MEMORANDUM OF CONVERSATION

PARTICIPANTS: Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Secretary of State and Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs
Dr. James R. Schlesinger, Secretary of Defense
William P. Clements, Deputy Secretary of Defense
The Joint Chiefs of Staff
- Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, Chairman
- Adm. Creighton Abrams, USA
- Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, CNO
- Gen. Robert E. Cushman, USMC
- Gen. John D. Ryan, USAF
Major General Brent Scowcroft, Deputy Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs

DATE AND TIME: Monday, March 11, 1974
3:10 - 4:45 p.m.

PLACE: The Pentagon

SUBJECT: Kissinger Trip to the Soviet Union

Kissinger: We began detente in 1970 in an environment when we had to defend the budget for the Vietnam War and fight constantly against the unilateral disarmers. Detente gave us: first, domestic maneuvering room; secondly, an opportunity to get control of our allies, and thirdly, to get into a position where we would not get the blame for every confrontation that occurred. It would be seen that we would bend over backwards. So paradoxically, it has kept the Defense budgets not high, but at an acceptable level; it has kept our allies in line; and it let us end the Vietnam War in an acceptable way. Detente -- even with a President who is so hated -- has resulted in the liberals going to the right of the Administration. If detente were ended, they would immediately go left and hit us for its failure.

We held off on trade until 1971, when they started to move on SALT. We played tough on Berlin, on Jordan, and on Cienfuegos.

We had given the Soviet Union a list of areas where progress had to be made: Middle East, Berlin, Vietnam, Cuba -- we had good restraint. If I were in the Politburo, I could make a case against Brezhnev for detente -- much more so than against us. Only the wheat deal -- and that is just a bureaucratic snafu.

On SALT, we were in a period of declining defense budgets; we had no programs which we gave up. The defensive agreement was a conspiracy of the bureaucracy. This is no intellectual defense of the defensive agreement, except that we didn't lose by it.

Where are we now? In the Middle East, the Soviet Union must be beside itself. This is very worrisome. They could turn hard line.

Schlesinger: What would they do if they went hardline?

Kissinger: They could make trouble in the Middle East, in Europe, and especially domestically.

Clements: What the Soviet Union wants is the Suez Canal open. They can't screw up the Middle East until they get the Canal open.

Kissinger: I see no evidence of that. The Soviet Union always talks in terms of an overall, not partial settlement. They do that to force us either into affirming or changing the '67 boundaries -- either way we would get one side down on us and get them back in.

What this means is we can't thwart the Soviet Union in every way at the same time -- on MFN, in the Middle East, in SALT. It is not just a position they can't accept, but one which will result in Brezhnev being attacked for having been fooled.

We want the defense budget as high as the environment will allow; we want to be tough when we need to do so; but keep the detente or peace symbol for ourselves.
Schlesinger: How about Europe? Hints that we may withdraw troops may be useful.

Kissinger: The Atlantic area is the key to our security. If we think that by competing in the Third World we can do anything but bring about the destruction of the Western World, we are wrong.

In Europe, we have weak governments that are appealing to all sides. They kick the U.S., they spend a little more on defense for the right and to get American protection free. Every decision the EC has made has been anti-American.

Take Japan (and Canada). All the Europeans get is the Japanese maneuvering between us and the Europeans and thus encouraging Japanese nationalism. The EC-Arab meeting reflects their insecurity. They just maneuver. And this will come at the very time when we will be in trouble in the Middle East on the issues of Palestine and Jerusalem. We can't tolerate a Europe united against us. The defense people there are still good -- and there are others.

The Europeans can't be organically anti-American. If they are, why are American troops in Europe? The defense of Europe is essential to the U.S. How we defend it, however, is open. Our withdrawal could turn Europe neutralist; if they are going that way anyway, we may have to threaten some withdrawal. That would be a last resort. We have given up troop withdrawals. We have to appeal to the good types in Europe.

