JEWELRY AVAILABLE FOR GIFTS AND FUNDRAISING PROJECTS

The 1976 ACCL Respect Life Commemorative Medallion, as well as key rings, necklaces and paper weights incorporating the medallion, are now available for immediate shipment. These bronze and sterling silver medallions make ideal gifts and pro-life groups can purchase them in quantity at a substantial discount for resale as a fundraising project. All items are also available in 14 Karat gold for special occasion gifts or awards.

A small quantity of bronze medallions is available struck with only a front or reverse face. When mounted on an engraved brass plaque these medallions make an ideal award honoring a pro-life leader or organization. An order form for these attractive medallions is enclosed.

United Methodist Survey Finds Church Members are Dissatisfied

A survey conducted by The Interpreter magazine, national program journal of the United Methodist Church has found that members of the denomination are generally more conservative both theologically and sociologically than its programs would indicate. A recent issue of The Interpreter said that the 13,000 survey replies it received "made it clear that many United Methodists are bitterly frustrated because they feel the church doesn't listen to them when policies and programs are being shaped."

CLERGY, CONGRESSPEOPLE, LAITY JOIN IN NATIONAL PRAYER BREAKFAST FOR LIFE

Stirred by the dynamism of speaker David Allen, moved by the poignant "anniversary" message of Rep. Lindy Boggs, and uplifted by the voices of Barbara Breuer-Sipple and Susan Speight, the 650 attendees at the National Prayer Breakfast for Life joined together in an unprecedented ecumenical worship service dedicated to the preservation of human life. The event was held on January 22 in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Allen, a psychiatrist who is a native of the Bahamas and a practicing psychiatrist in Boston, said that God's view of people is timeless and He sees their worth at every stage of life. "God sees me as a fetus struggling in my mother's womb", as a young man getting ready to marry, as a person whose life is in process. "You are somebody. The fetus is somebody. The old man is somebody".

"To know your own dignity means you must treat others with respect and dignity," he said. A true pro-life attitude of offering assistance in time of need is exemplified by the establishment of homes and services for unwed mothers, Dr. Allen told the audience in his main address.

The unusual service included as participants members of Roman Catholic, Baptist, Jewish, Lutheran, Orthodox, and Methodist traditions. Concern about threats to life and dignity before birth, in sickness and old age, and under degrading conditions of poverty and hunger characterized the prayers and meditations.

Participants took note of the increasing cooperation shown by major religious groups in America on the abortion question, and hailed it as an indication of the growing strength and diversity of the pro-life movement.

In a telegram to the Breakfast assemblage, Cong. John Rhodes (R-Ariz) House Minority Leader, termed the U.S. Supreme Court decision "unfortunate" and told the pro-life workers "you are trying to do what should be done and working to undo what should not be done. It is a high calling, and I join with you in spirit in these endeavors."

Mrs. Ruth Bell Graham, wife of Billy Graham, and a sponsor of the Prayer Breakfast, and also sent a message which informed the participants of her wish for "God's special blessing" on their work.

Among those on the platform were Cong. James Obserstar (D-Mn), Cong. Lindy Boggs (D-La) the Most Rev. James S. Rausch, General Secretary U.S. Catholic Conference; the Rev. Robert Holbrook, President, Baptists for Life; Mrs. Jean Garton, Lutheran Church Missouri Synod Social Concerns Committee; Rabbi David Novak, Beth Tfiloh Congregation, Baltimore; Mrs. Marjory Mecklenburg, President, ACCL; the Rev. Calvin J. Eichhorst, Lutheran pastor (ALC), President of ForLIFE, Inc.; Judith Fink, Vice Pres., ACCL; the Rev. Imajene Stewart, Urban Evangelist, United Methodist Church, Washington, D. C.; and Bishop Dmitri, Orthodox Church in America.

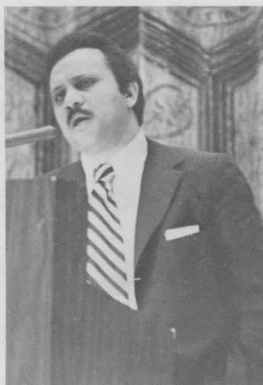

Rev. Stewart, a well known charismatic singer in the Washington area, led the Breakfast participants in singing the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" at its close.

