March, 1980

Dear Friend,

Many people are deeply disturbed by rising abortion rates--the massive signature of a society that no longer cares about its own. The need for legal protection for all human beings is evident; and American Citizens Concerned for Life (ACCL) is working tirelessly to accomplish this long-range goal. But it will take many of us working together to reach our goal; and we must face facts.

Over a million unborn babies are still dying each year in the United States. It may take three years; five years; 10 years--or more--before two-thirds of the Congress and three-fourths of the states agree to a Constitutional Amendment that will protect all members of the human family. In the meantime thousands of lives can be rescued right now if we are willing to give of our time and resources.

ACCL has launched a new effort; the "Save a Life Today" campaign. By contributing to this program you can help us bring loving and practical help to distressed pregnant women and families.

The public must be better educated about the dangers and realities of abortion. Every day women resort to this violent solution to unwanted pregnancy because they don't realize that there is life before birth or because they face overwhelming family or social pressures. Most of them are unaware that women can suffer disastrous physical or mental consequences when they make this desperate choice.

Many women who suffer from an unwanted pregnancy would choose life for the child if given the support and encouragement of people who care. By contributing to the "Save a Life Today" campaign you can help ACCL offer opportunities to these women that are unavailable to them in other programs.

Proceeds from the project will also provide visual and written materials to speakers so that young people and adults can hear the kind of persuasive and compelling pro-life presentation that encourages them to value life, parenthood and responsible sexuality.

With funds from this project the highly skilled staff and volunteers of ACCL are developing appealing and informative materials like those already in great demand--the slide/tape presentation, "Abortion Doublespeak," and the manual, "Counselling the Individual Experiencing a Troubled Pregnancy."

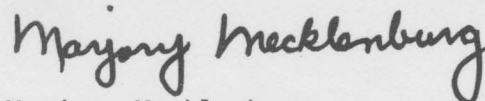

ACCL's legislative program is also supported by the "Save a Life Today" fund. This respected and effective voice for life is a central force in obtaining public funding for services to needy pregnant adolescents and their babies, and in decreasing funding available for abortion. It played an important role in the passage of a bill to prohibit discrimination against pregnant workers in the areas of pregnancy leave, medical benefits and job status. Because of this one change in the law, for the first time many pregnant working women will not lose their jobs, wages or seniority if they reject abortion.

This national legislative program and the development of effective new educational materials is costly, even when much of the labor is volunteered. The "Save a Life Today" campaign must raise $50,000 this year to reach its goals. If we can convince just 500 women to forego abortion through this project, the cost of sparing each life is only $100.

We know that you have probably been asked to contribute to other pro-life groups. But you can rely on ACCL's proven record of progress over the past five years. Our goals are broad-based, practical and will save lives today and tomorrow.

Please join with us to save lives in 1980. Give as much as you can. Someone needs your help.

Sincerely yours,

Marjory Mecklenburg
President

P.S. Enclosed is an article about one small human being whose struggle for life continues. In addition to joining the ACCL "Save a Life Today" campaign we hope you will consider helping Johnny and his young parents through this difficult period in their lives.

ACCL--PROTECTING AND IMPROVING LIFE

If you are concerned that life in America today is not equally protected for all...if you want to do something effective about improving respect for life and the quality of life in our country... Welcome to ACCL!

ACCL is an association of the kind of people who would once again wed freedoms and responsibilities, the freedoms all human beings deserve with the responsibilities they require. Our membership is drawn from the 50 United States and represents a broad-based cross-section of religious faiths, occupations and cultural backgrounds. What we have most in common is a deep respect for the value of human life and a determination to influence public attitudes and policy so that all human beings will be protected and have the opportunity to achieve their potential.

Legislation

The ACCL legislative program is varied and extensive. Legislation which affects vulnerable members of society is of special interest to the organization. Our current research and lobbying activity focuses on four areas: supportive services for pregnant women, particularly adolescents; educational programs to prevent adolescent pregnancy and increase responsible sexuality; health needs and rights of children, born and unborn; and family challenges, especially concerning children and the aged.

ACCL enjoys an excellent reputation with public officials as a responsible pro-life group demonstrating maturity in the pursuit of its goals and producing comprehensive issue analyses. We have been called upon as resource persons and to submit testimonies to Congressional committees. Recently ACCL's participation was requested by the White House Conference on Families, the Select Panel for the Promotion of Child Health and the Population Advisory Panel of the Office of Technology Assessment of the Congress.