French policy can be viciously shortsighted. In the 19th century, they succeeded in unifying both Germany and Italy. Between the wars they surrounded Germany with weak states. They weakened and humiliated Germany but didn't take steps to prevent them from doing anything about it. The Maginot line was an invitation to Germany to turn east against the small states.

We don't want troop withdrawal. That is too drastic.

Schlesinger: An excellent formulation. We must have a common outlook on Europe and on the world as a whole.

I think on SALT we understand that we must not use too-tough words now. Essential equivalence we need for a permanent agreement; but we know we need maneuvering room now.
Kissinger: There is no differences between us on equivalence. We have had words on tactics, but not on the overall strategy like bomber throw-weight.

I will make no agreement with the Soviet Union. You will not be faced with a fait accompli. It is essential not to be too mechanial over what we consider equivalence. I look at overall equivalence, not equality in subcategories.

Schlesinger: I speak for the JCS -- we don't want to force them into a mirror image.

Kissinger: We will be looking it over to bring back something to talk about.

Schlesinger: On the budget, we may have seen an irreversible change.

Kissinger: I hope you are right. As a historian though, I think the liberals will turn if detente ends after the next election.

Schlesinger: How about the Far East -- the Chinese, Japan, Korean deployments?

Kissinger: Our best NATO ally is China. They understand the nature of politics and power. They are tough realists. Huang Chen complained to me about the Mideast alert, without instructions, and Mao bawled him out in front of me.

They want us to stay in Asia. That is why I am leary of pulling the B-52s out of Thailand.

Schlesinger: We have a new idea -- to float the squadrons in and out.

Kissinger: The Chinese want a visible American presence in Asia. The Japanese are not organically anti-American. Japan can shift courses very rapidly. We can't assume that democracy after '45 is a permanent phenomenon. They will be okay as long as the balance of power stays -- if it shifts, they could change overnight.

Our deployments in the Pacific and our overall strength are essential to keep Japan in line.
The Chinese are not our allies -- they would be very aggressive if they weren't so scared of the Soviet Union.

Clements: How about the Japanese Defense Force?

Kissinger: I favor it so long as we remain the dominant power in the world. It will worry the Chinese a bit, but that is a bit of an asset. I think Japan will go nuclear within 10 years. We should use the Japanese to scare the others while keeping the Japanese tied to us.

The next 10 years will require a cold-blooded assessment of power.

Schlesinger: The Europeans are like Italy between the war.

Kissinger: I would like the U.S. forces in Korea turned into a mobile reserve -- but I am worried about the Chinese.

I am basically in favor of it.

Abrams: We could build up the strength of the division there.

Schlesinger: I wonder if we can hold 40,000 in Korea. I think we could hold it at 25,000.

Kissinger: It depends on over what period. I am leary of a visible cutting back, but no figure is magic.

We are a long way in the future ever thinking about withdrawing forces from Europe.

Schlesinger: It was a mistake in getting Great Britain into the Common Market.

Kissinger: It was a tragic mistake.

We will take on Europe to save NATO and to keep our forces there.

Zumwalt: We have a special technical problem. It is dangerous to make arms control decisions that haven't been worked through the JCS.
Kissinger: They couldn't possibly propose anything which could be accepted without being scrubbed down.

Zumwalt: It is still questionable whether we will come out in the long term. Decoupling MIRV from equivalence could be dangerous. If they are separated, it must be done very carefully.

Kissinger: There is nothing going on in any channel of which you are not aware.
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

K. Begin discussion on VN

We must be able to defend our

BNMN.

Draft def. is:

1) Domestic strengthening

2) To get control of their allies

3) To protect us & blame for all confusions - we should build own battleships.

Personality: too hard to get budgets work together, but as usual; keep working in front; let say sell VN now in accpt way.

Draftsman: Passed to us today) has started some ideas on going to sweeten.

If situation is right, they would get higher for this, but we said

We would like to see the situation in 1971 when they started, & want to SETTLE. We played for years in Berlin, Geneva, etc.

We have a lot of evidence of what has not been settled, there was a case against the US (could relate a case against the US) - much more so than against 1960's when what did happen?

for what + that just a statement.

