficit budgets, the Helsinki Pacts, Salt II, military inferiority, ERA, energy shortages, collective bargaining for government employees, busing, etc., as advanced by the Ford administration? Or shall we bring fresh faces and ideas into office, let people and state governments play their constitutional roles in the political process, and breathe new life into this land we love?

The choice is ours. The next five weeks will tell the world the kind of stuff we are made of.

Sincerely,

Ray A. Barnhart

AUSTIN - Senator John Tower, R-Texas, today said Ronald Reagan should be subjected to some searching questions on the subject of national security.

"As second-ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee,"

Tower told a news conference here, "I believe I am qualified to set the record straight and I would propose to do so in a debate with Mr. Reagan."

The Senator said he is concerned about the distortions and insinuations in Reagan's nationally televised speech Wednesday night and in his other campaign appearances.

"As one who has worked side-by-side with Gerald Ford on Defense appropriations budgets, both in the Congress and in the White House," Tower said, "I know how strongly and consistently he has supported military preparedness. I am not willing to let irresponsible charges that imply President Ford is soft on national defense go unchallenged.

"How any candidate can attack the President's record on this issue and and retained credibility is beyond me."

Tower said the President this year proposed a 14 per cent increase in the Defense budget. Last year's budget, he added, contained the first significant increase in Defense spending in seven years before it was cut by Congress.

"Reagan would serve his country better by directing his rhetorical fire at a Congress which year after year has cut the Defense budget in order to finance mushrooming social programs," Tower said.

Now, to those "smashing victories": an incumbent president. with an accumulation of 25 years of I.O.U's. from his fellow Washington politicians, spends a reputed 2 million dollars campaigning in Florida to pledge some 200 million federal dollars to that state, wins an election with 53% of the vote, and it's called a "smashing victory"! Hogwash! That's the poorest showing by any incumbent in recent history! The vote differential was less than the size of the U.T. student body in Austin, yet the liberal "experts" would convince folks that this handful of souls should determine the future course of our Party. The same in New Hampshire, where the incumbent president beat our challenger by only 1 1/2%, drawing LESS than 50% of the vote himself. And in Illinois, where his campaign manager predicted a Ford win by 2 to 1, then making it 75% two days before the election, only to win by slightly more than 59%. In a machine-controlled state, that's not landslide stuff. Governor Reagan has been polling, percentage wise, only a few points behind the incumbent in spite of having almost the entire Republican Party hierarchy against him...and in states where he admittedly WAS NOT THE STRONGEST! HE'S STRONG HERE IN TEXAS, AND IN THE WEST AS WELL, and as you know from previous communications, he's won handily in caucus states which the media has ignored.

The fact is, Governor Reagan is a winner, and CAN WIN IN NOVEMBER. That frankly, is why we think the media moguls are trying to destroy his candidacy before the convention. THEIR GNLY HOPE IS FOR THE REPUBLICAN PARTY TO RUIN HIM BEFORE WE GET TO KANSAS CITY.

To lay it on the line, Gerald Ford cannot survive the November campaign. He'll be butchered to pieces on Watergate, the Pardon, Henry Kissinger, etc. Some Republicans reacted strongly when Governor Reagan once mentioned Watergate. Come off it! If they are naive enough to think the Democrats won't hit it in the event he gets the nomination...they just aren't very bright. It WILL be an issue, and a big one.

And another point. Does Gerald Ford have the ability to win a national election where it's Republican vs. Democrat? True, he won by a slight majority in the Republican party primaries to date...WHERE HE HAD CONTROL OF THE OFFICIAL PARTY STRUCTURES. BUT, slightly more than 50% in a party that admittedly only 18% of the population claim as their own, is no real national strength! The truth of what this means, simply stated, is that the incumbent president controls the established party machinery, machinery whose leadership has brought our Republican Party to the brink of obscurity as an effective political force in our government. They may be able (if we allow it) to close out Ronald Reagan, but when they do, they also close out our Party to those conservatives and independents who are essential in November, and who are our only added source of votes!

Ronald Reagan is a leader, a motivator, a man who can inspire our nation. His record of leadership in our most populous state, in the face of a hostile Democrat-controlled legislature, is unparalleled in modern history. A man who, upon assuming the burden of leadership of that state with a 700 million dollar deficit, left office eight years later with a balanced budget and a surplus of 400 million dollars, and in the interval, provided more than 5.7 billion dollars in direct tax relief to the citizens.

