Office of the White House Press Secretary

NOTICE TO THE PRESS

The Labor-Industry Banquet at the Statler Hilton Hotel recognizes the Postal Service special commemorative stamp "Collective Bargaining" and honors those who help make collective bargaining so successful in this country. On the face of the 10¢ stamp are the words "Out of conflict... accord." Overlapping circles are depicted which symbolize the cooperative partnership between labor and management. The stamp was designed by Robert Hallock of Newton, Connecticut.

The dinner is being sponsored by the Institute of Collective Bargaining and Group Relations, Inc., (New York City) and will be attended by approximately 200 labor and industry leaders. Simultaneous dinners are being held in Detroit, Chicago and San Francisco.

There will be an unveiling of the original sculpture by George Segal in honor of collective bargaining, and the President will offer his remarks.

The following gentlemen will be at the head table:

Mr. Theodore W. Kheel, Executive Director, Institute of Collective Bargaining and Group Relations, Inc.

Mr. William W. Winspisinger, President, Institute of Collective Bargaining

Mr. Ted Klassen, Chairman, Institute of Collective Bargaining and former Postmaster General

Mr. Benjamin Bailar, Postmaster General

Mr. Bill Usery, Director, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service

Mr. Floyd Smith, President, International Association of Machinists

Mr. Robert Hatfield, President, Continental Can Company