DECLASSIFIED

AUTHORITY NARA, DATE 08/21/92

BY NARA, DATE 06/14/92
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

5:47 A.M. - We were informed by the Defense Secretary that we had no programs being on pause yet.

Defensive agreement was confirmed.
I told him, "If they're not coming, they're not in our books anyway."

What can we do?

ME: No must be decided.

LW: Agreement is impossible. They could turn down low.

5 - What would happen if they can't handle?

K: No.

6 - What 50 percent is 20 percent open. They won't be sure of any ME until they get 20%.

K: I see no evidence of that. So long take two terms of our 20, about point 40.

They do that to force us either into accepting or declining 47 percent. Better they can reward 20% and then demand or make a degree 20.

WHO: The reason is we need them 50% in any way: ME 70; ME, SHAB - not just each other they can accept. But we argue we'll meet in July only another for hurry been posted.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

We want a balance in Europe as we want a balance in the United States. We want to do what we can to make sure that Europe will be ready when we need her. We want to do what we can to help Europe.

5. How about Europe? I think we can say that we may

6. Atlantic Ocean is a very strong barrier.

7. I think that by agreeing in principle we can do something that brings a disturbance of the Western World, one is raising.

8. Even, we can make quite substantial slow chemicals - for a US, get against a little more defense. The US should be able to get the defense. Even, chemicals - that have been over- US.

9. Take Japan to Canada. Ask to put on disarmament. But not

10. The EC only is in Europe, in one country more.

11. We can make Europe a little more against

12. The Atlantic is very strong. Europe can beat the US.
THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

April 5, 1981

Ms. Johnson:

I received your note of April 3, 1981, in which you raise the question of a possible determination that the President and I neither knew nor were advised of the unlawful activities of the Finance Committee or the Eagle Club of Washington. That question or any question relating to the Budget or other matters.

I am writing in response to your concern that the various committees are conducting an investigation of the Finance Committee and the Eagle Club of Washington. I was pleased to learn of their action and understand that one of their purposes is to investigate, if appropriate, the activities of those groups.

I appreciate your bringing this matter to my attention and assure you that I will consider your request carefully. I will keep you advised of any developments.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

[Title]
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

S - Don't forget the 5.5-inch. We won't make it face them into a missile
A - We will be sorry then to bring it to something quite short.
S - Our budget we may have some
A - I hope you will accept the intention. The S
S - How about Far East, etc. Join Korea deployment?
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

A

K - Our last NAPO ally is China. They are unlikely to be a permanent ally, but could be useful.

They went to war in Korea, that is why I am trying to pull US out of Thailand.

S - We need a new nuclear fleet squadron in somewhere.

K - Chinese won't prevent us from penetration in Asia. Japan can be a key ally, but must be made to understand that commerce with China is permanent phenomenon. They will protest as long as balance of power is in line, but if they are not on balance, they could change

Our deployment in Asia is essential to keep Japan in line.

K - How about new 6th Fleet?

K - It is not as big as we assume a permanent fleet is.

It will cause the US a lot, but that is different from}

...
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

K. I think I see, will go smaller when we're up. We should ease Japs to move earlier which keeping Japs tied to us.

S. Yes I see will require cold-blooded assessment of Japs.

K. We will try to tie Japs to some

A. I would like to know, turned into a middle-train, but I received about 2.

S. From basically for some of it.

A. We could build at a strength of a division train.

S. I wonder if we can hold 40,000

K. I think we could hold 60,000.

R. Depends on what point. I am being forced to cut back, but we probably need to increase.

S. I am on a long way then to say fully.

K. Thinking about it from far far far

S. Was a mistake in getting against consumer demand.
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

1. We are a tragedy in progress.
2. We are a tragedy in progress.
3. We face a tragedy in progress.

1. They couldn’t possibly figure anything which could be accepted and be free of harm.
2. Still perfectible, we will respond to any harm. Deciphering MIRV from signatures could be dangerous. Of they are removed, it must be done very carefully.

3. There is nothing going on in any channel with you and met away.