Dear Lu:

The President has asked me to thank you for the original cartoon which appeared on the Gridiron Dinner's souvenir menu. As you may know, he has a collection of original editorial cartoons hanging in a small private office just off the Oval Office and the Gridiron will be added to this collection with much gratitude.

I know you have had a request in to see the President for some time and I am embarrassed that it's taking so long to schedule. Recently the President has been traveling so much and has had such a heavy schedule at the White House that he hasn't had a chance to do as many private interviews as he would like. Until we can work this out for you, I would appreciate your patience. Hopefully, it will be in the next several months.

As for an invitation to a White House dinner for you and your publisher, Mr. Henry Urban, I can assure you that both of you will be invited as guests at the earliest possible opportunity.

Dear Ron:

Last spring the President expressed an interest in receiving the original of the cartoon which appeared on the Gridiron Dinner's souvenir menu. I am sending it under separate cover and I trust you will see that he gets it.

Cartoon attached

I hope I am not too bold in suggesting your earnest consideration of a couple of favors you might be able to do for me and my paper. //

I dearly would love to have a one-on-one interview with the President at some future time. In behalf of such request, may I mention that I have in the past interviewed all of the cabinet and the top members of the White House staff. And perhaps it won't hurt to mention that the Buffalo Evening News is a staunch supporter of both President Ford and Nelson Rockefeller, is the leading Republican paper in New York State and is one of the strong afternoon papers left in this country. So if one-on-one interviews are still looked on with favor in your shop and has the President's blessing, please try to put me high on the list.

Favor No. 2 that would delight the heart of Mrs. Warren to say nothing of myself would be to receive an invitation to one of your White House dinners on any occasion whatsoever. We have been guests at such dinners in both the Johnson and Nixon administrations and would dearly like to keep up the continuity. Furthermore, the frosting on the cake would be to invite also our publisher, Henry Urban, and Mrs. Urban. You will recall that Mr. Urban sat beside the President at last spring's Gridiron Dinner. Mr. Urban is, I can assure you, a great admirer of the President and Mrs. Ford.