The ACCL approach recognizes that there are many people of good will who differ with our abortion position or who have not yet been awakened to the seriousness and meaning of the present situation.

Our program emphasizes persuasion, education and action which demonstrates that people are important and that positive solutions to human problems are possible if we will work together. Respecting differences, the program concentrates on areas where common concerns and interests exist and where concrete progress can be made toward saving lives and influencing attitudes. Recent passage of the Adolescent Pregnancy Act, providing help to needy pregnant adolescents and their children, resulted when ACCL saw the problem and the opportunity and worked with Congress, the Administration and groups around the country until success was achieved.

Education

The purpose of ACCL's educational fund and program is to inform people about the life issues and the importance of meeting human needs, awakening those who have not yet faced the destruction of human life and challenging those willing to help secure care and protection of those in need.

Materials developed by the association are used across the country and include a slide/tape presentation on the "Doublespeak" of abortion; a manual, "Counseling the Individual Experiencing a Troubled Pregnancy"; and numerous pamphlets and books on pro-life work and issues.

Parents can't afford to take him home

Patricia Todd held her son Johnny, who has lived nearly all his 21 months attached to a respirator in a Chicago hospital. Johnny was born prematurely at the University of Illinois Medical Center, weighing only 1 pound, 13 ounces and with underdeveloped lungs. Doctors recently removed him from the respirator he had needed since birth and John and Patricia Todd were told that with the help of life-sustaining equipment and nursing, costing about $29,000 a year, the boy could go home. The Todds, who owe about $9,000 on Johnny's hospital bills, said they need state aid. But Illinois won't help because the Todds plan to move to Louisiana, where John Todd is a college student, and Louisiana won't provide aid because young Johnny isn't a resident of the state.

NOTE: It is important for those of us who are pro-life and able, to support those who are not. A trust fund has been set up to help Johnny and his parents "make it." Please send your contribution to:

SAVE A LIFE NOW CAMPAIGN

Even though pro-life organizations are working tirelessly to pass a human life amendment, over a million unborn babies are still dying each year in the United States.

It may take three years, five years, 10 years--or more--before two-thirds of the Congress and three-fourths of the states agree to a Constitutional Amendment that will protect all members of the human family. The struggle to pass and ratify this amendment must continue and become even more vigorous. But in the meantime, unless extensive action on another front is taken immediately, thousands of lives that we can rescue by working together will be lost.

The "Save a Life Now" campaign will save lives by bringing loving and practical help to distressed pregnant women and families and will benefit all of us who are deeply affected by the lack of respect for life in our country.

The public must be better educated about the dangers and realities of abortion. Every day women resort to this violent solution to unwanted pregnancy because they don't realize that there is life before birth or because they face overwhelming family or social pressures. Most of them are unaware that abortion is not always a safe and simple medical procedure. Doctors tell us that women can suffer disastrous physical or mental consequences when they make this desperate choice.

The "Save a Life Now" campaign will provide visual and written materials to speakers so that young people and adults can hear the kind of persuasive and compelling pro-life presentation that encourages them to value life, parenthood and responsible sexuality.

With funds from this project the highly skilled staff and volunteers of American Citizens Concerned for Life are developing appealing and informative materials like those already in great demand--the slide/tape presentation "Abortion Doublespeak" and the manual "Counseling the Individual Experiencing a Troubled Pregnancy."

The "Save a Life Now" fund will support ACCL's legislative program. This respected and effective voice for life is a central force in obtaining public funding for services to needy pregnant adolescents and their babies and in decreasing funding available for abortion. It played an important role in the passage of a bill to prohibit discrimination against pregnant workers in the areas of pregnancy leave, medical benefits and job status. Because of this one change in the law, for the first time many working women will not lose their jobs, wages or seniority if they reject abortion.

This national legislative program and the development of effective new educational materials is costly, even when much of the labor is volunteered.

The "Save a Life Now" campaign must raise $50,000 this year to reach its goals. But if just 500 women are diverted from abortion through this project, that means the cost of sparing each life is only $100.

We know that you have probably been asked to contribute to growing numbers of pro-life groups. But you can rely on ACCL's proven record of progress over the past five years. Our goals are broad-based, practical and will save lives now.

With the help of people like you we will create a caring society.
