COMMENTS: Mrs. Ford will participate in the opening evening of a six-day celebration of the music of Duke Ellington.
On this evening, Alvin Ailey will launch his long-planned contribution to the Bicentennial with some sixteen ballets choreographed to Duke's compositions. The Duke Ellington Orchestra will join the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater for this engagement with guest performances by American Ballet Theatre and the Alvin Ailey Repertory Workshop.

The invitation was originally extended to Mrs. Ford by Ruth Ellington, Duke Ellington's sister, on behalf of the Dance Theater Foundation and is to be a major event in the Bicentennial celebration.

As you know, Mrs. Ford dropped by a special Duke Ellington concert held at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine when she was in New York on April 29th. Mrs. Ford will overnight and return to Washington Wednesday morning, August 11th.

Thank you.

8:00 PM. (-11:00)

Dear Ms. Porter:

As a member of the Board of Trustees of Dance Theater Foundation, Inc., I would like to extend an invitation to Mrs. Betty Ford to join us on the opening evening, Tuesday, August 10, of a six-day celebration of the music of my late brother, Edward "Duke" Ellington. On this evening, Alvin Ailey will launch his long-planned contribution to the Bicentennial at the New York State Theater at Lincoln Center with some sixteen ballets choreographed to Duke's compositions. The Duke Ellington Orchestra will join the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater for this engagement with guest performances by American Ballet Theatre and the Alvin Ailey Repertory Workshop.

The opening night program includes the Ailey Company and the Ellington Orchestra in performances of "Night Creature", choreographed by Mr. Ailey, and "Caravan", last season's popular addition to the Company repertoire, choreographed by Louis Falco, and, Judith Jamison will perform Mr. Ailey's "pas de 'DUKE'" with guest artist, Mikhail Baryshnikov.

We were delighted that Mrs. Ford joined us recently at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine to open Duke's Birthday Celebration and regret that her busy schedule did not allow her to remain with us for the entirety of that thrilling evening. Now I would like to invite Mrs. Ford to join us for this opening evening of a major event in our Nation's Bicentennial Celebration.

Very truly yours

Suggested Remarks, Ellington-Ailey Opening Night

In this very special year, we honor those original and daring dreamers who created and won our first Revolution. This marriage of the music of Duke Ellington and the dance of the Alvin Ailey Company celebrates what America cherishes most---those who reach for the stars.

In music, in dance, in all of life---it is the Revolutionaries who chart new territory for us to explore. I know we are in for a marvelous journey tonight.

Betty Ford does a few steps with superstar dancer Judith Jamison backstage before the Alvin Ailey troupe's opening night tribute to Duke Ellington. The First Lady, who once studied dancing with Martha Graham, drew enthusiastic applause from the danceers, who crowded around to shake her hand. Earlier, Mrs. Ford had told the audience of 3000 at th Lincoln Center State Theater that she was proud to "celebrate the marriage of Ellington music and Ailey dancing."
