The Cabinet Room The White House

[The President thanked the leaders for the legislative actions of the day before.]

The President: It was so reassuring to be able to say face to face with European leaders that we were going to remain strong. The House had beat back the Dellums amendment to cut 70,000 troops, and Mansfield has said he wouldn't push for a cut. That they wanted a lot more than just words.

Conable: The Republicans have stuck together well on these issues, but our power position is the same. But the Democrats have not been able to put things together. The freshman were frantic yesterday. They were going to run the world. Now they find they can't run anything.

Tower: This comes from your keeping them on the defensive.

Conable: If they ever get together, they can run things, but so far it is going very well.

[The President mentioned the unemployment problem, but said the mood of the country was turning around.]

The President: I think we will have some successes in foreign policy. I can't be as specific as I would like, but sometimes successes come later than you think. One thing from my trip was my meeting with Demirel and Karamanlis. In the Stars and Stripes Sunday, the headline said, "Greece and Turkey Pledge Peace." I thank the Senate for that. That vote created some optimism. Now we have got to win in the House. Don't shake your head, Sam.

-TOP-SECRET - XGDS (3) CLASSIFIED BY. HENRY A. KOSINGER Steiger: It is going to be tough.

President: I know it will be. But there won't be any settlement until the Turks decide to move and they can't move until the embargo is lifted. If you want to help the Greeks and the Cypriots, get the embargo lifted.

Rhodes: It will be tough, but we will do it. It will take your personal intervention -- heavily.

President: I am going to do my very best. I think it is terribly important.

Cederburg: I am terribly upset that our meetings all get into Jack Anderson. Somebody in Congress or on the White House is leaking and it is a serious inhibition on debate.

[There was brief discussion of the decontrol legislation, strip mining, and the New Hampshire Wyman-Durkin issue.]