Gerald Ford, a moderate conservative? For a quarter century he has been a part of the Washington bureaucracy, always a part of the official Party machinery, a spokesman for the professional politician and the party line. Not a leader, a follower. An accidental president. A president selected, not elected. A man hand-picked by a frantic political establishment in the chaos of Watergate NOT BECAUSE HE WAS A LEADER, but precisely because he was NOT a leader. A man who, throughout and after the confirmation hearings, adamantly pledged he would never, under any circumstances, run for the presidency in 1976!

The future of our country and our Party is at stake in this election. Which way will we go? The direction of Nelson Rockefeller, W. J. Usery, Carla Hills, Elliott Richardson, Bill Scranton, all appointed by the "moderate conservative" Jerry Ford? Shall we continue the direction of detente, forfeiture of the Panama Canal, aid to the black revolutionaries in Africa, 60 billion dollar deficit budgets, the Helsinki Pacts, Salt II, military inferiority, ERA, energy shortages, collective bargaining for government employees, busing, etc., as advanced by the Ford administration? Or shall we bring fresh faces and ideas into office, let people and state governments play their constitutional roles in the political process, and breathe new life into this land we love?

The choice is ours. The next five weeks will tell the world the kind of stuff we are made of.

Sincerely,

Ray A. Barnhart Barbara Staff

AUSTIN - Senator John Tower, R-Texas, today said Ronald Reagan should be subjected to some searching questions on the subject of national security.

"As second-ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee,"

Tower told a news conference here, "I believe I am qualified to set the record straight and I would propose to do so in a debate with Mr. Reagan."

The Senator said he is concerned about the distortions and insinuations in Reagan's nationally televised speech Wednesday night and in his other campaign appearances.

"As one who has worked side-by-side with Gerald Ford on Defense appropriations budgets, both in the Congress and in the White House," Tower said, "I know how strongly and consistently he has supported military preparedness. I am not willing to let irresponsible charges that imply President Ford is soft on national defense go unchallenged.

"How any candidate can attack the President's record on this issue and and retained credibility is beyond me."

Tower said the President this year proposed a 14 per cent increase in the Defense budget. Last year's budget, he added, contained the first significant increase in Defense spending in seven years before it was cut by Congress.

"Reagan would serve his country better by directing his rhetorical fire at a Congress which year after year has cut the Defense budget in order to finance mushrooming social programs," Tower said.

"To set the record straight I am prepared to join with Governor Reagan in a public debate on the issue here in Texas prior to our primary."

JACK FORD, SON OF PRESIDENT TO CAMPAIGN IN TEXAS APRIL 12-14

AUSTIN - Linden Heck, Young Texans for Ford Coordinator today announced that presidential son Jack Ford will be in Texas Monday-Wednesday, April 12-14 for a series of events that will take him to Fort Worth, Dallas, Denton, Austin, San Antonio and Houston.

Miss Heck said that Ford will visit college campuses at each of his stops, and in each case will make remarks and participate in question and answer sessions. All events at which he appears will be open to the general public and the press.

In announcing Ford's visit, Miss Heck said, "Having Jack Ford in Texas and on many of our campuses will prove a big plus in bringing even more young Texans into our campaign.

"His approach to people and issues is open and straightforward - the way Texans like it," she noted.

"He'll be here not only to campaign in his father's behalf but also to listen to the ideas of students, young people and others. Based on that, we anticipate an enthusiastic reception for him throughout the state."

AUSTIN - Ronald Reagan's political record as governor of California indicates he would be a disaster as the Republican presidential nominee, it was charged today.

Paul Eggers, twice the Republican nominee for governor of Texas, said that under Reagan the California Republican Party went steadily downhill from a position of dominance.

He predicted Republican candidates would suffer nationally and in Texas if "by some long shot chance" Reagan were the nominee.

"When Reagan was elected in 1966," said Eggers, "Republicans held both U.S. Senate seats, 18 of 38 Congressional districts, five of six statewide constitutional offices and a majority in both houses of the Legislature."

"By the time he left office eight years later, the Democrats had captured both U.S. Senate seats, increased their Congressional majority by 28 to 15, won five of six statewide constitutional offices and captured a two-thirds majority in each house of the Legislature."

Eggers said that as a two-time candidate for governor in Texas he is "painfully aware of how difficult it is to build a two-party system of government."

"The last thing we want or need is a candidate like Reagan who has a record of benign neglect of his own position as a political leader, and who has people representing him in our state who seem intent on rehashing old wounds and making for a divided rather than unified Republican Party."

"As the Ft. Worth Star Telegram said editorially on April 11, 'Reagan talks a divisive game.' I agree."

Eggers, who is seeking election as a delegate committed to President Ford in the May 1 Texas primary, said in Dallas that the President by contrast has a long record as a political leader committed to the election of other Republicans.
