TEEN AUTHOR TO SPEAK AT FORD LIBRARY

Ann Arbor, Mich... Did you ever wonder what it would be like to live in the White House? Teen author, Noah McCullough did, and researched facts and mini-biographies for all the first children in U.S. history in his book First Kids: The True Stories of All the Presidents' Children (Scholastic, 2008).

Join Noah on Sunday, February 15, 2009 at 2:00 p.m. at the Gerald R. Ford Presidential Library as he discusses his book and our nation's first families.

There is no charge for the talk, seating is open, a book signing and reception follow.

Noah's fascination with U.S. Presidents happened as a result of the 2000 election. He was intrigued as a kindergartner about the electoral college, party system, campaigning and the fact that all throughout history presidents have shown themselves to be just ordinary people serving in an extraordinary position.

Noah has appeared on The Tonight Show with Jay Leno many times as a political correspondent and history whiz kid. Viewers nationwide have been intrigued with his quick wit, knowledge and quest to serve. He has also appeared on Oprah Winfrey, Martha Stewart, The Today Show, as well as many news programs. Noah was a Scholastic Kids Press reporter for the 2004 election year as well as at the 2005 inauguration.

At the age of 10, Noah became a published author. The Essential Book of Presidential Trivia was published by Random House in 2006. This book consists of chronological biographies of each president along with facts and trivia. Noah enjoys writing and researching and hopes to write several more books before going to college.

The Gerald R. Ford Presidential Library is open 8:45 a.m. - 4:45 p.m. Monday-Friday and is closed on Federal Holidays. The Ford Library is located at 1000 Beal Avenue on the North Campus of the University of Michigan. Admission and Parking are free.
