

THINK--DELIBERATE--ACT

The Gerald R. Ford Presidential Library and the Kettering Foundation cordially invite you to the upcoming deliberative forum on the critical national public policy issue: healthcare. By attending this forum you will be joining others at twelve other presidential libraries across the nation.

Coping with the Cost of Health Care: How Do We Pay for What We Need?

Tuesday, October 27, 2009 5:00p.m. to 7:30p.m.

Light refreshments will be served.

THE ISSUE

The questions we must address are: How can we get the healthcare we require, in the face of rising costs? How can we pay for what we need?

THE PROCESS

Deliberation, discussion and reflection are essential components of an effective forum. It is imperative to the deliberative process to hear the voices of average American citizens, not just the experts. This forum will provide that platform. Checking politics at the door, this discussion will examine the United States health-care system without veering into a partisan political debate. Observing the issue from many different perspectives will open avenues of discussion. There is no right or wrong answer, just the opportunity to let your voice be heard.

The Kettering Foundation and the National Issues Forums Institute form a network rooted in the simple notion that people need to come together in a public dialogue to reason and talk - to deliberate about common problems.
