Dear Doctor Marrs:

The Committee on Mammography & Diseases of the Breast wishes to invite you to attend the 14th Annual Conference on Detection and Treatment of Early Breast Cancer. The meeting this year has been expanded to include over 600 physicians from the nation. The Conference is sponsored by the American College of Radiology, National Cancer Institute and the American Cancer Society. The NCI is supporting 100 residents to attend this important meeting.

The Committee on Mammography will meet Wednesday, March 12, 1975 at 12:00 noon in the Carioca Room at the Americana Hotel. The Conference sessions begin Monday, March 10th and run through Friday, March 14th. If it is possible we would welcome you to meet with the committee as well as attend the sessions. You will note the faculty is composed of leaders in medicine that are specialists in the treatment and diagnosis of early cancer.

We hope it will be possible to see you in San Juan and if you or your secretary will let us know your schedule, we will arrange your hotel room and transportation in San Juan.

Sincerely,

William K. Melton
Deputy Executive Director

Dear Dr. Marrs:

As a recognized leader in the field of aging, you are cordially invited to be a delegate to our national "Symposium on Participative Management in Nursing Homes." The Department of Health Care Administration at George Washington University is co-sponsoring this significant event with AHCA which will be held on the University campus here in Washington, D. C., June 11-12, 1975.

This conference will seek to examine the problems of long-term health care from many perspectives. For this reason we are only inviting the participation of a limited number of recognized professionals from many disciplines. It will be their mission to address these problems and, hopefully, recommend workable solutions which can be implemented in the context of the individual professions as well as through changes in public policy. This goal is to be accomplished through a number of small workshop sessions. It is our intention to publish the proceedings and recommendations of this symposium and to make broad distribution of the report.

Specifically, we invite your participation in one of the workshops listed on the back page of the attached program. You will find an RSVP card enclosed. Since enrollment will be limited, please advise us as soon as possible if you are able to attend.

As a final note, we are pleased to announce that Senator Frank E. Moss, Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Long-Term Care, will be delivering the keynote address. Also, Dr. Arthur Flemming, U.S. Commissioner on Aging, will make an address at the conclusion of this two-day symposium.

We sincerely hope you can join us in this effort to find solutions to the needs of our infirm elderly.

We take pleasure in inviting you to attend the "National Bicentennial Consultation on Religion and the American Experience" to be held in Washington, D.C., on May 21 - 22, 1975. This consultation will help to insure recognition of the important role of religion in the Bicentennial and to acquaint leaders of the religious community with opportunities for participation in this national observance.

This meeting is co-sponsored by Project FORWARD '76 and the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration. A group of distinguished co-conveners joins us in issuing our Call to the Consultation.

Enclosed you will find a provisional outline of the program, a seminar preference form, a registration form, a hotel reservation form and a return-addressed envelope for your convenience in replying. We believe that spouses will also find this conference of great interest and we encourage their attendance.

The Call to the Consultation, also enclosed, expresses the significance and potential of this gathering of people of faith from many religious traditions at this Bicentennial moment of national reflection. In the spirit of that vision we express our hope that you can be with us to share your aspirations for the future of our nation in the perspective of your religious faith.

How have our religious communities influenced our national life?

How should we judge and shape this mutual influence in order to ensure that its future course will be beneficial to both religion and the nation?

We invite you to join us in a Consultation in Washington, D.C., May 21st and 22nd, to reflect on the meaning of the American experience for our respective religious traditions.

We see the Bicentennial as a unique moment in our history, challenging us to look at the past from the perspective of the present in order to build a future consistent with our ideals and responsive to the reality of the new century. An exploration by religiously committed persons has unique importance for such a process of reassessment.

Never before in the nation's history have representatives of such diverse religious communities gathered in similar consultation. We believe that the most important contribution which participants can make to the nation is to rediscover each other and to affirm the vocation which members of distinct religious traditions have within the common body politic. In our pluralistic society, undergirded by our commitment to religious freedom, we should take advantage of our great privilege and responsibility to share openly with each other our deepest convictions.

We propose to work during the Consultation both as a total group and in ten seminars. Each seminar will address a different aspect of our life as a people and as a part of the human family. Members of the seminars will offer their individual insights, speaking out of, but not on behalf of, their distinct religious communities. The objective of the seminars will be to disclose the richness of spiritual heritage available within the nation. If areas of common understanding are discovered with implications for future action, it will be the responsibility of those who share them to come together in ways which they find appropriate after and beyond the Consultation itself. Our goal is not blueprints, declarations, statements or new organizations, but that we may learn from each other.

The Seminars

The central focus of the Consultation will be in the Seminars. Approximately twenty persons, selected on the basis of their preferences, will participate in each group. Every attempt will be made to include a wide representation of diverse religious affiliation within each Seminar. Members of the Seminars will offer their individual insights, speaking out of, but not necessarily on behalf of, their distinct religious communities. The purpose will be to share our convictions and experience in order to think together, as religious persons, about the future of this Republic.

Seminar Topics

1. How do my faith and experience give me perspective on contemporary ethical dilemmas confronting our society?
2. In what way does my religious community sustain my spiritual life in today's world?
3. How do I understand the right to "the pursuit of happiness"?
4. From the standpoint of religion, what are the implications of "liberty and justice for all"?
5. Ethnic and religious unity and diversity: How do we manifest "E Pluribus Unum"?
6. Institutional power: How is it used and abused in the United States today?
7. What insights do we as religious persons bring to the phenomenon of chronic poverty and increasing concentrations of wealth in the human family?
8. What are our religious priorities for the use of the limited resources of the planet?
9. How do we view religious freedom, for ourselves and for others?
10. How do we view the phenomenon of civil religion?

Dear Dr. Marrs:

The ACT Foundation cordially invites you to attend a seminar and buffet reception on Wednesday, June 18, in Room B-339 in the Rayburn House Office Building. The seminar, which is intended to pinpoint citizen involvement in saving lives, will be conducted by the noted heart surgeon, Dr. Michael De Bakey; Dr. Malcolm Todd, president of the American Medical Association; and a cardiologist who pioneered in emergency coronary care, Dr. Leonard Cobb. We are also inviting all members of the Congress.

ACT is a nonprofit foundation. Through educational, motivational and how-to materials, we are helping communities improve their emergency medical systems.

Almost 700,000 Americans die each year of heart attacks - the largest single killer. Worse yet, over 350,000 - more than half - die before ever reaching a hospital or seeing a doctor. These tragedies should never occur, and they need not! The technology and equipment are available. Several towns and cities have already put them to use. But much more remains to be done. Thousands of lives could be saved each year.

We hope your busy schedule will permit you to join us for the buffet from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. and the seminar from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m. The buffet will be hearty and the seminar very informative.

Cordially,

Kenneth M. Webb

Dear Dr. Marrs:

The Association of American Indian Physicians would like to extend to you a personal invitation to attend the Fourth Annual Meeting in Green Bay, Wisconsin on July 16, 17 and 18 at the Holiday Inn Downtown. The theme for this years meeting is "Clinical Diseases of the American Indian."

The AAIP would appreciate your attendance and welcome your input and participation at this meeting. We have enlisted the expertise of those individuals who are knowledgeable in the area of clinical diseases among American Indians.

Registration is $25.00 per person which includes two luncheons.

If you desire further information, do not hesitate to call or write.

A copy of the tentative agenda is enclosed.

We hope to see you in July.

Sincerely,

Don Jennings
Executive Director
