

Neither the Pipes Report nor the current N. I. E. (National Intelligence Estimate) has yet been submitted to the White House, and as a matter of policy, neither the President nor any of his advisors comment on products of the intelligence community prior to their completion.