WASHINGTON

WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA

Saturday - January 31, 1976

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE ARRIVAL

Air Force One will land at Langley Air Force Base, Langley, Virginia at 2:35 p.m. You will be met there by Mrs. Ford, who will have arrived by Jetstar, General and Mrs. Robert Dixon, TAC Commander, and Col. and Mrs. Joseph Moore, Base Commander. Base personnel from Langley, Ft. Eustis, Ft. Monroe, the Norfolk Naval Bases, and the local community, and their dependents, will be on hand to greet you. A contingency microphone will be available for informal remarks. After greeting the crowd, you and Mrs. Ford will depart Langley by helicopter for the 15-minute flight to Williamsburg.

Langley Air Force Base, now celebrating its 60th Anniversary, was founded in 1916 as an experimental field and proving ground. Billy Mitchell proved his theory of air power by launching a bomber mission from Langley and sinking the OSTFRIESLAND - a captured German World War I Battleship, the largest of its kind at the time.

From 1935 to 1941, Langley served as General Headquarters for the Air Corps. Since 1946, the Base has been the headquarters of the Tactical Air Command, which is now celebrating its 30th anniversary year. Langley was also used as a training base for some of our first astronauts.

WILLIAMSBURG ARRIVAL

Your helicopter, which will land on the grounds of the Williamsburg Inn, will be met by Governor and Mrs. Mills Godwin (R-Va). After 10-minute private time with the Godwins at the Inn, you and Mrs. Ford, accompanied by the Governor and Mrs. Godwin, board a colonial-style carriage for a 10-minute ride to the Colonial Williamsburg Old Capitol Building.

Mrs. Ford will be escorted directly to the House Clerk's Chamber and then to her seat in the Hall of Burgesses. You will proceed to the Council Chamber holding area where you will be escorted by a Delegation to the Joint Session.

En route, you will pass through several rooms of overflow audience who will be watching the speech on closed circuit television due to the smallness of the Chamber.

Following brief remarks by Justice Powell and Governor Goodwin, Speaker Cooke will introduce you for remarks. The Session will adjourn immediately after your address.

The invitation to address the Special Joint Session at the Old Capitol in Williamsburg was extended by the Virginia General Assembly. These commemorative sessions involving the 49 - State Senators and the 100 General Assembly Delegates are held every four years in the House of Burgesses. Also sitting in the Chamber will be several ex-Governors, the State Supreme Court, and the Leadership of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

You will mingle informally for about thirty minutes, then proceed to Head Table 1 and take your seats. (Seating at your table and Mrs. Ford's at TAB A).