Rabbi David Novak, Rev. Bob Holbrook, Bishop Dmitri, Rep. Lindy Boggs, Jean Garton.

Childhood in the Special Child

Nothing is so clear in this world as the glory in the special child. It shines in its hard times with words — they are songs if you listen carefully — and in his troubled walk there is a dance if you pay attention. The special child — whether or not he came into the world in agony or had that agony imposed on him by the world — that child is a blessing. It is our work to celebrate his life, his spirit, his right to grow, to be who he is. No matter how difficult that being in the world might be, the special child has a share in this world and this world must have a share in him. The special child and those who are his guardians must learn how to give life to each other and these pages will tell us with simplicity and joy how we might begin that holy task.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS NEEDS YOUR HELP

An opportunity to assist mentally retarded children by helping with the effective and well-run Special Olympics program will soon be available and should be of interest to many pro-life people.

Special Olympics is an athletic competition that provides retarded youngsters with an opportunity to experience a unique sense of achievement and self-worth. The Special Olympics will be held this summer in every state, and district competitions will be held in many large communities.

Doctors especially are needed as volunteers to give physical exams and nurses are needed to provide first aid. For several years members of Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life have greatly enjoyed cooperating in these pro-life events.

A copy of the names, addresses and telephone numbers of the 1976 State and Regional Special Olympics Directors may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Special Olympics, c/o ACCL's Minneapolis office.

U.S.A.

Dear Joe:

While I was in Mineapolis in your office, I forgot to ask you about a bicentennial medal.

Having saved your February, 1976 newsletter, I note that a silver medal as a pendant and necklace is $22.00. I enclose same and would be grateful to receive this very special medallion to commerate the bicentennial of your country and emphasize respect for Life.

Again Joe, I very much enjoyed being in Mineapolis. Hope we will meet again.

Shalom.

Yours sincerely,

Heather

AMERICAN CITIZENS CONCERNED FOR LIFE PROUDLY ANNOUNCES THE 1976 BICENTENNIAL RESPECT LIFE COMMEMORATIVE MEDAL

First in the ACCL Heritage Series of Respect Life medals, this handsome and meaningful keepsake faithfully portrays your deep concern for human life. The intricately sculptured high relief design on each 1 1/4" diameter face will command the attention of all who see its beauty. These unique medals will be minted with a rich antique finish in choice bronze, precious sterling silver or valuable and elegant 14 Karat gold — the gold and sterling editions being struck in strictly limited quantities and consecutively numbered.

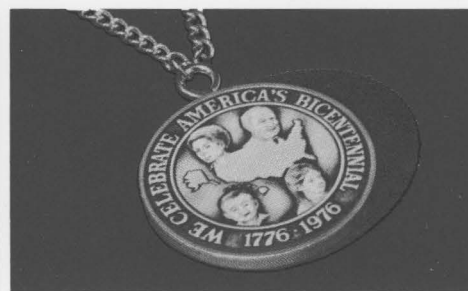

Not only are these medals available as valued collectors' items, but they are also being offered to you in three additional attractive and useful forms.

A revolutionary and durable key chain available in bronze or silver finish attached to matching medal. A practical and perfect gift for man or woman.

This distinctive and sparkling lucite paper weight highlights and permanently protects the encapsulated medal. It will make an impressive display on your desk or coffee table. 2 3/4" x 2 3/4" x 1"

Tasteful and attractive, this high quality chain link necklace with matching bronze, silver or gold pendant is truly an item to wear proudly or to give as a treasured gift.

YOUR GROUP CAN RAISE FUNDS

and tell the pro-life story at the same time by selling these exquisitely detailed commemorative medals. Your market will be virtually unlimited. Those who are concerned about the right to life, the aging, children, minority groups, women and the family will find these items especially meaningful, and the bicentennial theme has appeal for everyone.

Imagine, if your group orders just 200 bronze medals and sells them you will have over $200 profit to pay for some of the important activities you have not been able to afford. Plan now to make the Respect Life Commemorative Medal this year's fundraising project. Put in your order today for an early delivery and begin to realize a handsome profit.
